Plan to Organize Blood Bank for N. W. Hospital

Mr. Peterson states that it will soon be proposed that a new, modern community Blood Bank be formed to be sponsored by some local organization. With a regular blood donor panel it will be possible to keep an adequate supply of blood on hand so that the hospital may supply all the needs for blood promptly. Such a donor organization will entirely eliminate blood penalty charges for members and their families.

It will enable the hospital to build up the blood credits necessary to obtain rare types of blood from the Minneapolis War Memorial Blood Bank. It will eliminate the present necessity of taking advantage of the willingness of too few people to perform a service which must have a large, widespread group to be successful. The need for such an organization in the area served by Northwestern Hospital is critical.

WHAT ROAD PROBLEM BOTHERS YOU MOST?

Minneapolis and State Automobile associations surveyed several hundred members regarding car, road, driver, and other automobile problems. Congestion in hearts of cities" led "Road Problems" by a goodly margin, with lack of parking facilities in second place. Narrow, curving roads, with limited vision, rated third, followed by scarcity of expressways, need for divided or multiple-lane highways, too much "billboard" advertising, waste or misuse of road funds, lack of control over land bordering highways. Asked for their own suggestions, more respondents mentioned need for one-way streets than any other item, with cheaper insurance in second place.

EXTENSION HORTICULTURISTS

FALL CLEANUP

After your vegetables are harvested and after Jack Frost has paid his visit, it's time to think of cleaning up the garden for next spring.

If disease and insects have been prevalent in the garden this past summer, it's desirable to remove the debris and burn it.

Remove dead plants and rake up old fruits of tomato, cucumber and melon that you failed to harvest. This will help prevent many volunteer plants in the garden next year.

If you did a good job in controlling pests in your garden, you should compost the refuse instead of burning it. Rake up leaves from your lawn too and add them to the refuse pile.

Start the compost pile in back of your garage or in some other secluded spot. For each 25 square feet of pile surface, apply about a pound of any complete garden fertilizer. This will hasten the decomposition of the refuse and in addition will make it more valuable as a fertilizer. Keep the top of the pile low in the center so it will collect rain water. Soaking the pile with water as it is built will help hold the refuse in place and hasten decomposition. Next spring the compost can be applied to your garden plot and flower beds as a soil conditioner and fertilizer.

Rev. Reedy and Carl Johnson motored to North Branch, Ont., Thursday morning. They brought Delores Brannan and Marlene Jewett back with them and the girls enrolled in the Strandquist high school the following day. Delores is making her home with Carl Johnsons and Marlene is staying at Albert Stromlunds. The girls are 14 and 15 years old respectively.

Mrs. Martin Peterson returned home Monday morning from her weeks visit with her daughters in Minneapolis. Her daughter Alice took very sick the same evening. They came up from Leonardwood, Mo. and had to be taken to the hospital where an operation was performed. So Mrs. Peterson said she was baby sitter all week having to take care of the Ramsey baby (her grandson) while his mother was in the hospital. Her daughter Gladys, Mrs. Wilke worked during the day, so wasn't at home.

We stopped the car and sat and watched him, he looked so proud and unafraid as he came forward and crossed the highway, then he ran a little way, but seemed to decide walking was easier, so kept on walking, but stopped at intervals to look back at us. He must have been well protected thru the years as he seemed to be quite an old fellow.

Prowlers & Detroit Lakes Tangle Friday in Homecoming Game

Coach Ralph Skjod's Prowlers scored a comparatively easy win over the Roseau Rams in an inter-district football game played at Roseau on Friday afternoon, rolling up a 40 to 7 triumph for their fourth straight win of the season.

This week the blue-and-gold will celebrate Homecoming, and the festivities will be climaxed by the Prowler vs. Detroit Lakes game on Lincoln field Friday at 8 p. m. In meeting Coach Marv Helling's Lakers, the locals will be up against one of the state's top-ranking teams. In the four games played to date, against St. Paul Cretin, Fergus Falls, Breckinridge, and Wayzata, the Lakers have recorded lop-sided victories. Last year's game between the Prowlers and the Lakers, which was the first football game to be played between the two schools, was won by Detroit Lakes, 34 to 6.

In piling up their 40 to 7 win over Roseau on Friday afternoon, the Prowlers scored six touchdowns and compiled fifteen first downs. Roseau, scoring in the final period, on pass play that carried for 55-yards, racked up three first downs during the game.

Bill Frahm recovered a Roseau fumble on the Rams' 35-yard line to set up the Prowlers' first TD. Two first downs moved the ball to the Roseau 9-yard line where Bob Helgeland, on a slant off right tackle, carried for the score. Sid Vraa's placekick added the extra point.

The Prowlers took advantage of another Roseau fumble to score early in the second period, with Lyle Guttu punching through from the 1-yard line for the score. Vraa's placekick try was off to the right of the uprights. A short kick by Roseau, from their own 4-yard line, out to the Rams' 32-yard line, led the Prowlers' third touchdown. Guttu hit right tackle for a first down on the 20-yard line, and after a five-yard offside penalty had moved the locals' back to the 25-yard line, Vraa whipped a pass to rangy Art Johnson for the score. Another pass, Vraa to Frahm, added the conversion, giving the Prowlers a 20 to 0 lead at the intermission.

Ray Berg and Dick Kruse, both of whom drove into the line for 1-yard gains, added the two Prowler TD's in the third period. A pass, Vraa to Johnson, added the point after Berg's major, and Vraa's placekick split the uprights after Kruse's score, to give coach Skjod's club a 34 to 0 lead.

The Roseau Rams averted a shutout when on a quick-snap play early in the fourth period from their 45-yard line, Norm Broten looped a long "sleeper" pass to end Dale Larson, who made the catch in the clear on the Prowlers' 30-yard line and sprinted for the south goal-line to score standing up. Broten added the point on a sweep of right end.

The Prowlers roared back after that Roseau touchdown and on a drive that began on their 32-yard line, moved down-field to score a touchdown on seven rushing plays, with Berg dashing through right tackle for the score. When Vraa's placekick was wide of the goal-posts, the Prowlers had a 40 to 7 game score.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

Borstad, a One-man Gang

Coach Ralph Skjod's football Prowlers have provided the local fans with more than the usual quota of pleasant surprises this season by defeating Red Lake Falls and East Grand Forks. There is always room for another pleasant surprise, and that could occur on Friday night when the Prowlers meet Detroit Lakes in a Homecoming tilt on the Lincoln field.

The Prowlers, in meeting Coach Marv. Helling's Lakers, will be up against much tougher competition than they had in defeating the Eagles and the Green Wave. Detroit Lakes, rated among the state's top ten, boasts one of state's outstanding fullbacks in Rich Borstad, and with the 195-pounder leading the attack, the Lakers are hoping to give Detroit Lakes its first undefeated and untied season.

While Borstad does the bulk of the power running for the Lakers, and he has enough speed to be a threat on off-tackle slants, he gets able assistance from halfbacks Lynn Parkel and Tom Day. If the Prowler line can outcharge and outspeed the bulkier Laker forwards, Borstad, Parkel, and Day may have trouble in picking up yardage. In the four games that the Lakers have played this year, it's doubtful if they have faced the fine all-round team speed that coach Skjod's squad possesses.

The locals will have plenty of incentive for winning Friday night's game. First, it's the Homecoming game, and that always brings a team "up"; and second, the boys will be trying to get the game into the win column for their newly-elected co-captains, Lyle Guttu and Darold Dalton.

In honoring halfbacks Lyle Guttu and end Darold Dalton with the co-captaincy, the Prowlers selected a pair of splendid competitors. Lyle, who is plagued by a chronic ankle injury, is a 100% team-man, and he is an inspirational type of leader. Darold, in spite of being a "light" 150-pounder, has made a specialty of playing defensive end in the opposing team's offensive backfield. Our congratulations are offered to Lyle and Darold, and to the Prowler lettermen who elected the boys to the co-captaincy.

Winnipeg keeps Bud, Ralph and Dave

October 1st was the deadline for the Canadian football teams to make their choices of the American "imports" that were to remain on the team rosters for the balance of the season. The Winnipeg Blue Bombers selected quarterbacks Jack Jacobs and Joe Zaleski, fullbacks Ralph McAllister and Neil Armstrong. That means that Bill Bye was dropped from the squad.

It was thought that Billy, on a spectacular exhibition of all-round play against the Regina Roughriders ten days ago, had earned himself a position on the squad, but a serious leg injury put him out of action for the year. Bill entered the hospital last week when a thigh muscle, injured in Regina, suddenly hemorrhaged. The Winnipeg club's physicians stated that Bye would be out of action for at least six weeks, and by that time Canadian football, for this year, will be in the record books.

Of those "imports" named by the Blue Bombers, Grant, McAllister, and Skrein are former University of Minnesota football stars. Grant and McAllister were cinches to make the Bomber squad, but Skrein's selection came as a surprise. Skrein, a captain of the 1950 Gopher football team, had had a trial with Regina, but had been given his release without playing a minute with the Roughriders. Skrein reported to Bomber coach George Trafton and, after playing as line-backer against Regina, was given a job.

Making Like the Yankees

Al Holzknecht's Northern Chevrolet team, bowling in the Tuesday night Business league, is, after the first two weeks of the schedule, undefeated. They have ideas of becoming the league's Yankees, and with such high-average bowlers as Phil LeGault, Wally and Jess DuChamp, Emil Dostal, and Berdeen Nornes on the squad, they may give their idea some substance.

Al, who has subsidized the team to the extent of providing uniforms is pretty proud of his boys. We'll give Wally, Jess, Emil, Berdeen and Phil fair warning, though, for if they lose as much as one game or one match, Al will put the outfit back in his used-car lot. Al will be a hard task-master.

10-man Board for Hockey Is Elected

Votes to Continue in Northwest Hockey Loop

At an organization meeting held at the Auditorium on Wednesday night, a ten-man board of directors was named to direct the city's senior hockey program this season.

Elected to three-year terms were Bill LaFave, Len Goulet, and Charles Krause; selected for two-year terms were Orrin Hall, Art Dicken, and Harry Hendrickson; and named to one-year terms were Don Bell, Irv Wilson, Lloyd Spray, and Henry Bolte of Grygla.

Preceding the election of the directors, the group, by a near-unanimous vote, agreed that it was worth the effort to provide the fans with senior hockey this year, and that the local club should continue as a member of the Northwest Hockey league.

The board of directors, at a meeting to be held this week, will select the executive officers for the 1953-54 season, and will also name a league representative.

Forest Tree Stock Available for 1954

Plans for the sale and distribution of about 16 million forest tree stock to be planted next spring was announced today by Raymond Clement, forester in charge of state nurseries and tree planting.

A letter of information has been sent to 93 county agricultural agents (several have more than one agent) advising that an original minimum allotment of 42,400 trees has been made for sale in their county.

About 5 million trees—1,500,00 hardwood such as elm, ash and soft maple and 3,500,000 conifer such as pines and spruces are to be sold at cost for planting on privately owned lands. Any landowner interested in a reforesteration program for his land should contact the county agricultural agent or forestry representative and complete his order as soon as possible. The orders or requests for trees will be forwarded to the St. Paul office and entered as received. In case of shortage of one or more kinds of trees, the first orders will be filled and substitutions will have to be made for additional requests.

The applicant must give the full legal description of the land on which the trees are to be planted and order at least 100 of each kind of tree and a total of 500 in each order. Money orders for the total cost must be sent with the requests and the dead-line for all tree orders has been set as February 1, 1954.

There will be available Norway, white and Jack pines, white and black spruce, white and red cedar and tamerac. The deciduous trees, those that drop their leaves in the fall, are elm, green ash, soft maple, caragana and black walnut seed. Cost of the tree stock will be $10.00 a thousand for the conifers and $8.00 a thousand for the deciduous or hardwoods.

N. W. School Plans Turkey Day Oct. 27

Poultry Problems to Be Discussed by Experts

The second annual Turkey Day will be held at the Northwest School and Experiment Station, Crookston, on Tuesday, October 27, at 2:00 p. m. Superintendent T. M. McCall of the Northwest experiment station states that leading poultry experts from Minnesota and Manitoba, Canada, will be on the program.

The delegation from the Minnesota experiment station, University Farm, St. Paul, will be headed by T. H. Fenske, assistant dean, Institute of Agriculture. Others from the Central Minnesota experiment station include: H. J. Sloan, Director; E. L. Johnson, new chief of the department of poultry husbandry; and B. S. Pomeroy, division of veterinary medicine.

Two prominent poultry men from Winnipeg have been invited to speak on the program, D. C. Foster, extension poultryman, department of agriculture, Manitoba; and Professor George Hodgson, head of the department of poultry husbandry, University of Manitoba, will report on turkey projects for their provine.

A. M. Pilkey, poultryman at the Northwest School and experiment station, will report on the 1953 turkey feeding and turkey disease control projects and will summarize the results of the past three years of project work with turkeys.

Following the speaking program, which will be held in the Northwest School auditorium, a tour will be made of the turkey feeding yards in which the poultrymen will have a chance to see the turkeys in the different experimental lots. Some 600 turkeys were used in the project this year.

86 Traffic Deaths During September Set Tragic Record

Department of Highways Reports 476 Fatalities in 1st Nine Months of '53

At the very time that all Minnesota was regrouping forces for a concerted attack upon the causes of traffic accidents, motorists ground out a new and shocking all-time record of 68 people killed on the state's streets and highways during the month of September.

The appalling figures are disclosed in the preliminary monthly report of the department of highways. The department glumly predicts the September toll will go still higher because of the number of critically injured September accident victims still fighting for life in hospitals. The highest traffic death toll for any previous month in Minnesota's history was recorded 19 years ago when 83 fatalities occurred in September of 1934.

The 86 deaths during the past month also served to establish a new nine-month total for Minnesota traffic deaths with 476 fatalities. Last year, by way of contrast, there were 374 deaths during the first nine months of the year.

Sixteen multiple-death accidents resulted in 40 deaths and were a very important factor in setting the new high totals in traffic deaths. Ten of these accidents were collisions between two or more vehicles and caused 24 deaths; two were railroad grade crossing accidents and brought death to eight motorists; two vehicles ran off the roadway and killed four people; one car hit a bridge abutment and killed two passengers and two youngsters were killed when struck down by motor vehicles out of control.

"Many Minnesotans," said Arthur V. Rohweder, president of the Minnesota Safety Council, "are greatly concerned with the alarming upward surge of motor vehicle accidents and deaths. Hundreds of suggestions whose aims are a reduction in accidents on our streets and highways have been received by Governor Anderson and me. Many more, I am sure, will be presented to the state-wide meeting called for Friday afternoon by Governor Anderson to study this very serious problem and consider, every suggestion which might result in the saving of lives."

MANY BEGS IN ONE ASKIT

Each year, in recent years, it has been increasingly difficult to get a Community Chest drive organized. There seems to be a steadily diminishing enthusiasm for this highly important community effort and there is some talk of abandoning it altogether.

This attitude is probably due to a realization that the Community Chest is not accomplishing its main objective of concentrating all regular solicitations into one drive—putting "all the begs into one askit." Several organizations have refused to be a part of this concentrated drive and insist on setting up their own soliciting organizations, which they of course have a right to do.

But those who give also have the right to determine how they wish to give, and if the givers decided that they would support only one big annual drive and would limit their contributions of time and money to one big effort they also would be acting within their rights. And so, in the final analysis, this question of whether we are going to have one drive or twenty is a matter for the givers to decide.

It is too late now to do anything about changing this year's procedure. We will have to go thru with the many duplications of effort as best we can and hope for one more year of reasonably satisfactory results. But we should get ourselves better organized for another year—or give up the idea of organization altogether.

Right now we have an immediate problem of making this year's Community Chest successful. Deserving organizations are counting on this drive to support their next year's program of activities and we must not let them down. Keep in mind that your one contribution supports many activities and give accordingly.

COMPARING TAXES

The Minnesota department of taxation has released figures on the taxes assessed and paid in the municipalities of the state and these figures make some interesting comparisons possible. They show the wide range between the extremes of assessed valuation due to unusual conditions. The high per capita taxes paid in Iron Range communities, for instance, do not mean that the individuals living in those communities are making big sacrifices. The large tax contributions of special industries may distort the figures and this factor must be considered in making comparisons. Where there are no unusual factors however the comparative figures do indicate quite correctly the comparative contribution of the average citizen to the cost of government.

From the report of the tax department we have selected a few cities that can be used for comparative purposes with Thief River Falls. The figures below are in part self explanatory. The total assessed valuation includes both real estate and personal property, less the $100 exemption, and the amount levied includes the taxes for state, county, school district and local purposes.

THEY ARE YOUR LOSSES

This is Fire Prevention Week, so designated for the purpose of reminding us of the unnecessarily high cost of fires. The costs are unnecessarily high because most of the fires are due to carelessness. And whether or not it is your property that is destroyed by fire those costs are charged up to you—your proportionate share of them.

Whether or not you personally suffered a fire loss during the past year you nevertheless have been damaged. The cost of that damage has been partially distributed through insurance. You have paid a part of the damage thru the diminished national wealth.

Fire prevention is the special problem of each one of us. Whether it is the home, the factory, the forest, the industry; regardless of what kind of property is destroyed or who owns it, and whether or not the loss is covered in whole or in part by insurance, we all share in the cost of that property destruction.

That is the dollars and cents reason for preventing fires. A still more important reason for preventing them is the suffering they bring through death and injury. The annual death toll and the suffering and high cost of permanent or temporary injury and disability are staggering figures.

Preventing fires is your problem—a problem in self-protection.

Adlai Stevenson and Ike Eisenhowdr had lunch together the other day and that was good public relations not only for them individually but also for our country as a whole. It served notice on a lot of people thruout the world, who have been hoping that we would kill ourselves off with internal strife, that we are able to work together even if we do not always agree among ourselves on political issues. It pointed up the fact too that on the main issues we are a united nation. That fact doesn't weaken our position in dealing with those who do not like us.

National Employ the Physically Handicapped Week gets a sympathetic nod from one and all. The once-a-year special recognition is justified. But the approach to this problem should not be based solely on sympathy. As we help the handicapped to help themselves we help ourselves too, in a very practical way. As they are able to help themselves they do not need our help. As a practical solution to this perpetual problem greater emphasis is now placed on rehabilitation of injured persons, providing special training that will enable them to perform useful services and become self supporting.

Cause for Concern

Letters poured into our office this week, pledging support for the effort to reduce the toll which automobile accidents are taking in Minnesota. On no other development since I became Governor have citizens of the state expressed so much concern. With deaths from auto accidents running far ahead of last year, increasing numbers of people, it is apparent, have come to the conclusion that strong measures must be taken to halt the slaughter.

Many of the letters have come from homes where tragedy has struck. Typical of many was the experience of a Minnesota man and his wife. He wrote:

"Our two most prized possessions in this world were taken from us by a drunken driver at the wheel of a speeding car. They were our only children, one 12 and the other 6. I was the first to reach my youngest child, who was thrown from the car by the impact. I picked her up from the shoulder of the highway. She never saw me. She died in my arms as I held her.

"I then lifted my oldest child from the back seat of the wrecked car and laid her in the grass at the side of the road. She didn't recognize me. She thought it was her mother. The last words she spoke were: 'I prayed, Mommy.'"

"The average person reads of this and other accidents in the papers just as I used to do. I would read of the tragedies and feel sorry for the people who lost their loved ones. I never in my wildest dreams ever thought it could happen to us, but it did, and it can happen to you or any other parent who might read this letter."

Man Hasn't Kept Up

I can sense in this letter and others that come to my desk a determination to end this slaughter. Appalled by the 30% increase in deaths from automobile accidents in this state over last year, many men and women have been doing some serious thinking. Many have written to me long letters analyzing reasons for the accidents and setting forth worthwhile suggestions to reduce the fatalities.

One man said that in "our local community it is amazing to see that probably less than 50% of the people driving cars turn, for example, from the proper lane, look in the rear view mirror or recognize in any other way that someone may be behind them. This is a carryover from the days when cars were 15 miles apart and most driving was done in country lanes. In other words, the development of riding habits has remained in the horse and buggy day, while the advances in automobile manufacture have progressed to the high point they have reached today." Another said: "It is obvious that the speedy, powerful machines are forging ahead of man's physical and mental ability to handle them."

Heavier Penalties Urged

Many of those who wrote in said that penalties usually meted out to drunken drivers are too light and should be increased. Most of them thought a small fine is not effective. Even a jail sentence is not always sufficient, some of the correspondents reported. One writer said bluntly: "Putting the drunken driver in jail or fining him $200 is not the answer. Take the drunken drivers out of the cars." Impound the cars of the drunken drivers, a number said. Roofs should be removed from penalties for drunken and careless driving and driving without a license, others pointed out.

Many of the persons writing me say that speed is a big factor in many of the accidents. One man said that speed is about 90% of all accidents. Another writer says "over 50%." A woman observes: "As long as cars are built to travel 100 miles an hour, drivers will try them out to see if they will go that fast, and no one, drunk or sober, can have control over a car at that speed." Quite a number said that manufacturers should be required to put governors on cars, limiting their speed to 60 miles an hour. A few said the limit should be 50 miles, and some would cut it to 35 or 40. A few thought speed is not a major cause of accidents.

You do a better job . . . and you do it easier with MM Hi-Klearance Plows. Their greater clearance, 23½" between share points and beam, 26½" between share points, helps eliminate your trash problems . . . greater lift prevents dragging trash or stubble at the end of rows, lets you plow deeper when necessary, makes transport and turning easier.

MM Hi-Klearance Plows are built for strength and durability to meet the needs of modern, high-speed plowing. Longer landslides on the rear bottom act as rudder for entire plow keeping it in alignment with line of travel. Heat-hardened, Carburized shares give you longer plowing life. An adjustable hitch allows you to use Hi-Klearance Plows with all makes of tractors. Friction or Spring Trip hitches, standard equipment with Hi-Klearance Plows, protect shares and beams if plow strikes hidden obstacle.

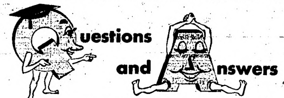
IT'S 2400° INSIDE THIS KILN which is processing taconite near Virginia, Minnesota! James Lloyd rides a 45-foot long boring bar to break clinkers off the kiln's inner walls. Inside the kiln taconite concentrates are being cooked to form nodules or balls, hard enough to ship to the blast furnace. Processing like this is complicated and costly—but it's an important phase of ore conservation to extend the life of the industry in this state. Taconite and low grade ores can keep the iron ranges working for generations to come. That is, if the concentrated products can be delivered at the steel mills at costs competitive with ores from other areas.

MEMO TO ADVERTISERS



about NEWSPAPER ADVERTISING

Q. What are the 3 most important rules for profitable newspaper advertising?

A. 1. Your advertising message should be newsy, friendly, informative, easy to read. Give facts and news about your merchandise and service.

2. Advertise regularly. Make your advertising do what successful salesmen do—call on customers and prospects consistently.

3. Insist on audited circulation reports that give you the FACTS about the audience that your sales messages will have when you buy newspaper advertising.

Q. Is there a measure for the value of newspaper circulation to an advertiser such as the standards a merchant uses in buying merchandise—for example, like STERLING on silver?

A. Yes—in the well known circulation standards of the AUDIT BUREAU OF CIRCULATIONS.

Q. What is the A.B.C.?

A. The A.B.C. is a cooperative, non-profit association of 3,450 advertisers, advertising agencies and publishers in the United States and Canada. Organized in 1914. Brought order out of advertising chaos by establishing a definition for paid circulation, rules and standards for measuring, auditing and reporting the circulations of newspapers and periodicals.

Q. What does A.B.C. do for me?

A. At regular intervals one of the Bureau's large staff of experienced circulation auditors makes a thorough audit of the circulation records of each publisher member. The results of each audit are published in an easy-to-read A.B.C. report for your use and protection when you buy newspaper advertising.

Q. What are the FACTS in A.B.C. reports?

A. A.B.C. reports tell you how much circulation, where it goes, how obtained and other FACTS that help you buy advertising as you would make any sound business investment—on the basis of known values and audited information.

Q. Are all publications eligible for A.B.C. membership?

A. No. Only those with paid circulation. This is important to advertisers because it is evidence that the paper is wanted and read.

Q. Is this newspaper a member of the Audit Bureau of Circulations?

A. Yes. We are proud of our circulation. We want you to know the FACTS about the audience your selling messages will have when they appear in these pages. Ask for a copy of our latest A.B.C. report.

$1,057.35 Bill Paid

"After my long 68 day stay in the hospital," Miss Gertrude Sjoberg, 5505 Park Avenue, Minneapolis said, "I could hardly believe it when I had to pay only $25 for my care. My room and board and all the hospital services I needed amounted to $1,082.35."

"Imagine," she said, "under my Blue Cross $25 Deductible contract, they paid $1,057.35. Blue Shield provided benefits for my doctor bills."

Only two health-care plans could provide Miss Sjoberg such comprehensive protection . . . Minnesota Blue Cross and Blue Shield. The Blue Cross plan for hospital care is sponsored by 169 Minnesota hospitals. Over 2,600 Minnesota Doctors actively participate in the Blue Shield plan for medical care. Both are non-profit plans, organized under Minnesota laws.

These plans were founded to provide the finest hospital-medical care protection to all who need it at a low cost which they can afford. "I'll never be without this wonderful safeguard for my health care protection," Miss Sjoberg says.

Complete free details on these comprehensive hospital-medical care plans may be obtained by writing directly to Blue Cross-Blue Shield, Dept. WP-9, 2610 University Avenue, St. Paul 14, Minnesota. There is no obligation. No salesman will call.

Here is a picture of Main Street, Typicaltown, U.S.A. It is a glimpse of any town—our town. Its busy thoroughfare lined with shops of all kinds signifies the free business life which American communities enjoy.

To change this scene is unthinkable. And yet, this very picture is endangered by the many evils that haunt our land today. Atheism, communism, crime, and delinquency fill the air, and there are wars—and "rumors of wars."

To combat these enemies, we need love, fellowship, tolerance, and understanding—and the source of such weapons is to be found in the Church.

In order to equip more people with the banners of Christianity, in order to bring us all a fuller realization that the Church can save the things we hold dear, there will appear in this newspaper each week a series of religious pages. They will contain beautiful, human-interest pictures, and the brief, colorful stories will serve us all as reminders of our religious obligations.

This series is part of a nation-wide campaign designed to stimulate and renew interest in the Church—a need which concerns the very nature of our living.

And the people making this program possible, in cooperation with this newspaper, are those whose shops and establishments line the streets of our town. At the bottom of these pages is a list of names—the laymen and businessmen who feel the necessity for bringing the Church within the vision and grasp of more people.

To do this is to strengthen our way of life, to better it, and to make it more secure against the forces which seek its destruction.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Roseau Man Is Named State Butter Champ

Clifford Skime, manager of the Farmers' Cooperative Creamery Company, Roseau, Minnesota, was today named "Minnesota Champion Buttermaker for 1953." This honor was earned by Skime when he came through with an average of 99.26 in the four state-wide contests for 1953. These contests are held each year to determine the state champion and are jointly sponsored by the Minnesota Department of Agriculture, Dairy and Food, the Minnesota State Fair and the Minnesota Creamery Operators' and Managers' association. Skime, 37 years of age, has been actively engaged in the dairy industry for 16 years. In addition to this new honor which he has won, Mr. Skime has won many honors for buttermaking skill and is known as an outstanding manager and leader in Minnesota's dairy industry.

All buttermakers in the state are eligible to enter the four contests. To win is considered one of the highest honors which can be obtained by any buttermaker, since the competition is keen, and many skilled men participate.

Skime was honored this week at the Hotel Lowry, St. Paul, where the Minnesota Creamery Operators' and Managers' association is holding its sixtieth annual convention. He will receive trophies, money awards and other honors.

Sharing honors with Mr. Skime will be Arnold Haukebo, Vergas, who won the fourth and final contest of the state-wide series with the phenomenal score of 100 points. Previous winners of the much coveted perfect score of 100 have been G. R. Wetter of Foley, 1945; Robert Anderson, Almelund, 1949; Arthur Nickel, Pequot Lakes, 1951; H. H. Muckala, Bagley, 1951; and J. Kenneth Conner, Lakeville, June of 1953.

Start Bible Camp on Shore of Lake Bronson Recently

Camp Is Sponsored by Luther League Group of Lutheran Free Church

The cornerstone was laid on August 31 for the construction of the Galilee Lutheran Bible Camp, located on the shores of Lake Bronson east of the present cabin site already developed. The camp is being built under the auspices of the Luther League Federation of the Thief River Falls district of the Lutheran Free Church.

A Bible Camp Association has been incorporated with the following officers: President, L. Vagle, Lake Bronson; secretary, Joseph Jacobson, Wannaska; and treasurer, H. C. Haugen, Newfolden. The property consists of approximately 30 acres adjoining the lake which will be a distinct advantage from a recreational standpoint.

The parish workers have labored hard the past weeks clearing the land, building a road to the property and otherwise laying the ground work for the spacious dining hall which is rapidly taking shape.

Pastor E. J. Raanum, former pastor of the Newfolden parish and the first chairman of the committee, assisted at the cornerstone laying. The dining hall will be 24 feet wide and 70 feet long and is of wood construction. A kitchen will adjoin the building to the east.

A boys' and girls' dormitory will be built soon and has been designed as a motel type. The dining hall will be completed this fall. When completed the camp will provide accommodations for 150 students. Conrad Vagle of Lake Bronson is in charge of construction work.

USO Is Supported by the Community Chest Campaign

Servicemen's Agency to Stage No Separate Drive in Pennington County

All Minnesotans who have at heart the welfare of those serving in the national defense program will approve and support that statewide October USO-United Defense Fund campaign to raise $387,276, its share in the national activities in 1954, Josiah E. Brill, state chairman, declared on the eve of the opening of the campaign. Orvis Olen is local chairman.

In this community the USO appeal is being conducted as a part of the Pennington county Community Chest drive, currently in progress.

Endorsements of the campaign have been made by the state commanders and auxiliary presidents of the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars in a special letter to every post in the state.

President Eisenhower said at the annual meeting of the United Defense Fund, "The U. S. O. is one of the great agencies sustaining morale. I know what it means to a soldier in a lonely land—in a strange land—to have around him something that means home, something in the way of entertainment, something in the way of a hot dog or a Coca Cola, or whatever, that brings him back closer to those, surroundings and those people with whom he has lived—where his heart is."

At present there are 265 USO clubs and lounges serving military personnel here and abroad. The demand for USO Camp Shows has been stepped up since the Korean truce at the request of General Mark Clark. Our men will have to stay in that region quite a while and it is during this trying period the USO is of greater value than ever before.

Weds at Faith

At a candlelight ceremony Friday evening, August 28, at St. Olaf Lutheran church at Faith, Miss Doris Elaine Christensen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Christensen of Twin Valley, became the bride of Arlin Robert Wiger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Wiger, also of Twin Valley. The ceremony was performed before an altar banked by candles and large baskets of gladioli. Large bouquets of gladioli on the organ and piano and pews decorated with orchid and white bows, green ferns and orchid sweetpeas were also a part of the decoration. The church was decorated by Mrs. Louis Ramsey of Twin Valley.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of white slipper satin, fashioned with a strapless bodice and cut entrain, a chantilly lace fitted tunic jacket with Peter Pan collar and Mary Stuart sleeves, and cut with a scalloped bottom edge that came to a point in back. Her fingertip veil of imported French silk illusion was held in place by a hat of satin and lace. She wore a two-strand pearl necklace and earrings, a gift from the groom. She carried a white Bible topped with an orchid.

Miss Edna Sebian of Bathgate, N. Dak., a friend of the bride, was maid of honor. Her ballerina length gown of light green taffeta was fashioned with a scalloped neckline and a full net overskirt gathered into a large bow. She wore a matched taffeta and net headband and carried a white satin basket filled with salmon gladioli. Mrs. Robert Christensen, sister-in-law of the bride, was bridesmaid. Her orchid gown was identical to the maid of honor's. She wore a matching net headband, and carried a white satin basket filled with white gladioli and orchid larkspur. Virginia Shimotso of Gary, cousin of the bridegroom, was junior bridesmaid. Her ballerina length gown of champagne with a coral overskirt was identical to the other attendants. She wore a matching coral net headband and wristlets and carried a white satin basket of coral gladioli with creme centers.

Karen Christensen, niece of the bride, was miniature bride. She wore a white taffeta gown with a net overskirt, and short white veil, and carried a small white testament, topped with a miniature orchid. Cheryl and Janice Christensen, nieces of the bride, were flower girls, and wore identical taffeta and net gowns of pink and turquoise, respectively. They wore matching headbands and wristlets, and carried small baskets of rose petals which they scattered down the aisle. Donald Christensen Jr. was the ring-bearer.

Elwood Wiger, brother of the groom, was best man. Robert Christensen, brother of the bride was groomsman and Ronald Christensen of Detroit Lakes was junior groomsman. Ushers were Merrill Christensen and Harvey Wiger.

The brides mother wore a navy silk crepe dress with navy and pink accessories and the groom's mother wore a navy blue crepe dress with white accesories. Both wore corsages of pink roses and white carnations.

Following the ceremony a reception for 150 guests was held in the church parlors.

A four-tier wedding cake, baked and decorated by Mrs. Donald Christensen centered the serving table. Mrs. Clayton Skaurud had charge of the guest book, Miss Valborg Huglen of Newfolden and Miss Ruth Thompson of Clearbrook, the gift table. Mrs. Joe Lehr of Noblesville, Ind., and Mrs. Sophia Syring of Anoka, aunts of the bride, cut and served the cake. Mrs. Henry Guglie of Ulen, aunt of the groom, poured. Waitresses were Shirley Nelson, Bernice Hofstad, Carol Olson, Carolyn Lefstad, Wanda Benson and Luverne Slette. In charge of refreshments were Miss Judith Tastad, Mrs. Olaf Shol, Mrs. Sanford Aamoth, Mrs. Alfred Slette and Miss Tumina Slette.

The couple left for a short wedding trip along the North Shore Drive. For travel the bride wore a two-piece blue dress with black accessorie. They will be at home on a farm west of Twin Valley.

The bride is known to many residents of this community, having taught school here for some time. Best wishes, from all of us.

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

Institute of Child Welfare, University of Minnesota

Another Look at The "No"

One of the first words acquired by a baby is "no." It is also a word that two or three year olds seem to find especially useful; in fact, its use at this age is so common that many psychologists refer to this period as a "negativistic stage."

Perhaps one reason the child learns to use "no" so readily is that he hears it used by his parents quite frequently. As soon as he has learned to walk, he can use walking to toddle his way into all sorts of mischief—not mischief from his point of view, because he doesn't yet appreciate what things are permitted and what things are forbidden, but definitely mischief from the parental point of view. As he explores the house and its furnishings with his newly acquired freedom of movement, his mother is very likely to put a stop to each new adventure with a "No" directed at him.

It is also likely that this will be a very effective "No," reinforced with action when necessary; the things his mother is forbidding him to do are things she really means, and with which she persists. Consequently his learning of "No" is more than just the word—he also has a chance to see how someone else makes it "stick."

The two year old acquires the "No" habit is partly responding too, to his discovery of independence and a sense of personal identity. He finds out, at about this age, that he can do things himself, and his greatest joy is in activity. The "doing" is unskilled, awkward, slow — from the adult point of view; from the child's point of view, it must be tremendously satisfying to be "doing" on one's own instead of passively seeing others in action.

Parents can minimize problems by their own behavior. One need not clear the living room of all furniture in order to make possible for the toddler a fair degree of freedom. Redirecting his attention, substituting another activity, or simply stopping him without using the verbal "No" can cut down their own use of the word, and will probably help decrease the refusals he later makes.

See how Thief River Falls' telephone service has grown since 1945

- Telephones have increased 49%, with 2,760 new in service.
- Local calls have increased 62%.
- Long distance calls have increased 53%.
- We've spent $351,505 in Thief River Falls for improvement and expansion of your telephone service.

Each day at our local plant some 14,814 telephone calls are custom-made for Thief River Falls telephone users. Manufacturing these calls, maintaining and adding to our present telephone equipment keeps us busy 24 hours a day, every day in the year—and makes us one of the busiest industries in town.

Our industry is important, too, in Thief River Falls' economy:

AS AN EMPLOYER, the telephone company is one of the town's largest. In 1953, Thief River Falls' 37 telephone workers will earn about $101,800—which will buy a lot of groceries, clothing and other goods and services from Thief River Falls businessmen.

AS A TAX PAYER, total tax payments on our operations in Minnesota are about $12,758,000 a year.

AS A DIVIDEND PAYER, we provide income to 11,900 Minnesotans, some of them here in Thief River Falls who have invested their savings in telephone securities.

AS A PUBLIC SERVANT, this Company provides a service vital to Thief River Falls' social and business life. Each day 14,814 local and long distance calls keep Thief River Falls' industry rolling.

As citizens, the Company and its employees support activities for the general good of Thief River Falls.

OUR LAND

Prepared by the Minnesota Soil Conservation Service in cooperation with University Farm, St. Paul

Planning Cropping Program Pays

The major objective of the cropping program on livestock farms is to provide, consistent with economy, the maximum amount of the right kinds of livestock feed, at the same time conserving and improving the soil for sustained and increased future productivity. W. M. Myers, head of the University of Minnesota agronomy department, says three things must be taken into account in a cropping plan: (1) what kinds of feed are required and in what proportions, (2) what cropping system will give maximum economical production of the necessary kinds of feed and (3) what cropping system is best for the land.

Grass Cuts Water Loss

Vernie Born, Carver County Soil Conservation District chairman of Sologne, lives on an exceptionally hilly and rolling farm and used to recover some of his seed corn in the form of well-fed bullheads caught in the lake into which part of his farm drains. "But those days are gone," Vernie says. This summer the last small acreage was prepared for grass seeding and now all the farm will be in grass. Vernie's neighbor, who has land between Born's farm and the lake, has noticed the difference, too. He used to get a lot of water rushing down through his farm from Born's land, but even with the heavy rainfall of the last three years, there hasn't been "any runoff to speak of."

What About Fall Plowing?

For best results next year plow heavy soil this fall, says Harold E. Jones, extension soils specialist with the University. Spring plowing heavy soils does not permit good seedbed preparation. In fall plowing, however, don't make the mistake many farmers made in the fall of 1952 by plowing soil when it is dry, Jones warns. The cost of plowing was very high and soil tilth was damaged in some cases. If fields are sloping enough to cause water erosion, delay plowing heavy soils until spring, he says. Spring plowing sandy soils is generally advised.

French coal production in 1952 set an all-time record of 57,300,000 metric tons, about one-eighth of U. S. total bituminous production last year.

THIEF RIVER FALLS, MINN.

Officials to Discuss Road Matters Oct 21.

The Minnesota highway study commission will hold a two-day public hearing on October 21 and 22 in the auditorium of the state office building, St. Paul. Government officials who are concerned with highway, road and street policies in the state, counties, townships and municipalities will be invited to discuss their problems and suggest procedures to correct them.

The government officials at the various levels of government will be invited to discuss their commission what they consider to be their most important highway "needs." It is expected that major requests will be made for more new construction, better maintenance or snow removal. But there will be many other "needs" problems brought to the attention of the commission, including road signs and signals, bridges, culverts and other drainage, traffic policing, lighting, parking facilities and other necessary elements in an up-to-date, safe highway system. The commission will obtain first-hand information from the men on the firing line who propose and conduct the programs for trunk highways, state aid roads, county roads, county aid roads, town roads, and street and roads within municipalities.

The officials will be expected to discuss their intergovernmental relationships, how the counties, townships and municipalities can work together and in coordination with the state to build and maintain the best roads for the citizens of the state.

After the various groups have stated their individual cases on needs and made suggestions on improving governmental relationships, the commission will ask their opinion on the big question: How would you propose to adequately finance the roads which we need?

On October 21 the commission will hear the State Highway representatives in the morning session and the county representatives in the afternoon session. On October 22 the township and metropolitan representatives will be heard in the morning and the municipalities will make their presentation in the afternoon.

The commission will hold a meeting in November for the highway user groups. All citizens have been invited to submit their suggestions to the commission office, 202 State Capitol, St. Paul 1, or to any member of the commission.

2 Missionaries at Tabernacle

REV. DERRICK HILLARY

REV. DAVID T. SCOTT

Rev. David T. Scott and Rev. and Mrs. Derrick S. Hillary are scheduled for a two evening missionary convention at the Assemblies of God Tabernacle, Monday and Tuesday, October 12 and 13, according to Robert Abbott, pastor.

Rev. Scott has returned after six years in Peru, where, in addition to his missionary activities for the Assemblies of God, he experienced the great Cuzco earthquake, an Indian uprising, and suffered imprisonment because of the Gospel.

Rev. and Mrs. Hillary and daughter went to India in 1938. Upon returning shortly to the field, they will be giving full time to conducting a radio broadcast on a 100,000 watt station in Ceylon reaching throughout India, North Africa, the Mediterranean area, and across Europe to England and Scandinavia.

These missionaries will show colored slides of their respective lands. The services will be held at 8:00 p. m. both evenings. The public is invited.

Civil Defense in State Gets Funds

$203,752 Federal Funds Allocated to Minnesota

Colonel F. B. Miller, Minnesota director of civil defense, has been notified by the federal civil defense administration that Minnesota has been allocated $203,752 as its share of 1954 federal contributions for civil defense, provided the funds are matched dollar for dollar by the state or local communities.

Special emphasis was placed on completion of the siren program within the St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth areas. If necessary, 50% of the state allocation will go towards completion of the siren program in the target areas.

Local Civil Defense Directors throughout the state were notified in a special bulletin of availability of funds in the purchase of communications, medical, rescue, welfare equipment, and training and Education. There will be no contributions made toward purchase of fire equipment during fiscal year 1954, Miller stated.

He added, "Congress has made these funds available to Minnesota with special emphasis placed on the early completion of the air defense warning system. Adequate sirens within the target areas will reduce casualties if the people are properly warned of the possibility of an attack."

Many Improper Applications for Drivers Licenses

Many Minnesota motorists are causing additional, unnecessary work for the already overburdened drivers license division of the state highway department by failing to make proper application for renewals of their driving license, according to E. P. Lee, supervisor of the division.

"Many holders of licenses," he said, "are sending the required fees to us without a completed application blank for renewal of for a change of address or name. This results in further correspondence with the applicants and adds to our employees' work load. In one day, for instance, as many as 250 such improper applications have been received."

No fees of any kind, Lee stated, should be sent to the drivers license division without the proper application blank. These blanks, he said, can be obtained from any clerk of district court or his authorized agents or from the department of highways.

"Receipt of a notice that your present license will expire within 30 days," he concluded, "is a warning that you should obtain a renewal blank, complete it as indicated and then remit the fee of one dollar to your clerk of district court, or to the state highway department."

A. E. Strandquist Office Manager of Marshall Co. PMA

County Chairman Gets Assignment to Full-time Position with Agency

A. E. Strandquist, veteran member of the Marshall County Production and Marketing committee during the past four years, resigned his position on the committee Thursday to accept the new position as office manager.

He will be succeeded as committee chairman by Emil Anderson, Rosewood farmer, with Fred Field, Stephen, being elevated to the post of vice chairman and Yngve Berggren, Strandquist, who has served as first alternate, taking the third member of the committee position.

Mr. Strandquist assumed the office managership on October 5. His appointment was approved by the county committee and Selvin Erickson, Roseau, district field representative on Thursday.

The county Production and Marketing committees throughout the state are being reorganized under a directive issued by the new administration in Washington. A full time administrator or manager is being selected for each county office starting October 1. The county committees will serve principally as advisory and policy forming bodies and will work only on a part-time basis.

Mr. Strandquist was elected as a member of the county committee 10 years ago and was elevated to the chairmanship four years ago when Chas. N. Kranz resigned to accept a position as county assessor. He will continue to operate his farm in Alma township with the assistance of his son Einar.

ACTH, Cortisone Are Ready for Use by Family Doctor

The new hormone medicines, ACTH and cortisone, have now weathered the experimental stage and are ready for use by the family doctor, a bulletin issued by the Minnesota State Medical association says today.

Actually, these new medicines which provided such spectacular relief from pain and crippling of arthritis a few years ago, are neither quite as miraculous as people first thought; not nearly as much to be feared as subsequent bad side-effects from their use in a few cases led some workers to believe.

Experience with many patients over a period of four years has shown that excellent though less spectacular results can be obtained with smaller, safer dosage than was at first believed.

Used that way, the doctors have found the new drugs safe for nearly everybody and amazingly effective for ailments hitherto regarded as hopeless to treat by any other known methods.

Warren Appointed U. S. Chief Justice

California Governor Named by Eisenhower

Earl Warren, attorney and California governor but never before a judge, was named Wednesday the 14th chief justice of the United States.

President Eisenhower announced his selection of Warren to succeed the late Fred M. Vinson, whose unexpected death Sept. 8 opened the way for the first Supreme Court appointment by a Republican president in 20 years.

In Warren, the President picked a man whose political philosophy is generally considered middle-of-the-road — a lifelong Republican but one with such liberal views that former President Truman once said, "He's really a Democrat and doesn't know it."

On that day the court opened its regular fall term facing decisions on a number of important issues. Top among them is the validity of segregation of white and Negro pupils in public schools, which will be argued a second time in December.

NECCHI
Reader's Digest

The inspiring success story of the man who challenged tradition and revolutionized the sewing habits of a nation is being read today by millions of people. The October issue of "The Reader's Digest" tells about Leon Jolson who came to the United States in 1947 with his wife, $1.67 and faith in this land of opportunity. Today he heads the NECCHI Sewing Machine Sales Corporation, the company he built with three samples of the machine, now doing a business of $25,000,000.00 a year.

Jolson began his new life humbly, knocking on doors, offering to repair sewing machines. As he worked he came to discover that, regardless of make, all the machines in current use were astonishingly limited in what they could do, just straight sewing. Their attachments, which permitted more complicated workmanship, were seldom employed because women found them difficult to fasten to the machines and a nuisance to handle. Yet — if there were a machine which could achieve truly professional results, wouldn't it be welcomed in every home? A machine that could make button-holes, sew on buttons, embroider, monogram, applique — without attachments? Jolson knew of such a machine . . . the NECCHI.

Never, during the hundred years of sewing machine history in the United States, had there been a household machine capable of doing zig-zag sewing. Perhaps the idea was too daring, perhaps the NECCHI was too unusual, perhaps — but Jolson was not to be discouraged. He had met and bested overwhelming difficulties before.

There was another drawback. Jolson lacked the funds necessary for introducing the NECCHI. No matter, he would risk everything he had. By this time he had opened a small repair shop and managed to save a little money. Unhesitatingly he took his savings and bought three NECCHI's which he displayed in his shop, demonstrating them to every woman who came in. "I could have sold all three over and over again," Jolson has said, "but I had to refuse sales. I was making a test." The response convinced him the NECCHI would be more than welcome in American homes.

Today, less than five years later, the NECCHI is making further advancements in the sewing machine field with its latest development — automatic sewing. The little shop has grown to more than 2500 stores throughout the United States and Canada. There is one in every important community like Fixit Shop, at 110 No. LaBree.

The realization of Leon Jolson's dream has gone beyond the opening of a new sewing world to American women. Every year, to commemorate the anniversary of his arrival, he makes a "gift of gratitude." Last year he gave Columbia University a $10,000.00 scholarship fund for displaced persons. This year he created a $250,000.00 fund to help organizations that foster international and interracial good will. As the NECCHI stitches it strengthens the fabric of friendship and understanding among all people.

2 Brothers Reunited, Separated 36 Years

Two brothers separated 36 years ago were finally reunited in Minneapolis last week, only to find out they had lived within four blocks of each other for the past six years.

Now busy filling in their lives for each other are Harold Sherman Morben, 44, and his brother, Gilman Storlie, 37.

The story goes back to Thief River Falls in 1916, the year Gilman Morben was born. The Morben family numbered seven brothers, a sister, a half-brother and a half-sister.

The mother died, and in 1917 Gilman was adopted by Mr. and Mrs. Martin C. Storlie, Hampden, N. D. The father kept several of the children; two grown sons were in the army and the daughter went out west. The Morbens then moved to Minneapolis.

Gilman consequently was raised as Gilman Storlie, moving with the Storlies to Spring Grove, Minn., and then to a nearby farm where he lived for 20 years.

He sold out the farming interests and in 1947 came to Minneapolis, where he is an accountant for Montana Dakota Utilities.

Harold lived at various places, including Orleans and East Grand Forks, before moving to Minneapolis in 1920.

Friends and neighbors often commented about the resemblance of the two men. Finally, Mrs. T. W. Barnard, a neighbor, asked the Morbens if they had any relatives named Storlie.

Morben called Storlie and the long separated brothers were reunited.

School Dist. 18 Tax Levy to Be Slightly Higher

Local Levy Will Raise $181,000 for 1953, up $14,100 Over 1952 Levy

The Thief River Falls board of education, at its October session Monday evening, adopted a budget for the coming year for a local tax levy that will raise $181,000, compared to $166,900 for the current year.

Supt. W. G. Claffy stated that the mill rate for the local school district has not yet been established, pending a determination of 1953 assessed valuations for the district, but he indicated that the 1953 rate will probably be two and one-half or three mills higher than for 1952.

The higher levy was ascribed to the necessity of increasing the bonds and interest levy to provide funds for retiring the bond issue sold at the time the Northrup school addition was built two years ago.

A total of $101,000 was levied for the maintenance fund, together with $49,000 for capital outlay and $31,000 for bonds and interest. Despite rising operating costs, the maintenance fund levy is fractionally lower than a year ago, due to anticipated larger payments of basic and equalization state aids and non-resident high school tuition.

Total estimated receipts for the school district in 1954, including state aids, aggregate $408,000, Mr. Claffy stated.

In addition to acting on the budget Monday, the board also conferred with Judge Paul A. Lundgren of the Northwestern Hospital board relative to the student nursing program for the coming year. Action was deferred.

A request was submitted by the Northrop school PTA unit requesting the use of the Northrop gymnasium one night a week for women's physical education classes. No immediate action was taken.

Sinfonietta Will Give Concert Here Sunday, Oct. 25th

Small-scale Symphony to Appear in Evening in High School Auditorium

Dynamic Henry Denecke, who brings his small-scale symphony orchestra to Thief River Falls Sunday evening, October 25, has created his own special niche in northwest musical circles. While he is most widely known as conductor of the Northwest Sinfonietta, which will be heard here, he holds two other regular posts. He is conductor of both the Minneapolis Civic Orchestra and the Cedar Rapids Symphony in Cedar Rapids, Iowa. He has also appeared as guest conductor of the Minneapolis Summer Symphony and the La Crosse, Wisconsin Symphony Orchestra.

The Sinfonietta's concert is open only to members of the Northwest Concert association. The program will be held in the Lincoln high school auditorium and will begin at 8:15 p. m. It is the first of a series of four concerts to be presented here this season.

Denecke founded the Sinfonietta himself, patterning it after the full-scale symphony. Organizing the group was no mean task. It involved obtaining the exact proportions of instruments to maintain true symphonic balance. Providing music for the group has also been a challenging job. Often, standard orchestral scores must be altered to fit the reduced number of instruments. Denecke has met this challenge by doing many of the transcriptions for his small orchestra himself.

As conductor, Denecke has also been responsible for programming. In order to please the tastes of the varied audiences for which the Sinfonietta plays, he has built a repertoire ranging from the classics to medleys from Broadway shows. For his concerts, he selects from this wide repertoire a musical bill of fare designed to appeal to every kind of concert-goer.

The success of his venture has been established by six successful seasons during which the Sinfonietta has been heard repeatedly by audiences throughout the upper midwest. The present tour, sponsored by the Concert, Theatre and Lecture Service of the University of Minnesota, has been arranged in response to popular request.

Hospital Auxiliary Will Hold Annual Meeting Oct. 19th

The first annual meeting of the Northwestern Hospital auxiliary will be conducted next Monday evening, October 19, at 8 o'clock in the Civic and Commerce room in the municipal Auditorium. It was announced this week by Mrs. Rudolph Sagmoen, president. She urged all members to be present, and also invited the attendance of prospective members of the organization.

Mrs. Gunder Legvold of this city was reelected president of the Northwestern Minnesota Girl Scout council at its annual meeting last Thursday evening in the Zion church parlors. The election followed a turkey dinner served to approximately 100 persons from thruout this section of the state.

Others reelected were Mrs. Carl E. Carlson of Warren, vice president; Miss Ruth Swanson of Roseau, secretary; and Mrs. Lester J. Gustafson of Thief River Falls, treasurer. Named to the board of directors were Mrs. Les Hirst of Warren, Mrs. Lloyd E. Nelson of Ada and Miss Ethel Bennett of this city.

Principal speaker at the dinner meeting was Miss Oleda Schrottky of New York, dramatics consultant for the national Girl Scout organization, who also conducted four sessions of a dramatics workshop for Girl Scout leaders Thursday and Friday.

Miss Schrottky, whose serious message was interspersed with effective bits of humor, declared that the Girl Scouts are working to bring the people of the world together, and that the art of learning to live together is the greatest of all arts. If we lived by the Ten Commandments, she said, we wouldn't need any United Nations, and she expressed the conviction that love that comes from the human heart is stronger than the atomic bomb.

Also contributing to the program was Miss Audrey Niemela of Roseau, attractive senior Girl Scout, who was one of four American girls to participate last summer in a patrol leaders' camp in Finland. She gave a detailed account of her experiences in Finland, as well as visiting England, Denmark, Holland, Sweden and Norway, and also showed colored slides of scenes in the various countries.

The program opened with the invocation by the Rev. Walter M. Pedersen, followed by the advancement of the colors by members of Girl Scout Troop 20, including Jacklyn Carlson, Angeline Owen, Mary Jo Froehle and Susan Mills. Mrs. Carl E. Carlson of Warren, vice president, welcomed the gathering and presided over the program, which also included a vocal solo by Mrs. Walter Pedersen, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. Reuben Lockrem.

Advantages of N. W. Hospital Blood Bank Cited by H. Peterson

The blood bank for the area served by Northwestern Hospital should be set at 1,000 members, H. W. Peterson, administrator, stated today. He said that hospital records for the year 1952 indicates the use of about 60 pints of blood per month used for transfusion purposes. On two occasions in 1952 it was necessary to use 24 to 36 pints of blood for patients requiring continuous transfusions. These were bad accident cases. Fortunately, incidents of this kind are rare but it should be recalled that they could occur to anyone at any time.

A 1,000-member blood bank would enable the hospital to have a basic blood supply on hand. It is estimated that a forty to fifty pint basic blood supply of the most commonly needed blood types should be on hand at all times. With a 1,000-member blood bank, this basic blood supply would probably require less than one donation per year per member.

Mr. Peterson states that it will be necessary to set up a board of directors of some 25 or 30 members from the area served by Northwestern Hospital in order to properly organize the needed blood bank facilities. It is planned that the directors will represent important service organizations from Thief River Falls and other communities in this area. Steps have already been taken by some organizations to provide their representation on such a board.

The advantages and responsibilities of members of the blood bank would probably be somewhat as follows, said Peterson:

Lincoln Homecoming Shadowed by Defeat; Juanita Bakke Queen

Aside from the fact that the spirits of the celebrants were dampened by the 44-6 rout of the Prowlers by a bigger Detroit Lakes team, the annual Lincoln high school Homecoming last Friday generated a large quantity of school spirit. Nearly 2,000 persons witnessed the game, Principal Kalmer Ostby reported.

A feature of the half-time period of the game was an excellent demonstration by the Lincoln band, directed by Robert S. Harmon. With each musician equipped with a flashlight, a novel effect was created when the football field lights were turned off and the band performed evolutions, traced in the dark by the flashlights.

Reigning as queen over Homecoming was Juanita Bakke, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Bakke, of this city, who was crowned by Lyle Gutu and Darrel Dalton, co-captains of the Prowler eleven, at an afternoon program in the school auditorium. Present, in addition to the student body, were a large number of alumni and other adults.

The program also included selections by the Lincoln band and chorus, a vocal duet by Gene Bratsch and Gail Brown, a reading by Barbara Klein and a piano solo by Janet Nelson.

A highlight of the day's events was the Homecoming parade thru the business district preceding the football game. Heading the parade was the band, and a float bearing Queen Juanita Bakke and her attendants, Devera Borchert and Linda Wold, seniors; Barbara Droppo and Elaine Balvin, juniors; and Muriel Trickle and Yvonne Wigen, sophomores.

The parade also included a variety of attractive floats entered by high school organizations, as well as Mardi Gras heads and other interesting features.

Dairy Cow Owner Testing Group to Organize Oct. 20

Stan Nelson Invites Area Farmers to Attend Session at Lincoln High School

Dairy farmers of this area are invited to attend a meeting Tuesday evening, October 20, at 8 o'clock in the agriculture room in Lincoln high school, Stan Nelson, agriculture instructor, announced today.

He added that plans for the second year's program of dairy improvement work will be discussed, and local dairymen will be given the opportunity to bring in samples of milk from their individual cows to be tested, so that butterfat production per cow can be determined on a yearly basis. The group holds monthly meetings during the year to discuss mutual problems.

Nelson stressed the fact that under present conditions it is doubly important that the dairyman knows what each cow is actually producing, so that animals of low productivity may be culled out of the herd, and that only heifer calves from high producing cows be kept for replacement.

Nelson urged all area dairymen in this area to test their cows for production by either joining the owner - sampling group next Tuesday, by affiliating with a cow-testing association, or, if they are veterans, by having their cows tested in the veterans agriculture classes.

Interested farmers are urged to contact Mr. Nelson immediately, so that necessary testing supplies can be procured for the coming year.

New RLF Bridge Nearly Finished

Expect to Open Span to Traffic in Short Time

The last concrete on the new bridge that carries Trunk Highway 32 across the Red Lake river in Red Lake Falls was poured last Wednesday and the bridge is rapidly nearing completion.

It will not be opened for traffic for some 21 days, however, as it will take that time for the concrete to properly harden in this cool weather. The concrete floor of the bridge is five inches thick and heavily reinforced with steel mesh so as to withstand the heavy loads to which it will be subjected.

The steel work is being painted with aluminum paint by a crew of workmen. Some of the equipment of the Helseth Engineering Co. which constructed the bridge, is being moved away.

Considerable finishing work is still to be done but that will not delay the opening of the bridge. Motorists and truckers who have been forced to use the detour since May will welcome the day when the bridge is opened to traffic. It is of such ample width that any two vehicles can meet or pass on the bridge without danger.

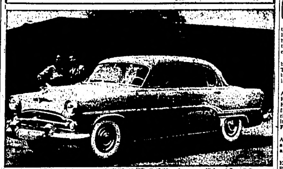
Dodge Offers New Royal V-8 for 1954



Highlight of the 1954 Dodge line is the new super deluxe series known as the Royal V-8. A completely new interior styling is keyed to harmonize with 11 different body colors and 14 two-tone combinations. The Royal V-8 series is keynoted by Jacquard upholstery fabric, previously used only for rich tapestries and expensive furniture. On the exterior, a new spear-like chrome moulding accents the low, sweeping lines and lends a smooth, modern look. There also is a new grille design and treatment of headlights, taillights and wheel covers. The 1954 Dodge line also introduces such engineering advancements as PowerFlite, a new fully-automatic transmission; the economy-and-endurance tested Red Ram V-8 engine stepped up to 150 h.p. and 7.5 to 1 compression ratio; and a new type full-time power steering unit. The Coronet Six and Meadowbrook Six have been stepped up to 110 h.p. and 7.25 to 1 compression ratio.

Two Brothers Die in Roseau Mishap

Ben and Martin Qualley Killed in Salol Crash

Two brothers, Ben and Martin Qualley, were killed in an auto accident eight miles northeast of Salol in Roseau county Monday noon.

N. W. Breeders to Hold Meeting at Roseau Oct. 22nd

The eighth annual meeting of Northwest Breeders will be held at Roseau, Thursday, Oct. 22nd at 1 p. m. The Association has developed many good dairy herds thruout Northwestern Minnesota during the past few years and has seen their volume of business increase to 7 times that of the volume the first year of operations.

Twenty-two sires are maintained at the Roseau Stud, with service provided for Milking Shorthorn, Guernsey, Holstein, and Brown Swiss Cattle. The efficiency of operations has increased each year and the past two years have had an efficiency of 70% non-returns which is high for the state and for the nation.

Artificial breeding as a business has grown from a service affecting 7500 cows in 1939 to one of servicing nearly five million cows in 1953. High production per cow is of increasing importance now with other farming costs higher and a need of higher net returns from all sources of farm incomes.

In the Thief River Falls area the breeding work is handled by Gordon Vennes and Leo Anderson, who cover both Red Lake and Pennington Counties.

With the County Agent

By William Penning
Pennington Co. Agent

Your new county agent is finding his work cut out for him, trying to fill the big shoes left by our friend Ray Mitteness. Thanks for your kind cooperation so far, folks.

Thinking of a big job brings me to my topic. Due to the race against time and weather all farmers face at spring planting time, lets talk a little about spreading fertilizer in the fall.

It is quite obvious, that considering only the time factor, farmers have more time to spread fertilizer in the fall than in the spring.

At what season of the year is the soil in the right condition to receive fertilizer applications? The answer is at what season of the year are you least apt to get stuck, and cut up your field.

I believe I have saved the most important consideration until last. Will my crops get as much boost out of fall applications of fertilizer as spring applications? That's a tough one, but Paul Burson, University of Minnesota soil specialist says, "We find that on heavy soils, you can put on nitrogen, phosphate and potash at almost any time of the year and get good results." Farmers and scientists in areas where winter rainfall is light, and the soil stays frozen all winter, find that fertilizer spread in the fall gives as good results as that spread in the spring. These are a few ideas that may save you a little time and work during the busy spring planting period.

Remember no matter when you put on fertilizer, put on the recommended amount for your soil. Don't guess. Send soil samples to be tested to the University Soil Testing Lab. I would be glad to send your soil samples in for you.

First: Members would be entitled to full coverage of all blood needs for the member, his or her spouse, children under 18, parents and grandparents over 60.

Second: No blood bank member, or related person as defined above, would have to worry about getting blood donors for blood replacement in the event that he or she needed blood transfusions. The blood used by a member or his family would be replaced through the process of calling the next numbers in the membership list to come in to the hospital and make their donation. The administration of the blood bank would make this arrangement at no personal inconvenience to the member.

Third: The member, or his or her family, would have no charge other than that of the processing and transfusion service fee. There would be no blood penalty fee for the member. Fourth: If, at the time of being called for a blood donation, the member was disqualified for medical reasons, some other member of the family, or a friend arranged for by the member could make the blood deposit for the member at the time he was called.

Fifth: Through contract with the Minneapolis War Memorial blood bank held by Northwestern Hospital, it would be possible for the member to have a transfusion in any hospital associated with the Minneapolis War Memorial blood bank and the member would not be disturbed with the anxiety of having to find individual donors to provide blood which he might need when hospitalized in these other hospitals. The local blood bank would arrange blood credits for the individual when he was hospitalized in almost any place in the United States.

These advantages, states Mr. Peterson, are possible only in the event that a proper blood bank organization is set up for the people in this area.

With the County Agent

By William Penning
Pennington Co. Agent

Your new county agent is finding his work cut out for him, trying to fill the big shoes left by our friend Ray Milleness. Thanks for your kind cooperation so far, folks.

Thinking of a big job brings me to my topic. Due to the race against time and weather all farmers face at spring planting time, lets talk a little about spreading fertilizer in the fall.

It is quite obvious, that considering only the time factor, farmers have more time to spread fertilizer in the fall than in the spring.

At what season of the year is the soil in the right condition to receive fertilizer applications? The answer is at what season of the year are you least apt to get stuck, and cut up your field.

I believe I have saved the most important consideration until last. Will my crops get as much boost out of fall applications of fertilizer as spring applications? That's a tough one, but Paul Burson, University of Minnesota soil specialist says, "We find that on heavy soils, you can put on nitrogen, phosphate and potash at almost any time of the year and get good results." Farmers and scientists in areas where winter rainfall is light, and the soil stays frozen all winter, find that fertilizer spread in the fall gives as good results as that spread in the spring. These are a few ideas that may save you a little time and work during the busy spring planting period.

Remember no matter when you put on fertilizer, put on the recommended amount for your soil. Don't guess. Send soil samples to be tested to the University Soil Testing Lab. I would be glad to send your soil samples in for you.

First: Members would be entitled to full coverage of all blood needs for the member, his or her spouse, children under 18, parents and grandparents over 60.

Second: No blood bank member, or related person as defined above, would have to worry about getting blood donors for blood replacement in the event that he or she needed blood transfusions. The blood used by a member or his family would be replaced through the process of calling the next numbers in the membership list to come in to the hospital and make their donation. The administration of the blood bank would make this arrangement at no personal inconvenience to the member.

Third: The member, or his or her family, would have no charge other than that of the processing and transfusion service fee. There would be no blood penalty fee for the member. Fourth: If, at the time of being called for a blood donation, the member was disqualified for medical reasons, some other member of the family, or a friend arranged for by the member, could make the blood deposit for the member at the time he was called.

Fifth: Through contract with the Minneapolis War Memorial blood bank held by Northwestern Hospital, it would be possible for the member to have a transfusion in any hospital associated with the Minneapolis War Memorial blood bank and the member would not be disturbed with the anxiety of having to find individual donors to provide blood which he might need when hospitalized in these other hospitals. The local blood bank would arrange blood credits for the individual when he was hospitalized in almost any place in the United States.

These advantages, states Mr. Peterson, are possible only in the event that a proper blood bank organization is set up for the people in this area.

Detroit Lakes Whips Prowler Eleven 44-6 in Homecoming Game

A trio of hard-running Detroit Lakes backs — Rich Borstad, Lynn Parkel, and Tom Day—ably directed by quarterback Jerry Paulson, made a shambles of the Prowler Homecoming game on Friday night as the Lakers, piling up seven touchdowns, defeated the locals, 44 to 6, before a near-record crowd.

Coach Ralph Skjod's squad will attempt to get back into the win column this week when they travel to Ada for an inter-district game against the Vikings, with the kickoff slated for 8:00 p. m.

In Friday night's game, with both the Prowlers and Detroit Lakes boasting undefeated records, the blue-and-gold, defending the west goal and receiving the kickoff, reeled off three consecutive first downs and appeared destined to rack up an early touchdown. The Prowlers, from their own 32-yard line, sent their shifty backs through the big Laker line for consistent gains.

On the Laker 20-yard line, with third down and 2 yards to go, Ray Berg slashed left tackle for an apparent first down on the Detroit Lakes' 11 yard line, but the Prowler fumbled as he was tackled and end Jim Long recovered for the Lakers. On their first play from scrimmage, the Lakers exploded halfback Lynn Parkel through the left side of the line, and he sprinted down the south sideline for an 89-yard touchdown run, with Bill Arndt taking out Sid Vraa on a fine block to insure Parkel's run.

A few minutes later the Lakers, after gaining the ball on their 25-yard line, moved down field to score on six running plays, with Borstad blasting over for the touchdown from the 14-yard line.

Tom Day's score from the 1-yard line, on a pitchout from Paulson, and Borstad's 3-yard plunge moved the Lakers into a 24 to 0 lead at the half-time intermission. The Lakers failed to convert the extra points on their first half TD's.

The Lakers, holding for downs on their 22-yard line, ripped off four first downs to carry to the Prowler 12-yard line in the opening minutes of the third period. After Borstad had gained seven yards at right guard, Phil Meyer skirted right end for the touchdown. A rush for the extra point was smeared, and coach Marv Helling's powerful team had a 30 to 0 lead.

The Prowlers averted a whitewash by taking the ensuing kickoff and, in five plays, marking up their lone touchdown. From the Prowler 45-yard line, Bob Helgeland hit right tackle for 9 yards, and then drove through left guard for a first down on the Laker 44. Lyle Guttu picked up a yard at left tackle; a pass play was incomplete; and then Sid Vraa whipped a down-the-middle pass to Darold Dalton, who made the catch on the Laker 20-yard line and scampered for the west goal and a touchdown. The try for point failed.

Two long runs in the fourth period accounted for the Lakers final touchdowns. John Kertscher, a chunky sophomore halfback, raced 48 yards for a score, and added the conversion point on a rush into the line. An intercepted Prowler pass on the Laker 35-yard line set up the final Detroit Lakes TD, with Parkel, running from the fullback position, breaking off right tackle for a 65-yard touchdown run. A pass to end Emil Marotzke added the extra point, and the Lakers had a 44 to 6 triumph.

Hunting Safety Rally Slated Here Tuesday

Thief River Falls has been selected as one of several area kick-off points for the statewide hunting safety campaign to be conducted by the Minnesota Conservation Federation under the sponsorship of the Jacob Schmidt Brewing company of St. Paul.

A full evening of activities including gun handling demonstrations, duck calling, hunting safety and other outdoor films, speakers, and a special showing of the famous hunting-visual safety training system developed by Lee Kuluvar, chairman of the federation's safety committee, will be given in the municipal Auditorium on Tuesday evening, October 20.

LEE KULUVAR

Personalities appearing on the safety show include: Carl Moen, director, bureau of information, Minnesota conservation department, and state safety leader; Harry Maginnis, world famous trap shooting expert and gun authority, and winner of numerous state and national shooting championships; Oscar Quam, noted duck calling trainer and expert; Cliff Sakry, executive secretary of the Minnesota Conservation Federation and state conservation organizer and leader; Lee Blacklock, noted outdoor photographer; and other well-known sportsmen, conservationists and safety leaders.

A group of local sportsmen including Kern Olson, Dr. Edward Bratrud, Art Rambeck, Bill LaFave and Bob Bell will participate in a special panel discussion summarizing the evening's proceedings. Moderator will be Cliff Sakry.

A highlight of the safety show will be a brief demonstration by Lee Kuluvar of his popular "Game or Hunter" recognition system. Representatives of sportsmen's clubs will also have a chance to arrange with Kuluvar for special appearances to give his complete safety training program at their local meetings.

The entire statewide hunting safety program will be outlined, and the part sportsmen are to play in the campaign will be explained. Startling statistics on past hunting fatalities will be reviewed. Gun Safety, gun handling and shooting tips, as well as timely films on hunting and the outdoors will also be featured. A full evening of interesting entertainment and information will be presented.

Admission will be free to the public.

Two Young People Slightly Hurt in Accident Sunday

A car driven by John Grindeland of this city veered off Highway 1 eight miles east of Thief River Falls early Sunday morning and proceeded along the ditch until it hit the embankment of a crossroad, the highway patrol reported.

Grindeland was treated at the hospital here for a mouth injury, as was Eleanor Sanders of Goodridge, who sustained a fractured nose and thumb. Another passenger, Darleen Elofson, also of Goodridge, was under observation at te hospital, but was released shortly, having apparently been uninjured.

John Helle, also a passenger, escaped injury.

Spotted Pocket Gopher Displayed

Kenneth Borsheim last week was displaying a freak of the animal kingdom in the form of a pocket gopher that, in addition to the usual brown color of the fur, boasted a large white area. The gopher had been killed by Edward Carlson, living southwest of Thief River Falls.

Irate Moose Charge Men on Game Refuge

Twice within a week employees of the Mud Lake Refuge have been charged by irate bull moose. On both occasions the men were operating tractors—in one instance while swathing flax with a wheel tractor, and in the other case while discing a field close to the goose pen by means of a crawler type tractor.

Eli Erickson, of rural Holt, had noticed a young bull move out of a grove to the edge of the field which he was swathing. Eli left the tractor motor running, but stopped the forward motion of the tractor and swather, watched the animal briefly, and then yelled a loud "boo" at the moose.

The moose immediately started toward the operator—and the operator immediately commenced a forward retreat with tractor and swather. The moose approached to within a few feet of the swather, and followed the equipment up the field for some distance before finally turning away and going back into the woods. Mr. Erickson remarked that the moose had a very unfriendly attitude, was frothing at the mouth, and otherwise appeared eager for a contest.

Several days following, Ben Garthus, also of rural Holt, was engaged in discing a field adjacent to the 150 acre goose pen, when without any warning a large bull, with a tremendous rack of antlers, charged out of the woods and stopped about 25 feet from the tractor—and Mr. Garthus.

This bull had apparently just battled with another bull as his head and antlers were covered with blood, and he likewise was frothy about the mouth. Mr. Garthus could think of nothing better to do than attempt to frighten the beast away by yelling and waving a sack—again the moose was not impressed.

For twenty minutes the angry animal refused to leave. Finally it did move back to the edge of the woods, and then proceeded to further display his yen for combat by battering the aspen trees with his antlers. Ben later continued with the plowing, but admitted afterward that he had lost some interest in his work. Bull moose are notoriously hostile during the "rut" or mating season. In this area the mating season commences in September, is at the peak in early October, and is pretty well through by the end of October. Bull moose at this time know no fear, and have been known to charge and batter at trains, cars, trucks and most anything that moves.

Keeping Score with "Huck" Olson

They'll Be One, Two, or Three

According to school officials, Friday night's crowd that witnessed the Homecoming tilt on Lincoln field, with the Detroit Lakes Lakers rolling up a 44 to 6 triumph over the Prowlers, was a record-maker. It's fortunate that the school board has secured a tract of land, just south of the new highway patrol radio tower, and that work is on progress on a new football field. The facilities at the present field are limited, and they cause much grumbling from the fans.

That record crowd saw a team that will undoubtedly conclude its season without a loss, and will gain a rating on a near the top rung of the state's prep teams. Detroit Lakes' coach, Marv Helling, has an all-veteran squad (there are only a few juniors listed as "regulars"), and they exhibited the finest running attack that has been observed here in years. It is possible that the Grand Forks Central team of some seasons ago, which had Ronnie Thompson and John Bennett in the backfield, had better breakaway speed (Thompson and Bennett were both bonafide ten second men), but the Redskins of that era did not possess the crunching power of the Lakers we witnessed here on Friday.

Ted Peterson of the Minneapolis Tribune was at the game here on Friday night, working the game from the field, and he was impressed with the Lakers' running attack.

The Detroit Lakes supporters attempted to get a statement from Ted to the effect that the Lakers could beat any high school team in the state, but the personable Tribune columnist was non-committal. Ted did say that the Lakers were as big and rangy as any he had seen this year, but he left the impression that the St. James club, with its blazing speed, would be a match for Detroit Lakes.

It's doubtful if the final outcome of the game, as to a win or a loss, would have been changed, but it's unfortunate that the Prowlers lost the ball on a fumble early in the first period after driving through the Lakes' line to the Detroit Lakes' 11-yard line. The Prowlers had a first down on the 11-yard line, and to lose possession on a fumble was a blow to the youngster's morale. And then, on the first play from scrimmage, the Lakers sprung Lynn Parkel loose for an 89-yard touchdown run. That was a one-two punch that took much from the Prowlers.

Next week, on October 23rd, Red Wilson will be bringing his Bemidji Lumberjacks here, and the Prowlers will face a difficult task, for the Jacks, currently the state's number two team, will endeavor to match the Lakers play against the locals.

Herb's doing All Right

Herb Claffy, co-captain of the 1944 Prowler football team, with Chuck Richards, and later a standout backfield performer for the North Dakota Sioux, is having a fine season as coach of the Milaca high school team.

On Friday, Herb's Milaca team celebrated their Homecoming by defeating Cambridge, 25 to 6, and the victory was the sixth in a row for the Milaca club. According to the reports, Milaca should win the remaining games on the schedule and post an undefeated season.

Feathers

The last great hope of the city's duck hunters in getting a "shoot" will depend on the "northern flight." That's the consensus of the hip-boot and high-brass boys who have been maneuvering through the wire-grass, burn-outs, and bogs in an effort to provide the main course for a duck dinner.

Except for the opening day, when the hunting on the Roseau bog and Thief lake was up to expectations, the duck hunting has been on a decline. There were a number of limits reported out of the Roseau area, with mallards predominating, and the hunters at Thief lake on opening day had good shooting, although the latter water produced numerous redheads, bluebills, and blue-winged teal. Since that time, though, the hunting has been extremely spotty.

There have been occasions when there has been some shooting, when a group has found a field in which the Mud lake and Thief lake mallards have been feeding; and when a flight of redheads have come into Thief lake. These instances have been just often enough to cause hunters to burn up much gasoline, pack heavy lunches and have high hopes that they'll have a "shoot."

Rev. Ole Sande Tells of Journey to Norway

The following letter received by the Times from Rev. Ole O. Sande, of this community gives interesting details of a trip to Norway enjoyed by him and Mrs. Sande. They left this country April 24 and expect to return to this city in November.

A Greeting from Norway

We wish to send a few words of greeting to readers who still remember us. Since a good percentage of northern Minnesota population are born in Norway or are of Norwegian descent it may be of interest to see the names of places we have visited.

We left New York aboard the S. S. Stavangerfjord April 24th, arriving in Oslo May 4th. After spending some time here and in Rakkestad, the birthplace of Mrs. Sande's parents (the late Mr. and Mrs. Christ L. Rud) we spent some time in Sarpsborg and Fredrickstad, industrial cities manufacturing lumber and paper from the forests along the Glomen river. From Oslo to Stavenger along the "Sor-landa banen." Along the route we stopped at Notodden, Vegarshei, Arendal, Grimstad, Lillesand, Christiansand and Farsund. At the latter place Effie, the daughter of Rev. Thv. Myhrer has her home, so we had the pleasure of visiting her.

By boat from Stavanger to Bergen where we spent several days. Saw something of the festivities in connection with the international music or "Greig Celebration." Also conducted gospel services in one of the missions there. Along the route from Bergen we passed the cities of Ålesund, Molde, Christiansund—the two latter were almost totally destroyed during the war, but are fast being rebuilt by beautiful modern, streamlined buildings. Namsos, and Bodö, which we saw later, are also fast arising out of the ashes.

Did not have the opportunity to go further north, but understand that Narvik and the Finmark cities and countryside are gradually going up. A tremendous building program has been instituted all over Norway, new apartment houses and private homes in the making wherever you go.

We spent June, July and August in my home community, Vik, in Helgeland, so want to send a special greeting to the folks who have emigrated from there. Authorities say that Vik is the most outstanding farming community in Nordland. Grain and dairy products are in prominence. Modern farm machinery is seen everywhere—the latest arrival being a bulldozer which worked havoc in the heretofor unbroken and unproductive "Inmark." We might call it an agricultural revival. But a spiritual revival too had passed over our "bygd" recently and several men in the prime of life had become spiritual leaders and witnesses to the transforming power of Christ. The meetings in "Sand's Bedehus" were well attended, and speaking in the State Church of my childhood was a privilege afforded several times.

Also had the joy of being present at the dedication of a new mission house built at Berg—a beautiful practical building which shows what can be done when there is co-operation.

We are now on our way back to U. S. A. after spending a few days in Trondheim with several meetings we are now in Oslo, conducting a few meetings and visiting friends and relatives. On Oct. 7th we expect to sail aboard the Oslofjord for New York. We expect to reach Thief River Falls in November.

Area State Parks Closed October 1

Attendance This Year Reported Down Slightly

With the closing of the facilities in the Minnesota state parks in the northern section on October 1, the 1953 season is officially ended, park officials stated today.

The tourist cabins, refectories and Douglas Lodge in the northern parks reflected a decreased tourist business by Labor Day but remained open because of good weather for late season business.

The group camp facilities were closed by the first of September and officials stated that 24,800 number of camper days were recorded this year.

It is estimated that the total number of visitors for the season will be slightly less than in previous years from indications of sales from refectories, use of the swimming beaches and boat rentals. This, park officials believe, is only partly due to the introduction of the sticker plan requiring that every automobile entering the park bear the $1.00 windshield sticker. The highly favorable weather during June and the first part of July boosted the attendance while several unfavorable week-ends during the late part of July and August reduced the attendance.

A final summary and total of the summer park attendance will be available when park superintendents have made their seasonal reports.

Long Coal Train

In the last half-century, the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway has handled more than 330 million tons of coal at its piers at Newport News, Va., enough to make up a single trainload of hopper cars 51,683 miles long, or twice around the globe at the Equator.

Almost 4,000 power shovels and draglines are used in U. S. surface mining of bituminous coal.

Study Shows Most Traffic Mishaps Fault of Drivers

Only Six of 209 Fatal Accidents up to July 1 Beyond Driver's Control

In only six of the 209 fatal traffic accidents in Minnesota during the first half of this year the principal causes of the mishaps were beyond the control of the driver, according to a special study of fatal accidents released by the Minnesota highway department.

The tabulation shows that four major driver violations accounted for 109 of the 240 deaths reported. Heading the list was driving at unsafe speeds — even though they were under posted limits — which accounted for 29 fatalities. Following closely behind as a death factor was driving in excess of posted speed limits, which resulted in 25 deaths. Third on the list was driving on the wrong side of the road while not engaged in a passing maneuver, bringing death to 20 people in 15 accidents, while disregarding traffic signals or signs was the principal cause of 35 deaths in 27 accidents.

The report goes on to show that drivers under the influence of alcohol were involved in 16 fatal accidents, with 18 people dying in these crashes. Defective equipment was a primary factor in nine fatal mishaps, resulting in 12 deaths.

"A study of this report," said Arthur V. Rohweder, president of the Minnesota Safety Council, "can result in reaching only one conclusion — that the chief reason for fatal traffic accidents, as it is in non-fatal accidents, is driver misbehavior."

TWENTY YEARS OF EXPERIENCE

Our much talked about farm price support program is 20 years old this month. During these 20 years the government's annual loss on the surplus commodities it has purchased has been considerably under 100 million dollars. This cost, in terms of public spending during these 20 years, certainly has not been an import item in running up our national debt.

The benefits to the entire nation that have been derived from this program, through the stability it has provided for one of the nation's basic industries, far exceed that cost. And compared to the cost of subsidizing other segments of our notional economy during these dizzy years it cannot be said that the government has done too much for agriculture.

During the early years of this 20 year period, the depression years of the thirties, our farms were producing more than the markets could absorb and we were forced to limit production. Then with the war years and continuing through the Korean episode, there was no longer a surplus problem. During these years agriculture, generally, was encouraged to increase production. Now, with the fighting ended and the world back on a more normal food production basis, we have the surplus problem again.

We still are operating under the provisions of that 20-year-old farm program. Those 20 years of trial and error have given us much valuable experience. The fact that this program has survived 20 years of extreme conditions and met these extreme problems reasonably well is in itself a strong recommendation for its continuance.

The principal shortcoming of this program, as seen by those who go along with the thinking of the late John Brandt, is the fact that it is sponsored by the government, and, being directed by an agency of the government, is subject to the uncertainties of political action. The John Brandts favor a form of agricultural stabilization controlled by agriculture itself.

This thinking is based on a shrewd recognition of the fact that agriculture is now a minority group politically. There are many more consumers than producers of food. Consumers are always going to be more powerful politically than producers. And in recognition of this fact the John Brandts based their hopes for the future of agriculture less on the favors of a government directed by politicians and more on the activities of strong farm organizations acting in behalf of their own members.

The present price support program would be a better program for agriculture itself if the cost of price stabilization were charged back directly to agriculture. An average annual cost of less than a hundred million dollars could be absorbed by agriculture painlessly as long as prices were maintained at a fair level. The program is in jeopardy as it is dependent on appropriations of public funds for its support.

BY ORDERLY PROCEDURE

Organized labor did not "blow its top" last week when President Eisenhower used the injunction authority of the Taft-Hartly law to stop an east coast longshoreman's strike. On the contrary labor leaders in this instance favored government intervention. Not in any sense was the intervention considered an anti-union act. It was an anti-crime measure, in effect supporting the American Federation of Labor in its ousting of an affiliate union which had been "captured by racketeers."

As a result of this action there is hope that there will be a clean-up of a waterfront jungle that has been detrimental to the best interests of organized labor thruout the country. It is another indication that we are making progress in the field of labor relations and that we are approaching the time when labor disputes will be settled as are other disputes, by orderly procedure.

ANOTHER RAY OF HOPE

Top men in the governments of Britain, France and West Germany are hopeful of being able to work out a satisfactory peace pact with the Russians. Our government is taking a cautious view of the proposed discussions. Our experiences of the past in attempting to negotiate with the Reds provide ample reasons for that caution.

There is little hope among the most optimistic that any agreement with the Russians can be reached speedily. There are so many problems directly or indirectly related to the stalemate in Europe that quick action cannot be expected even with good intentions and a sincere desire on both sides to achieve a real peace. And until we have reasonable assurances that the Russians really want peace we shouldn't get too enthusiastic about peace talks that may merely lead us into another blind alley.

It is encouraging nevertheless to know that we at least are moving closer to the conference tables again. The constant rattling of sabres and the continual exchange of threats and accusations certainly do not resolve our differences. Our only hope for peace is through conference. The only alternative to that all-out war we all fear is to slug it out with a battle of words. It is encouraging to know that for some practical, hard headed people the future is a little brighter than it was a few months ago.

Monday was the 35th anniversary of one of the worst forest fires in the history of the state, destroying several villages in Carlton, Aitkin and St. Louis counties and killing 453 persons. In more recent years we had disastrous fires nearer to us, fires that not only destroyed much wealth but also took a toll of human lives. This is the season of danger, and the season this year being especially dry the danger is greater than usual. Unless the rains come then all of us who venture into the fields and forests, or along the highways, take with us the responsibility of being extra careful.

Ex-president Harry Truman told a St. Louis audience last week that the business of our country should increase from the present volume figure of 375 billion dollars a year to 475 billions by 1960. Well we will not say that it couldn't be done. By devaluing our present 50c dollar to 25c we should be able to double our dollar volume again. That would bring the total to 750 billions. Why go conservative on us now Harry?

Minnesota's able tax commissioner, G. Howard Spaeth, is putting pressure on tax delinquents with good results in terms of increased tax receipts. Some laws are difficult to enforce because they are unpopular. In spite of the fact that tax laws are generally unpopular, tax dodgers get little sympathy from their fellow men. Most people, in spite of the fact that they dislike taxes, nevertheless file honest returns and hence have little sympathy for those who do not.

The brutal kidnaping and slaying of a Kansas City lad has resulted in the usual demands for a reinstatement of capitol punishment in Minnesota. The argument for capitol punishment would be strengthened if it could be proven that fear of the death penalty would act as a crime deterent. The death penalty does not seem to have this effect however. Fear of the death penalty did not deter the kidnapers and killers of Bobby Greenlease who undoubtedly will pay with their lives as provided by the laws of the state in which the crimes were committed. The certainty of apprehension is a far more effective deterent of crime at any level than severe punishment.

Political Roundup

By Arthur Naftalin

State and national political leaders are concentrating their attention on the problem of farm prices, and, as matters stand now, this may very well be the leading issue in the 1954 elections.

The hearings in Minneapolis this week of the congressional agricultural committee pointed up the farmers' growing concern over the question of the future of the federal price-support programs, and politicians insisted that the farm vote is now drifting and that the new Republican administration must move quickly to prevent a serious defection.

At bottom the problem the administration faces is whether it will continue to seek farm-price stability through large-scale support programs or whether it will embark upon new plans that presumably will not involve extensive controls of the farm economy.

A Far-Reaching Issue

There is more in this issue than meets the eye at first glance. The GOP administration, and in particular Secretary of Agriculture Benson, is committed to removing wherever possible controls over the economy. The Republican campaign hit hard on the theme of "creeping socialism," and administration leaders are seeking means of taking the government out of programs of economic regulation.

But the dropping of controls is not an easy matter, as the farmers' overwhelming vote in the wheat referendum made clear. No administration wants to be a party to a decline in farm prices, and, if unchecked, a drop here could soon effect the rest of the economy.

What is being tested here is the larger and more far-reaching question of whether it will be possible for the federal government to retreat for long on any of the programs aimed at stabilizing the economy. The administration is finding that there is no easy choice between, on the one hand, controls that restrict the area in which individuals may make their own choice and thus make the people more dependent on government, and, on the other hand, removing controls and running serious risks of economic upheaval.

GOP Studies Problem

Minnesota Republicans are not viewing the farm problem lightly. Last week they concluded their "farm council" sessions designed to determine farmers' sentiment on what national Republican Party policy should be on the farm problem.

State Chairman P. Kenneth Peterson reported, after attending a number of the meetings, that the farmers' main demand is for a "high level statement and action that will give them confidence in the new administration's agriculture policy."

He said there was some disappointment over price declines but that "the primary concern is regarding the future."

To Talk Over Candidates

Meanwhile, Democratic-Farmer-Labor are attempting to capitalize the increasing concern over the farm question by insisting that the Republicans are in part at least responsible for the price drop and that they lack an effective program for coping with the situation.

State DFL Chairman Karl F. Rolvaag said the Party's executive committee will meet October 29 "to talk over candidate possibilities." This meeting, he said, will set the stage for a gathering of the larger state central committee in December at which plans for the 1954 campaign will be formally launched.

Speculation Slows Down

In recent weeks there has been a slow-down in the speculation over possible candidates to run against Republican Governor C. Elmer Anderson and DFL Senator Hubert H. Humphrey. The GOP was disappointed by former Governor Luther Youngdahl's firm decision not to run against Humphrey, and the point of interest shifts again to Congressman Walter H. Judd, although Governor Anderson still remains a possibility.

The Democrats are still anxiously casting about for a candidate against Anderson. One possible candidate who has been receiving increasing mention is Charles Stickney, the former state head of the Production and Marketing Administration. With his far-flung acquaintance among farmers, Stickney is regarded by some DFL leaders as a "natural."

Reducing Big Government

Two Minnesotans are serving on a 25-member commission appointed by President Eisenhower which is studying the elimination of "friction, duplication, and waste" in the relations between the federal and state governments.

It is the Commission on Intergovernmental Relations. The Minnesotans on the commission are William Anderson, professor of political science at the University of Minnesota, and Senator Humphrey. The commission's deliberations could produce some exciting controversies, especially in the field of taxation. Many state leaders are eager that the federal government leave certain fields of taxation and discontinue many programs of grants-in-aid. So the public will watch with interest what the commission has to recommend on this basic question. Discontinuance of grants-in-aid would vitally affect many national programs.

Picturing Coal

Responsible for one of the greatest advances in above-ground blasting techniques used in the coal industry is a camera—a special machine-gun type sequence camera — that permits engineers to study the second-by-second progress of a blast.

Forages Can Provide Much Feed for Stock

It is not commonly realized how much of the feed for sheep and cattle can come from forages, says W. M. Meyers, head of the University of Minnesota's agronomy department. Dairy cows in experiments have been fed entirely on forage, without any concentrates, and have produced, through successive lactations, 8,000 to 10,000 pounds of milk a year — 3,000 to 5,000 pounds above the U. S. average. High-producing dairy cows cannot attain maximum production on forage alone, however, Myers says. They must be fed concentrates. In addition—chiefly high-energy concentrates such as feed grains. If forage is high quality, there should be little need for protein concentrates—forage will provide enough.

Soon, 4-H boys and girls will be choosing projects for the new club year. Get your boy or girl a copy of the new forestry 4-H Bulletin No. 28 and let him see the many opportunities forestry offers in "making the best better."

Air Tours Show Soil Conservation

The Daily Republican Eagle of Red Wing says, "The aerial viewer can see for himself, more clearly than ever before, water is both our best friend and our greatest foe. Rain drops deferred where they fall and controlled in their runoff make possible the healthy green fields of corn and hay and the ripening expanses of grain. The straight up-and-down cultivation of yesteryear has given way to a varying pattern of curving contours which fascinate the eye, winding terraces which protect steeper slopes, and alternating strips of crops rotated year to year. We are fortunate this progress was achieved through voluntary efforts of far-sighted landowners and not through government edict.

He plays the WATER PIPES

TACONITE PLANT ENGINEER Ossi Palasvirta adjusts the water feed in one of these shiny pipes at an experimental plant near Mountain Iron, Minn. These pipes, each with a different size opening, are "played" in combinations to give the exact amount of water needed for the rod and ball mills, where hard taconite rock is ground to powder fineness. Taconite processing is complicated—and costly. Minnesota's iron mining industry is developing taconite and low-grade ore processing because these once-worthless materials can keep the iron ranges working for generations to come. Provided, of course, that these lower grade ores can compete in price at the steel mills with high grade ores from other areas. They can do so only if our mining industry gets fair tax treatment.

Harvesting and Storing Tender Bulbs

Gladiolus corms must be properly dug, cured and stored if you expect to have strong healthy plants next summer. Dig the bulbs after the tops have been killed by frost but before the ground freezes. Cut back the tops to a point just above the corm. Keep each variety separate and properly labeled if you are interested in growing named varieties.

• • • • •

Cure the corms in shallow trays in a well ventilated building. Peach boxes in which the bottoms have been replaced by a wire screen make ideal drying trays. If the trays are stacked during the drying process, a cleat should be placed between the trays to allow good circulation.

• • • • •

After about six weeks the corms should be dried enough to be cleaned. Clean the corms by breaking off the old basal corm and removing any loose scales. Dust the corms with 5 per cent DDT before placing in winter storage. The DDT will kill any thrip that might winter over on the corms. Store over winter in a cool, dry place. A temperture of about 40°F. is ideal for this purpose.

• • • • •

Dahlias should be dug carfully after the tops have been killed by frost. Leave the roots exposed to the sun for a few hours to dry. Store in a cool, moist room. To keep the roots from shriveling, store in wood shavings or sand. Examine occasionally during the winter for mold or shriveling. Roots that have not fully matured are difficult to carry over winter.

• • • • •

Tigridea and cannas should be handled in much the same way as gladiolus.

HAMRE . . .

By Mrs. Frank Johnson, Grygla

(Last weeks news)

Mr. and Mrs. George Carlson took Mrs. Enos Whitson to Hillsboro, N. Dakota on Sunday, Sept. 27. She was called there to aid in caring for her mother who again took suddenly ill. Mrs. Whitson had just returned from a weeks stay with her parents on Friday night.

Lloyd Korstad consulted a Thief River Falls doctor last Wednesday night with blood poisoning starting in his knee, resulting from an injury he sustained that same afternoon while combining. Marland Johnson accompanied Lloyd on the trip. He is O. K. again now.

Harvey Thune, Norman Berry, Alfred Offerdahl, Otto Braelson, and J. Ladeater all employees from Land O'Lakes in Thief River Falls with two trucks came to the Frank Johnson farm on October 1 and got two truck loads of turkeys. After the turkeys were dressed Stewart McCloud, manager of Land O'Lakes and Andy manager of the dressing department announced that this was the best flock of turkeys yet delivered to the plant so far this year. Of nearly 500 birds that Marland and Viola Johnson had on this delivery all were A grade, and of the 477 toms they dressed an average weight of 24 pounds.

(News this week)

The Carmel Ladies Aid will hold a rummage and bake sale on Oct. 16 at the local hall in Grygla. Lunch will also be sold through-out the day.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Panek and sons and daughter-in-law were visitors last Sunday at the Frank Johnson home. They were from Goodridge.

The following have been employed at the Clarence Carlson farm the past week harvesting a field of potatoes: Mr. and Mrs. Harry Johaneson, Engmore Tanem, Harold and Kenneth Siebert, Mrs. Viola Johnson, Mrs. Pete Hendrickson and sons, Jerry Champlin and some other young boys near Grygla.

The wedding write-up for Marvin Johnson and Lillie Fogleman has been received and will be found in the social column of this paper.

Marland Johnson and Dewane England motored to Crookston, A. C. Sunday where both boys are attending school.

Linda and Donald Johnson spent most of all last week at the Manley Anderson home during the day while their mother was working in the potato fields.

Mrs. Frank Johnson spent last Thursday over night in Thief River Falls at Harvey Woods home. The second truck load of turkeys was butchered the next morning at the local dressing plant at Land O'Lakes for the Johnson's.

Today's High School Graduates Rate High But Have Weak Points

Employers rate present-day high school graduates sharply higher in alertness, learning ability, self-confidence and maturity, compared with grads of ten or twenty years ago. These are the chief strong points of youthful job-holders brought out in a survey of employment agencies in 44 cities, by the family economics bureau of Northwestern National Life Insurance company.

But — these greater potentialities are more poorly developed and applied today, employers tell the placement agencies. There are shining exceptions, of course, but an astonishing proportion of the current grads can't spell, can't punctuate, can't do percentages or other simple arithmetic, the agencies report. Too many are unreliable; too many have no interest in doing a good day's work, and don't.

Too many have inflated ideas of their worth in terms of starting salaries. These are the chief criticisms cited in replies to the survey, which asked employment agency executives to list the strong points and the weak points of the typical present-day high school graduate on the job, as brought out by the experience of employer-clients.

Personality traits dominated the inventory of strong points listed for modern highschoolers; Poise, assurance, aggressiveness, adaptability, ease in meeting strangers, ability to get along with others, mature knowledge of the world, were the most frequently cited.

"Wrong attitude" headed the biggest group of faults listed. Of these, inflated ideas of own value and desire to start at an experienced worker's salary, were the number one complaint; instability and irresponsibility were second, including tardiness, loafing, staying away from work without excuse, and quitting without notice. Third in frequency of mention was indifference—"no interest in anything but how much can be gotten for how little work."

Ignorance of fundamentals such as spelling, punctuation, arithmetic and grammar were a close second in number of complaints. "Too much progressive education; not enough training in three 'R's'" was a typical comment. "Too many elective courses; teen-agers naturally follow line of least resistance and take 'cinch' studies, avoiding math and other 'solid' courses as much as possible," was another typical remark. Some commented on the promotion system used in certain public schools. "They're graduating people now who couldn't have gotten past the freshman year before the war," said one eastern employment agency man. "Schools crowded; classes too large," was another frequent comment.

There was considerable disagreement in the appraisals of graduates of high school commercial courses. Some placement officials feel that high schools in their territory are giving excellent training in stenography and other office courses. Others say that graduates of city high school commercial courses are likely to be better trained than those from small town high school business classes, "but boys and girls from the smaller towns have better spirit, more desire to do a good job, and are more industrious."

Firearm Mishaps Killed 50 State Residents in '52

Firearm accidents killed 50 persons in Minnesota last year. According to the section of vital statistics, state department of health, 30 of these fatalities resulted from such public accidents as hunting mishaps, while 20 of the deaths resulted from accidents with guns occurring in the home or yard.

In the public accidents involving firearms, three of the victims were under 15 years of age, 19 were 15-44 and eight were 45 or or older. Home firearm accidents claimed the lives of ten children under 15, seven persons in the age group 15 to 44 and three who were more than 45.

With the hunting season in full swing, hunters are urged to use every caution to prevent fatal shootings this year.

Farm Land Price Drop Is Apparent In State This Year

Farm real estate prices in Minnesota have marked time the past year. In some areas prices have declined slightly — the first drop since World War II's demand for farm products started them up ten years ago.

This was revealed by an extensive survey conducted by L. Orlo Sorenson, a graduate student in agricultural economics at the University of Minnesota. It showed that although not all the areas of the state showed a decrease in land values the past year, none showed an increase.

Average price for land and buildings dropped from $107 to $105 an acre during the year ending June 30, the survey showed. A few farm real estate brokers questioned though land prices were higher in 1953 than last year, but most felt prices had fallen slightly.

Reports showed more of a price decline in the northern and east central districts of Minnesota than in the southern and west central areas. Most of the drop in the state's average value per acre came from price declines in the Northwestern, west central and northeastern areas.

The Red River Valley, in the northwest, showed the past year's greatest decline — a drop from $69 to $64 per acre, about 6 per cent. Other areas decreased from $1 to $3 in average value per acre and southwestern counties showed no decline at all.

By districts, here are the 1952 and 1953 average prices per acre: southeast, $131 in 1952, $130 this year; southwest, same as last year — $175; west central, $96 in 1952, $95 this year; east central, $63 in 1952, $62 this year; northwest, $68 in 1952, $64 this year; northeast, $42 in 1952, $40 this year.

Probably the chief cause of the declines is a cost-price squeeze felt by farmers during the past several months, researcher Sorenson said. Prices received by farmers have dropped more rapidly than prices they pay for farm production necessities.

Many Arrests for Game Violations During September

September arrests for game and fish law violations totaled 130 resulting in fines of $2,180.00 plus $53.04 in costs, according to F. W. Johnson, warden service supervisor.

Arrests this September included 68 guns set up, 30 big game, 30 fishing, 13 small game, hunting and carrying guns 8game refuges, 7 wild rice, 2 netting, and 2 resisting warden.

But in the attempt of doing so he nearly got rid of himself as well. The rock measured 5x5 x7 feet and Victor began undermining the stone, keeping on for two hours, diging a hole 6-ft. deep, working directly under the stone. After he had the hole the size he wanted it he figured he better hurry and get out before something happened but just as he was bracing himself on the shovel to climb out the big rock rushed in pinning him tightly against the side of the excavation. Luckily enough, Victor said, he had left the grubaxe close to the edge, so he reached for that and began picking at the dirt. He kept on for an hour and then finally was able to crawl out of the hole, feeling pretty thankful that he was still able to breathe and move.

Modern Art Takes a Licking!

Did you know we had a real artist in town? Yes sir! Handy Jackson was a contributor to the Sculpture Exhibition at the Centerville Fair last week.

His work was streaky pink and curved all around—sort of streamlined. Caused quite a stir. Nobody was sure what it was supposed to represent, but some liked it and thought it was good art. Handy gave me the lowdown:

"Why, it was nothing but a piece of cattle salt our cows have been lickin' at for months. I just had it mounted. Fooled a lot of folks — one fellow even wanted to buy it!"

From where I sit, Handy's "modern art" just shows how some people can be led astray. Some even get to be "experts"—especially about the other fellow's business. Whether it's art or music, or a simple thing like choosing, say, beer or milk with a snack, we should live and let live. There's no call for either of us to set ourselves up as a "model" for the other!

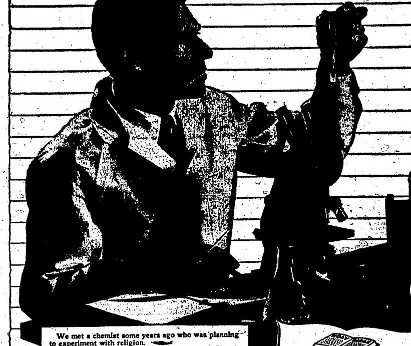
AN EXPERIMENT IN RELIGION



We met a chemist some years ago who was planning to experiment with religion.

"Some Sunday," he said, "I'm going to go to Church and see if it makes any difference in my life."

"Doctor," we asked (for he had a number of degrees), "How does a chemist begin his experiments in a new field?"

"With research," came the reply. "He studies the findings of other men in that field—determines what has been proven—what is unknown."

"That's a good way to begin your experiment with religion" we suggested. "It would hardly be 'scientific' to judge Christianity, or your need for it, on the basis of one visit to Church. But a few months of faithful attendance, and many thoughtful evenings with the Bible will give you a clear understanding of what others have found in Christianity. You'll discover spiritual truths which centuries of experience have proven, and gain a faith that can bridge the Unknown."

At last report, our chemist was making fine progress in his experiment. In fact, he no longer thinks of his religion as experimental!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Holt Community Items Reported

By Mrs. Christine Peterson, Holt

There now is another vacant lot in our village. The Evangelical Free Church (Mission church) was moved the past week to Newfolden. It is now being remodeled into a modern home which is to be the parsonage for the Evangelical Free church at Newfolden. We are happy that it is to be used for that purpose. A large percent of those God-fearing pioneers who made it possible to build that church have now passed on and others have moved away from our village. It would be wonderful to write something fitting in their memory but maybe just a Scripture verse would do as well: "Now he that planteth and he that watereth are one: and every man shall receive his own reward according to his own labour."—1 Co. 38.

At a beautiful wedding in the presence of many relatives and friends Norma Faye Horien daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leo Horien of Holt became the bride of Clifford Dahle, whose parents live at Cando, N. Dak. Rev. Raymond Brandt officiated at the double ring ceremony. Details of this wedding can be read in the social items of the Times.

How big is the universe? Astronomers are busy recomputing former estimates following discoveries of the most far-reaching error man ever made. New measurements show the entire visible universe outside the earth's own galaxy to be twice as far away, twice as old, and eight times as big as science previously thought.

Nutrition experts have expressed concern over the decline in sweet potato production from 61,000,000 bushels in 1948 to 28,000,000 bushels in 1952. They say that of 28 common fresh vegetables, sweet potatoes contain the lowest percentage of carbohydrates and the largest number of calories per pound.

Water Resources Are Checked in Marshall

Work is being completed on phase 1 of the water resources survey in Kittson and Marshall counties by the National Geodetic Survey, Water Resources division.

This survey is being made possible by the Minnesota Iron Range and Resources commission and the federal government. Both agencies have made $50.00 each available for the extensive project.

The National Geodetic Survey is making explorations in three separate phases: (1) Surface water; (2) Ground water; and (3) Quality of water.

James E. Johnson of St. Paul is the engineer in charge of the erection of six water stage recording wells in Marshall county and seven in Kittson county. Several other proposed sites are under consideration also.

The wells in Kittson county have been completed and Mr. Johnson and a crew are now working in Marshall county erecting the stations. Work was completed on the first phases of the stations in Warren and Alvarado Monday and Tuesday.

Each station costs from $1,600 to $1,800 to install. They are 42-inch corrugated wells sunk into the stream bank. A 2¼-inch galvanized pipe brings water in from the stream to the well where it is quieted so it can be measured accurately.

A float rides on the water and through a system of gears plots a mark on a graph giving the height of the water at all times. This guage checks the stage and any changes of stage. A house fits on top of the well to house the equipment.

The engineer's office makes routine checks with instruments to check the rate of flow. Then statisticians can plot the rate of flow against the stage and accurately measure the amount of water flowing at any given time or the total amount flowing for a season.

The ground water division will come in to this area this fall and drill several deep wells to determine underground water resources and later another crew will move in to check the quality of water to complete the 3-phase investigation.

In Marshall county the water stage recording wells are being placed in the following locations: Snake river at Alvarado, Snake river at Warren, Middle river near Argyle, Middle river above state park, Tamarac river near Florian and the Tamarac river near Stephen. Another well is located at the Red river at Oslo but is operated by another unit.

Other possible locations for wells in Marshall county include: Tamarac at Stephen, Snake west of Argyle, Red at Drayton and Thief River at outlet.

In Kittson county the locations of the wells are as follows: north branch of Two rivers at Lancaster, north branch of Two rivers near Northcote, north branch of Two rivers near Lancaster, south branch of Two rivers at Lake Bronson, south branch of Two rivers at Pelan, Two rivers below Hallock and state ditch 85 near Lancaster.

College Training Offered by Navy

Applications Must Be Filed by November 21

According to Chief D W. Hancock, petty officer in charge of the Navy recruiting substation in Grand Forks, the Navy has announced that the eighth nationwide competitive examination for its college training program, the Naval Reserve Officers' Training Corps, has been scheduled for December 12, 1953. The Navy emphasized that this date is final and examinations would not be given at any other time regardless of circumstances.

Successful candidates will participate in four years of college training with government assistance and will be commissioned as officers of the Navy or Marine Corps upon graduation.

Applications for examinations are available to high school seniors or graduates within the age requirements. The applications may be obtained at high schools, colleges, and Navy recruiting stations throughout the country. Completed applications must reach the Edupational Testing Service in Princeton, N. J. by November 21, 1953.

The program is open to male citizens of the United States between the ages 17 and 21, and quotas have been assigned to each state and territory on the basis of its high school population. Those who are successful in passing the aptitude test will be interviewed and given physical examinations. Then, if they are found in all respects qualified, their names will be submitted to state and territorial selection committees composed of prominent citizens and naval officers for final selections.

The Navy expects to enter about 2,000 students in the program for the fall term of college, 1954. Those selected by the competitive examinations will be assigned within quotas, to schools of their choice among universities and colleges which maintain NROTC units.

If accepted by the college, the candidates will be appointed midshipmen USNR, and will have their tuition, books and normal fees paid for by the government. In addition, they will receive pay at the rate of $600.00 a year for the four-year period and will be provided the required uniforms.

In the old City of London, business heart of the British capital, a million people crowd the streets by day, but only a few thousand remain in the area to sleep.

'Viking' Name now Official for 47th Division of Guard

It's official now — members of the Minnesota National Guard's 47th Infantry Division of which Thief River Falls Company F is a part, are "Vikings." The announcement was made by Major General Norman E. Hendrickson, division commander, when he received a letter stating that the division's nickname had been officially recorded at the Department of the Army.

The nickname was first taken unofficially by the division when its shoulder patch insigne was adopted in 1948. The insigne is a white Viking helmet superimposed on a blue-and-red Norseman's shield. The patch is symbolic of the Scandinavian ancestry of many Minnesotans. It also symbolizes the early Vikings who, many historians believe, were the first white men to explore this area.

The inclusion of the nickname as an official part of the division designation is in accordance with recently adopted Army policy.

TO OUR FRIENDS,
THE PEOPLE OF THE VICINITY:

The world is still in a state of turmoil and unrest. Events of great importance are taking place: the fighting in Korea is in a state of "Truce", POW's are repatriated, wages of labor are being raised, farm products suffer a slump. Dissatisfaction is mounting everywhere.

In the peaceful plains of Northern Minnesota, we have always fostered the family life and a neighborly good-feeling. Through-out the years, a get-together of neighbors has been the annual dinner or supper sponsored by the various churches.

We are happy to announce that the annual

TURKEY AND GOOSE SUPPER AND CHURCH BAZAAR

sponsored by the Church of the Assumption at Florian will be held on Sunday, Oct. 18th, 1953

A big turkey and goose supper will be served from 4:00 P. M. to 9:00 P. M. Games and various other entertainments will take place from 5:00 P. M. till midnight.

We shall greatly appreciate your presence.

Florian is 12 miles East of Stephen; 14 miles S. W. of Karlstad; 16 miles N. E. of Argyle; 22 miles West of Middle River.

No distance is too long if it means to meet friends and to have a good time.

Mercury Mounts to High Mark of 80 in Past Week

An unprecedented long spell of summery weather continued in this area during the past week, men in shirt sleeves being very much in evidence as the mercury mounted to a high mark of 80 last Friday, followed by 69 Sunday, 77 Monday and 79 Tuesday. A welcome shower last Friday night and Saturday morning brought .53 inch of rain. An unusual feature of the temperature record is that since the mercury dropped to the 18-degree mark at the end of September, temperatures during the first three weeks of October failed to drop to the freezing mark.

Richard Burtness Gives Details of Journey to Dairy Cattle Congress

Richard Burtness of Silverton township, who showed the grand champion purebred heifer at Northwest Dairy Day in this city June 9, spoke at a dinner meeting of the Civic and Commerce association last Thursday evening in the Elks club rooms. John Anderson, a director presided in the absence of L. A. Ihle, president.

Richard described the trip to the Waterloo, Iowa, Dairy Cattle Congress awarded to him as a prize, and which he made recently in company with Stuart McLeod, who also spoke briefly.

Richard told of the thrill at seeing 2,066 head of championquality cattle, including 520 Holsteins, his favorite breed, assembled in one place. In addition to witnessing the judging of the cattle, he said, they attended a national Holstein-Freshian banquet. He thanked the Northwest Dairy Improvement association, sponsor of Dairy Day, for having given him the opportunity to make the trip.

As evidence of the stiff competition at the Waterloo show, McLeod stated that the animal that won the grand championship at the Minnesota state fair this year placed 13th at Waterloo.

Ward Nichols, Morris Howick and Secretary J. M. Roche submitted reports on a workshop they had attended in Minneapolis the previous day, the sessions being sponsored by the United States Chamber of Commerce. They said they had derived much valuable information.

Chest Fund Gets $3,148 to Tuesday

Solicitors Urged to Finish Assignments

With only a few teams in the Thief River Falls business district, and none from the rural areas, having reported to date, a total of $3,148.81 had been turned in to the Pennington County Community Chest up to Tuesday afternoon, Mrs. M. R. Levorson, secretary, announced.

The total, which includes $1,250 recently collected in the residential areas of the city, is approximately one-fourth of the quota of $12,154 which has been set up as the 1953 objective.

Mrs. Levorson joined with Neil McElwee, president of the chest organization, in urging all solicitors to complete their assignments as quickly as possible and turn in their reports.

Nearly 70 Lions and their ladies attended an enjoyable dinner party in the Elks club rooms last Wednesday evening, commemorating the 15th anniversary of the local Lions club.

Receiving special attention at the party were the six remaining charter members still affiliated with the club, including George W. Werstlein, W. G. Claffy, Bill LaFave, N. A. Holen, Dr. E. S. Amesbury and L. A. Ihle, the last two being unable to be present. Each was presented by club president John Anderson with a gold tie clasp, bearing the Lions insignia.

Norman Peterson, who presided ably as toastmaster, introduced as the guest speaker the Rev. D. T. Beadle of Eveleth, formerly an active member of the local club. He praised the group as a public spirited organization, and expressed the hope that it would long retain its youthful zest. He also pointed out that those who live selfishly are cheating themselves.

Peterson read excerpts from the minutes of the organization meeting of the club held October 7, 1938, and listed some of its accomplishments in the intervening years.

In a humorous interlude, Mr. Beadle presented George Werstlein, former president of the club, with a hearing aid, the better to enable him to hear requests for loans from his bank customers.

Games were played following the program.

Court House to Be Erected on Present Site

County Board Plans to Move Present Building to Rear to Make Room

The projected new Pennington County court house will be built in 1954 on the site of the present structure, including an area to the north acquired from the city, it was decided at a meeting of the county board last Wednesday afternoon, at which M. O. Foss, Moorhead architect who prepared plans for the building, was in attendance.

The board's action followed a failure of the city council to act on the board's proposal, made several months ago, that the council exchange a portion of the west side park property in Block 38 for the present site of the court house. The council had discussed the proposal on several occasions, but had taken no definite action.

The board at its session arranged with the architect to complete the few details remaining to get the plans in readiness, and also made plans to meet with Foss in Moorhead early in November to select construction materials and attend to other preliminary matters. The latter part of January was tentatively set as the time when bids will be requested.

Foss expressed the opinion that it would be feasible to move the old court house temporarily to the rear to clear the site for construction of the new building, after removing the old county jail at the rear of the lot. The move would require that temporary quarters be secured for the county engineer and superintendent of schools, now located in the basement, and that temporary vault space be provided for the offices on the main floor during the construction period.

The county board has sold $250,000 of the $295,000 bonds authorized by the voters late last winter to finance the project, and has invested the proceeds in government securities and certificates of deposit. The remaining $45,000 of the issue will be sold when and if needed, said County Auditor C. W. Rodekuhr.

Roy Oen, chairman of the district U. of M. scholarship committee, will submit a report.

Motion pictures of the 1953 Minnesota-Michigan State football game will be presented.

Council Votes Study of Huge Storm Sewer

Finance Committee Is Asked to Submit Report on West Side Project

Following a lengthy discussion of financial and other considerations involved in the project, the city council at its October session Tuesday evening authorized its finance committee to make a study of the huge west side storm sewer project for which petitions had been filed a year ago, and to report back with its recommendations. Estimated cost of the work at that time was slightly less than $300,000.

In response to a request submitted by Cliff Bjorkman in behalf of the C. and C. merchants committee, the council granted the free use of the Auditorium for Santa Claus Days, which are scheduled for December 3, 4 and 5 and 10, 11 and 12. The Junior Chamber of Commerce also was granted the use of the building for a turkey party Thursday, November 19.

A committee from the Pennington county board, including Don Olson, Merle Lindberg and County Auditor C. W. Rodekuhr informed the council that the board has decided to erect the new court house on the site of the old one, and they asked for permission to remove the old building temporarily to the rear of the arena to clear the site for construction next spring.

The committee also asked for an agreement by the city not to permit any new construction between the Auditorium and the new court house when completed. The council indicated the requests would be granted.

A letter was read from the local WCTU unit objecting to the practice of granting off-sale beer licenses to grocery stores in the city. A discussion of the matter by council members revealed a division of opinion. The present licenses expire August 1, 1954.

In response to a request submitted by J. M. Roche, secretary of the Civic and Commerce association, the council instructed City Engineer Douglas Stewart to make a preliminary survey of street lighting in the downtown business district.

Cost estimates were submitted

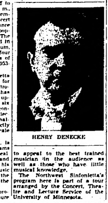
N. W. Sinfonietta to Give Concert Sunday

The concert season gets off to a rousing start at 8:15 p. m., Sunday, October 25, for members of the Northwest Concert association with the appearance of Henry Denecke and his popular Northwest Sinfonietta. The program, which will be held in Lincoln high school auditorium, is the first of a series of four to be presented for members of the association during the 1953-54 concert season.

The Northwest Sinfonietta provides a splendid opener for the series. It needs little introduction in this area, as it has played for audiences in the upper midwest for the past six seasons. The organization consists of twenty musicians, selected in such a way that the balance of instruments is exactly the same as for a full-scale symphony orchestra.



HENRY DENECKE

Henry Denecke, conductor, is famous for providing programs which have real popular appeal. He conducts with vitality and enthusiasm, drawing from his musicians the kind of music that reaches right out to the listener, catching him into the rhythm and melody.

Denecke includes on his programs selections that are sure to appeal to the best trained musician in the audience as well as those who have little musical knowledge.

The Northwest Sinfonietta's program here is part of a tour arranged by the Concert, Theatre and Lecture Service of the University of Minnesota.

Ten Registered Nurses Added to Staff of Hospital

Staff Greatly Enlarged During Past Six Weeks, Administrator States

In line with the policy of the board of trustees to improve the quality of nursing care in Northwestern Hospital, ten full-time registered nurses have been added to the nursing staff within the past six weeks.

It is the belief of the board stated H. W. Peterson, administrator, that a modern hospital building such as the one now in process of construction must be accompanied by similar excellence in the quality of the nursing care given in the hospital. An aim is to have every nursing floor covered by a registered nurse in charge on every shift. It is felt that this particular aim will soon be accomplished.

Two other registered nurses from Canada are also coming as soon as their visas are processed. Mr. Peterson states that together with the affiliation the hospital now has with the University of Minnesota school of nursing which furnishes the hospital with six students, from 13 allied schools of nursing in Minnesota, the quality of nursing care is definitely on the upgrade.

At the Knox PTA meeting last Monday evening, Mayor Harry Simons gave a brief talk on the new safety markings on the following corners — Main Avenue and 1st Street, Main and 8th Street, Horace Avenue and 1st Street, and Crocker Avenue and 3rd Street. These markings are an experiment in pedestrian crossing where the school children cross. If this is successful, curb markers painted as the street is painted will be put up.

There is no city ordinance provided for these new safety zones so their success will depend on their acceptance by the public and will determine to what extent this program will be enlarged upon. So far they have seemed to cause motorists to slow down. Parents should direct children to use these cross-walks, he said.

Mr. Simons read a letter issued by the police department which is sent as a warning to motorists passing thru stop signs. He asked everyone to cooperate in obtaining the last three numbers of car licences where the drivers do not heed the stop signs and to report these license numbers to the city police department in order that letters of warning may be sent to the drivers. Mr. Simons urged the general public to cooperate in all other ways also to insure the safety of our children going to and from school.

A Knox PTA safety council was formed with Lloyd Spray as chairman. Other members of the committee include Merle Lindberg, Palmer Lorenson, Milton Reierson, and Otto Stenberg.

State Parents Urged to Watch for Ringworm

Epidemic ringworm has already been reported in a few communities of the state and parents of all school children are warned today in a bulletin issued by the Minnesota State Medical association to keep a special eye out for signs of it. Also they are urged to see that their own children are taught how to avoid the parasite whether or not it is known to be lurking in their localities.

Ringworm is a contagious disease of the skin and scalp caused by a parasitic fungus and it produces ring-shaped patches covered with scales. Domestic animals are subject to it, too, and once it gets a start among school children it is difficult to control, the doctors say.

The parasite spreads from person to person by direct contact with contaminated articles. Children should be instructed never to trade caps, and they should have their own combs and separate towels. Barbers should especially be reminded to avoid contamination on their tools.

by Leo DuChamp, street commissioner, on three blacktop projects scheduled for next year, and the hearing was deferred pending action on other applications. Petitions also were filed asking for the surfacing of Taft st. from Kendall to Maple avs.; and Kneale av. from Hughes to First sts. and from Third to Taft sts.

Alderman Ed Christensen, chairman of the street committee, reported that the city crew had blacktopped 40 blocks of city streets during the past season.

The council approved building permits calling for a stated expenditure of nearly $45,000, including new homes to be erected by Iver Nelson & Sons on Second st. at Highway 59; Harold Langseth, 318 Merriam av. N.; and Stanley Ranum in the 200 block on Kneale av. S. Other permits covered three garages and two additions to dwellings.

Washington PTA Met Monday Night

Group Is Appointed to Study Personal Welfare

The Washington school PTA met Monday evening with Pres. Oscar Hoglin in charge. The parents were introduced to their children's teachers and also visited their classrooms. It was decided that each child returning his completed dental card be given a tooth brush as had been done the previous year.

The topic of personal welfare was discussed, particularly in relation to current rumors that were felt to be of such serious nature as to warrant immediate and definite action. It was determined to end such rumors either by disproving them, or should they be found to be true, to take action accordingly.

A committee was chosen consisting of Dr. W. M. Feigal, John F. Whisler, Jr., John Vondrachek, Ray Bren, Olaf Dahlen and Oscar Hoglin, chairman. It will be their duty to determine a course of action.

The committee hopes to meet with other PTA groups, civic associations, ministerial ass'n., the police force and other interested groups to promote city-wide interest so that direct action can be taken to correct the situation that forms the basis for public concern.

Mrs. Max Jensen, music chairman, led in group singing. Lunch was served by the fifth grade mothers. The next meeting will be a general meeting on November 9, 1953 in the high school auditorium with a guest speaker.

Women's Auxiliary of N. W. Hospital Has Busy Session

Group Votes to Give Assistance to Local Blood Bank Project

The women's auxiliary of Northwestern Hospital disposed of numerous matters at a busy session Monday evening in the Civic and Commerce rooms.

The group approved the constitution and by-laws as drawn up by a committee headed by Mrs. Paul A. Lundgren. Mrs. A. E. Jacobson and Mrs. J. E. Bloomquist, co-chairmen of the membership committee, reported that the auxiliary now has 105 members.

Mrs. John Wassgren and Mrs. J. W. Mullen told of the lending of books and magazines to patients in the hospital, and made a request for devotional books from the various church organizations. They also commented on the excellent cooperation given by the nurse personnel.

Following a discussion by Mrs. Lois Kelpin, technician at the hospital, on the benefits that would result from setting up a blood bank in this city, the auxiliary voted to give its assistance to the project.

Harold W. Peterson, hospital administrator, spoke briefly, thanking the group for the many services it has rendered the institution and its patients.

Guests at the meeting were student nurses from Hamline University, St. Paul, and Northwestern Hospital, who are temporarily serving in this city. Coffee and cake were served following the business session.

PUBLIC OPINION

Editor the Times:

In recent weeks we have all become increasingly alarmed over the mounting traffic fatalities in our nation and especially those in our own state of Minnesota.

The members of the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Thief River Falls, numbering more than one hundred, believe liquor is a major contributing factor in these serious traffic accidents.

May we call your attention to these facts: "Prince Edward Island in Canada has had prohibition for many years. It has had only one divorce in 60 years. They have no penitentiary. There are only 13 policemen for 90,000 people. There are no highwaymen, no gangsters and no commercialized vice. They have more than 10,000 automobiles, and the roads are winding and dangerous but the automobile accidents average TWO per year."

Why can't Minnesota and the United States have a record like this? It IS possible! We need men and women elected to Congress and to the legislature who will make the right kind of laws and men elected in our own localities who will enforce the laws.

Respectfully,
Thief River Falls W. C. T. U.

Storing Garden Produce

The fall season is almost past and we must talk about some late and important tips on storage of youur garden produce. The people with the "Green Thumb" work so hard during the year producing garden crops, that it is a shame to use the wrong methods of storing, and then have them spoil.

Before storing any of the root crops, wash and dry them thoroughly. Oftentimes the dirt adhering to vegetables might harbor injurious insects or diseases. Put only the best of the crop in storage. Discard any roots with defects or diseases. Store in a cool, moist place where the temperature can be maintained between 32 degrees and 40 degrees F. Low temperature is the critical factor in successful storage of carrots. Keep them at 32 degrees to 40 degrees F. in a 10-gallon crock loosely covered with a burlap sack. If the tops are removed with a small amount of the crown of the carrot, you will find less sprouting during the storage period.

If you find that your potatoes are infested with late blight disease, be sure to examine closely the potatoes that go into storage. But do not store any with blemishes on the skins of the tubers. Blighted tubers will break down very quickly and produce a wet, smelly condition in your storage room. Sometimes potatoes are put in piles in the field and covered with about 1 foot of straw and 6 inches of soil on top of the straw. Potatoes can be safely kept in this condition until most of the blighted ones have broken down. The sound tubers can then be placed in storage where the temperature can be maintained between 32-40 degrees F.

For best resuults, don't treat your potatoes with sprout inhibitors until the middle of December. Several compounds are on the market that do a satisfactory job of preventing sprouting of potatoes.

Onions require cool temperatures but a dry atmosphere for successful storage. The attic may be an ideal place for storing onions.

Store your squash and pumpkins in the furnace room where the air is warm and dry. (40-50 degrees).

Cabbage produces undesirable odors that may be taken up by other vegetables, so if you plan to store it, keep it out of doors in a trench or pit that is covered with straw and dirt.

Dig up a small plant or two of parsley or chives and transplant into a large pot. Care for them as you would any ordinary house plant and you will have leaves to garnish and flavor your dishes during the winter.

Clean up the garden plot and remove all debris and plant remains. Since may insects and diseases over-winter on garden refuse, burn all crop remains that are infested with insects or disease. Healthy plants can be placed on the compost pile or plowed under. Rake up all old fruits of tomatoes, pepper, melons and cucumbers before plowing. This will help eliminate volunteer plants in your garden next spring. Fall plowing will aid in the destruction of many insect pests as well as improve the organic structure of the soil.

I hope this will answer some of your questions concerning storage of vegetables and handling of your garden during the winter months. If you have more, come in and see me. If I don't know the answer, I'll find out for you.

Be seeing you!

At the beginning of Monday's meeting an inspection was held, with the battalion and regimental commanders, Col. McKenzie and Col. Miller doing the inspecting. Col. Miller later stated that Co. F. is a fine looking outfit and one of the best companies in the battalion and regiment.

September sales in Minnesota were $5,930,737.

Prowlers Score 5th Win, Take Ada 38-12; Bemidji Here Friday

Exhibiting a diversified attack, and taking advantage of Ada fumbles, the Prowlers, playing at Ada on Friday night in an inter-district football game, rolled up six touchdowns to score a decisive 38 to 12 win over the Vikings.

The victory, which was the locals fifth in six starts this season, also served to prime coach Ralph Skjod's squad for this week's traditional tussle against Coach Red Wilson's powerful Bemidji Lumberjacks here on Friday night, with the kickoff slated for 8:00 p. m. Bemidji, which last year was rated as the state's best prep team, is currently ranked as the state's third best high school team, being outranked by St. James and Detroit Lakes.

On Friday night at Ada, the Prowlers received the opening kickoff and racked up four consecutive first downs to carry to the Vikings' 19-yard line. A pair of completed passes, from Sid Vraa to Art Johnson, and frm Vraa to Bill Frahm, were important factors in the drive. From the 19, Ray Berg gained 6 yards at right tackle; Bob Helgeland, who turned in a fine running game for the locals, added 3 yards. After Vraa had lost six yards to move the ball back to the Ada 16 yard line, Vraa, on fourth down, whipped a pass to Helgeland in the end zone for the first touchdown. On the try for the conversion, a pass to Frahm was incomplete.

Just as the first period ended, guard Jim Sauve rushed thru to block an Ada kick, with the Prowlers recovered in the 50-yard line. After Helgeland had opened the second period play by gaining four yards at left tackle, Vraa hit Berg with a pass and the Prowler speedster moved ahead to the Vikings' 8 yard line. A Prowler penalty set the locals back to the 13 from where Lyle Guttu sliced through left guard for a touchdown. Vraa added the point on a placekick.

Another blocked kick, this time on the Ada 21-yard line, set up the third Prowler TD. Guttu and Berg rushed for a first down on the 8; Vraa picked up four yards around left end, and then Helgeland raced thru left tackle for the major. Vraa split the uprights with a placement, giving the Prowlers a 20 to 0 lead at the intermission.

On the second play from scrimmage in the third period, with Ada on offense from their 35-yard line, Darryl Durgin recovered a Viking fumble and ran 35 yards for a Prowler touchdown. Vraa's placekick was wide. Late in the third period, from the Ada 33-yard line, Vraa picked up an Ada fumble and sprinted across for another touchdown, boosting the Prowler lead to 32 to 0 as the fourth period began.

A fine run-back of an Ada punt, from the Prowler 30 to mid-field by Helgeland, started the Prowlers on their final touchdown march. With Jack Quesnell playing at quarterback, the locals moved downfield on four first downs to the Ada 3-yard line. Quesnell, on sneak through left guard, went across the east goal-line for the major, and the score was 38 to 0.

Ada roared back to avert a shutout when, from the Ada 48-yard line, John Krogstad fired a pass to end Sherman Moe, who made the catch in the clear on the Prowler 15-yard line and raced into the end zone for the six-pointer, and Ada's first points. Minutes later, the Viking had their second touchdown when Vernon Habeck intercepted a Prowler pass on the Thief River 27-yard line and ambled across for the touchdown. The try for the point, on a kick, failed when the Prowler line broke up the play, giving the Prowlers a well-deserved 38 to 12 victory.

Hunting Illegal on Mud Lake Refuge

Two Trespassers Were Recently Fined $50 Each

Local hunters are again reminded that entry on any part of the Mud Lake national wildlife refuge is not permitted under any circumstances.

Two trespassers were recently apprehended, taken to local court and assessed fines of $50.00 each and costs—conviction being based on the charges of hunting waterfowl in the refuge, and aiding and abetting in hunting waterfowl on the refuge.

While one important objective of the refuge is to provide improved hunting in the refuge vicinity, it is, at the same time, very necessary to mark a definite boundary beyond which the public cannot be permitted entry.

Hunters should plan their boundary hunting so that they do not shoot at waterfowl within the marked boundary. Hunters should likewise refrain from shooting waterfowl outside the boundary if it is obvious that the bird will drop within the refuge boundaries.

Leader Training Session Is Held

Home Project Leaders Study Pressure Cooking

Leader training in the extension home program lesson on pressure saucepan meals was completed in Pennington county last week, according to Home Agent Marge Olson.

The voluntary leaders especially enjoyed that part of the lesson in which they prepared and tasted the luncheon, cooked completely in pressure saucepans. Points covered in the discussions were the buying and care of the utensil, and new findings in pressure cooking were brought out.

Local merchants in Thief River Falls are cooperating with the extension service by displaying the various brands of pressure saucepans while interest is still high in the topic.

The next lesson in the home program will be on sewing machine attachments. Training will be given to the voluntary leaders at the end of November, Miss Olson added.

Local Audience Gets Hunting Safety Tips

An appreciative audience was in attendance at the Auditorium on Tuesday night when the local Sportsman's club, in conjunction with the Minnesota Conservation Federation, presented a "Safety in Hunting" program.

Bob Bell, president of the local club, introduced Kern Olson, the state federation president, and Olson in turn introduced the secretary of the federation, Cliff Sakry, who presided at the meeting.

Mr. Sakry explained that the two vital objects of the federation were (1) something to hunt, and (2) to return safely from hunting. He stressed the fact that 38 hunters lost their lives last season through hunting accidents, and that a campaign was being started to reduce that number by fifty percent this year. In an effort to instill safety in the minds of the hunters, a poster campaign has begun. These posters, emphasizing the slogans of "look twice before you shoot" and "never trust an unloaded gun" are being given state-wide distribution.

Mr. Sakry then introduced Carl Moen, an executive of the Minnesota Conservation Department.

Moen stated that failure to identify the target is the principal cause of deer hunting fatalities. He said that of 11 deer hunting fatalities last fall, seven were shot by members of their own party. He also briefly outlined the safety campaign now being conducted by the conservation department, including the distribution of huge quantities of posters and leaflets.

Lee Kulavar, chairman of the federation's "Safety in Hunting" committee, then presented his deer hunting visual safety training test, with the audience participating in the tests. Mr. Kulavar conducted the test by flashing scenes on a screen, and the participants were to determine whether a deer or man was revealed, and indicating on an answer sheet the choice. It was evident that caution is necessary when deer hunting, and that the hunters should be certain of his target before shooting.

Bob Rhode, the Mid-west archery champion, gave an exhibition of his expertness with the bow and arrow. Phil Gagnon, the Robbinsdale dog-training expert, concluded the evening's program by an interesting discussion on dog handling. Gagnon, who had his dogs here previously, stated that the four objectives in dog training are (1) to teach the dog to heel and sit (2) to teach the dog to hold the object of retrieve (3) to teach the dog to "give" and (4) to teach the dog to fetch and obey visual signals.

This "Safety in Hunting" program was the fourth that the state federation has conducted to date to the series that is being held in "key" cities throughout the state. While the program is sponsored by the Federation, the expenses incidental to these meetings is paid by the Schmidt Brewing Company of St. Paul.

Beat Bemidji

The Paul Bunyan of northwestern Minnesota high school athletics, the Bemidji Lumberjacks, will be here on Friday night for an eighth regional football game against the Prowlers, with kickoff time scheduled for 8:00 p. m. The outcome of the game will, unofficially, determine the region's football championship.

The Lumberjack's, who were rated as the state's best last year, and carrying a rank as the state's third best this season, will be the odds-on favorites to score their eighth straight football triumph over the blue-and-gold. In 1945, the Prowlers, captained by Wes Hovie and coached by Glenn Hanna, played the Jacks to a 6-all tie, and Bemidji was fortunate to get out of that game with a draw.

The last time that a Prowler vs. Bemidji football game was recorded into the win column for the locals was back in 1943. In that yar the Lumberjacks, captained by Bob Bomber Brown, and with such luminaries as tackle Phil Feir and halfback Dick Lawrence on the squad, came over here with a bagful of favorable press clippings and the intentions of gaining an easy win. It wasn't to be, though, for Glenn Hanna's Prowlers—Norm Furuseth, Tony Dorn, Chuck Richards, Herb Claffy, Ninsk Carlson, Wes Hovie, Bob Baker, Al Thompson, Ray Offerdahl, Billy Nelson, Bill McKechnie, Art Forsberg, Cal Ripley, Rog Tunberg, and Don Freiland—marked up a decisive 27 to 0 victory.

We'll always remember that game because of the "job" that Norm and Tony did on the redoubtable Phil Feir. Feir, playing at left tackle, was reputed to be Bemidji's standout lineman, and it was through his position that the Jacks expected to make yardage. Furuseth, playing at right end, and Dorn, playing at right tackle, high-lowed Phil all night, and at the end of the game the rangy Lumberjack was a discouraged footballer. Feir was made of the right stuff, though, for he went on to lead the Jacks to a successful basketball season, and later entered West Point where he proved to be a capable varsity lineman.

Since that 1943 game, the Prowlers have had Bemidji "on the hook" for a victory on a couple of ocasions, but Red Wilson's squad has always managed to shake loose. The last time that the locals had the Prowler vs. Bemidji game in the game-sack was in 1952. That game, played on a snow-covered Lincoln field a cold October night, was a thriller, and the Jacks eked out a 6 to 19 triumph. Three times during that bitterly-contested struggle, coach Wayne Johnson's Prowlers moved into lead. The Prowlers gained a 6 to 0 first period; held a 12 to 7 advantage in the third period; and a 19 to 13 lead early in the fourth period. Bemidji, with Jack Aakhus running himself into a state of exhaustion, and with fullback Mike Falls (Falls is now a varsity lineman at Minnesota) plunging the line, came back to overtake the Prowlers in each instance.

Fish and Game

While the duck hunters have been grumbling about the blue skies and bright sunshine, the fishermen cheering about the pleasant weather and the fishing. Last Sunday, fishing on the Rainy river near Clementson, Renie Werner caught a 12½-pound walleyed pike. That's one of the finest walleyes to be reported out of the Rainy river this year, and it moves Renie into that select class of fishermen where he doesn't have to lie about the size of a fish he caught. In Renie's case, the truth and nothing but the truth is plenty big.

Clarence and Art Dicken and Harry Phillips fished Lake of the Woods on Sunday, and they too, reported excellent luck. They fished for awhile at Morris point, but they had their best fishing while trolling along Pine island. They didn't catch any trophy fish, just a string of eating-size walleyes.

Last Thursday morning, while hunting the north shore of Thief lake, Ray Johnson was fortunate enough to bag a 12-pound Canada goose. There have been some reports of geese being bagged, but Ray's "honker" takes the poundage honors. Ray, and his brother Gordon, had a limit of canvasbacks to go with that goose.

This week, Henry and Ernie Grantum and George Williamson made a return trip to Saskatchewan for a combined goose and upland game-bird hunting trip. The trio, who are hunting the territory northwest of Regina, stated that the goose hunting up there was "out of this world."

Louis Zahradka, Oconomowoc, Wisconsin, publisher and longtime dairy authority, who is rumored to be in line to head up the dairy branch of the U. S. Department of Agriculture should Edwin M. Morton resign to take up duties with the National Milk Producers Federation. The Wisconsin dairy man will speak at the afternoon program.

The Red River Valley dairy group is made up of some 100 creameries representing thousands of farmer-producers in one of the most important dairy regions in the world. Dairying is the number one industry in the area which includes 15 northwestern Minnesota counties.

Organized in 1903 to promote dairying in the valley, the group has been instrumental in numerous progressive steps in stepping up quality production. The late T. A. Hoverstad, former superintendent of the Northwest School of Agriculture in Crookston, was the principal personality in the organization.

Others who helped to launch the group were C. M. Pesek, St. Paul, now a member of the board of directors even though he has been active with the dairy and food department of the state for many years, and P. I. Anderson, district field manager for Land O'Lakes Creameries, who joined the Red River Valley Association in 1908 when he was operator of the St. Hilaire Creamery and played host to the group's annual meeting.

The golden anniversary meeting will begin on Tuesday, October 27, at the Hotel Crookston when a program conducted by L. M. Conlon, manager of the Minnesota Dairy Industries Committee, is planned.

The Crookston Hotel will be the scene of activities early Wednesday when men's and ladies' butter judging contests, business meetings, elections and selection of the 1954 convention site will occupy the association's attention.

Awards of buttermaking and butter judging prizes will be made in the evening by E. L. Slettom, deputy commissioner of agriculture for the state of Minnesota. Earlier a banquet will be staged in the Trinity Lutheran church for Honor Dairymen and their wives and creamery operators.

The Honor Dairymen are selected annually from each of the member creameries. A farmer can win the honor only once.

H. A. Petry, manager of the Ada Cooperative, is secretary. Directors include R. W. Stommes, Crookston, G. H. Thompson, Ada, Ole Olesen, Frazee, and C. M. Pesek, St. Paul.

Girl Scout Week Opens October 25

More than 2,000,000 Girls Will Join in Observance

More than 2,000,000 Girl Scouts throughout the country will participate in the observance of national Girl Scout Week October 25-31 in memory of the founder of Girl Scouting in the United States, the late Juliette Gordon Low, who was born in Savana, Georgia, October 31, 1860.

Girl Scout Week opens with Girl Scout Sunday October 25, when Girl Scouts attend their churches in uniform. Monday is Homemaking Day; Tuesday is called "Citizenship Day;" Wednesday is Health and Safety Day; Thursday is known as International Day, while Friday and Saturday are called Arts and Crafts Day and Out of Doors Day respectively.

One of the highlights of this year's National observance of Girl Scout Week is the publication of the tenth edition of the Girl Scout Handbook containing up-to-date information on Girl Scout activities and describing new badges. Although this edition of the handbook contains much new material, it outlines the same basic program that Juliette Low introduced to American girls nearly 42 years ago.

The first Girl Scout Handbook was produced under the supervision of Mrs. Low herself, and was called "How Girls Can Serve Their Country." Subsequent editions, including one in Braille and another in large sight-saving type, placed the book high on the best-seller

DOWN ON THE FARM

The Eisenhower administration lost a battle in Wisconsin last week when, in a special election, a normally Republican district chose a Democrat to represent it in Congress. For the Republican party it was an embarrassing defeat, threatening an already close margin of control. For the Democrats it strengthened hopes for an early return to power.

For a reason for this shift we quote Business Week. "Take a look at what's happening down on the farm," says this magazine, pointing to the decline in the farmers' buying power as the cause of the Wisconsin revolt. It continues:

> "The farmer is feeling poor—the poorest, in fact, in over ten years. Use the 'parity ratio' as a yardstick—an index that measures prices the farmers get in terms of prices they pay. It's at 92 today. A year ago it was 101. The average for 1951 was 107. So it's a real recession—something long known to businesses that sell to farmers."

Here we have a fair analysis of the reason for the farmer's discontent. In a period of rising costs his income is down. At a time when wages and the profits for business and industry are at an all time high—and going higher—his net take is less.

There is justification for the farmer's criticism of the administration's farm policy. The weakness of that policy has been it's lack of policy, the fact that it has had no program of its own.

The skidding of farm prices has occurred under the program which the administration inherited and which still is in effect. The skidding started before the present administration took over. But that skidding has continued after the new administration came into power and nothing has been done about it. That is what the gripe is about and it is a proper complaint.

The Wisconsin election made this dissatisfaction known in the most effective way possible. This was one poll of public opinion that came up with a hard answer. In this case the answer is clear.

In the Wisconsin election the Eisenhower administration lost a battle. That does not necessarily mean that it is going to lose the war. General Eisenhower is a shrewd leader. While he probably has a few things to learn about practical politics, he is the kind who learns, and he is too shrewd a leader to ignore an obvious weakness. It is fair to assume that where he finds weakness he will provide strength.

Our guess is that there will be fireworks at the next meeting of the general staff. That little off-year election over in Wisconsin may prove to be a very important election. It may prove to be the alarm clock that awakened the Republican leadership to an understanding of the facts of life—down on the farm.

THERE IS PROGRESS

Minnesota's 1953 traffic deaths passed the 500 mark over the week-end. That is about a hundred more than we had a year ago at this time and we are headed toward an annual total that may set up a new record. That is not a thing to be pointed to with pride.

At the present time we are being made keenly aware of the terrific toll taken by traffic accidents. We are being reminded every day of the dangers that threaten us on the highways. And for a while we will be conscious of this danger and we will adopt many good resolutions sincerely.

But soon some other calamity will claim the headlines. The front pages will feature other stories that for the time being will have more reader interest. And with their quotations off the front pages the politicians will find something else to view with alarm. And so we will go on from crisis to crisis, making a mighty show of ordering the tides to recede.

Fortunately, while we are swinging from high to low and back to high again in our periodic emotional appeals, there is a studied and sustained effort in the interests of traffic safety that, while not sensational, nevertheless is bringing good results. We are making progress. We are getting safer cars and safer highways. With experience we are getting better traffic control.

And by a sustained effort we will continue to make progress. The prospect is not hopeless.

How many shopping days before Christmas? Not many, if you are buying a gift to be mailed to Korea or Japan. Gifts to members of the armed forces serving in the Pacific area should be mailed this month according to the authorities. To other overseas points the recommended deadline is November 15. Merry Christmas.

Northern Minnesota purebred livestock breeders are holding their fifth annual sale on Wednesday of next week. This year's sale will be larger again than those which have preceded it. This annual sale is becoming an event of increasing importance and is doing much to improve the quality of livestock being produced thruout the area. Our best wishes for its continued success.

Summer weather is not going to last forever. If the law of averages still works we are due for some rough going. No matter how tough it gets however, we are not going to complain. It wouldn't be right to complain after all the fine weather we have had. That is our resolution. So we probably will not complain much until the second week.

TWO PARTRIDGE WAIVE PRELIMINARY HEARING

The day before the partridge season opened, two partridge waived preliminary hearing and flew directly into district court at Hibbing. They both received broken necks. The event touched off an argument by court house attendants as to whether or not partridge in the court house was legal meat, even though the season did not open until the next day.

O.K.! Relax now!

Here's Concrete Again!

YOU can relax on concrete. Nervous tension disappears and you ease your grip on the wheel. Concrete pavement is smooth-riding and safe.

You can stop—quick—and check skidding on concrete, wet or dry. That's because its gritty surface grips tires. At night your headlamps give you better, broader visibility because light-colored concrete reflects more light. That means greater safety, fewer accidents.

Concrete pavement is economical, too. It gives more years of uninterrupted service at far less maintenance cost.

Since you pay for paving, Mr. Motorist, with your gas taxes, license fees and other taxes, insist on portland cement concrete, the low-annual-cost pavement that's a pleasure to drive on.

Minnesota drivers should have the extra margin of safety concrete provides. Remember — it may be your life at stake next time.

New Harbor In Lake Superior

ENGINEER WILLIAM MULLIN places a marker on which the drilling barge in the background lines up, then punches blast-holes into the submerged rock 100 feet off-shore. This project near Beaver Bay, Minn., will deepen the man-made harbor and permit ore boats to dock at the huge new taconite plant being built there. (Note to anglers: this underwater blasting is so carefully-controlled that only two small fish have been killed by the detonations!) By 1955, the first shipments of taconite concentrate will be on their way to the blast furnaces from this great commercial plant. Minnesota's iron mining industry is doing everything it can to keep our state America's No. 1 iron ore producer—but unfair tax treatment can defeat this effort.

BEER and GOOD FOOD go together

CANDIDATE
-FOR-MAYOR

MRS. AGNES ISRAELSON

I have for several years taken an active part in various civic affairs, and if elected mayor I shall try fervently to make Thief River Falls a better place in which to live. I am a sound believer in better working conditions and a fair wage, better law enforcement, and some thing definite for our young people.

Your vote will be appreciated

Fellow Voters,

When I filed for Mayor, my intentions are to carry through some of the principles I believe in: Number one being better working conditions and a fair wage. I have been out of this city on different occasions in different states, and I know that Thief River Falls is one of the cities where earnings are less than any city I have been in. Living conditions here are just as high as where the wage scale is higher. We're also getting to the point where several families are leaving our city every month to look for permanent employment. That also applies to our young people. If we had some industrial set-up in Thief River Falls, our young folks and adults could remain here. If we're going to build churches, hospital and courthouse, which are all essential to our community, we must see to it that people remain here and can find employment and a fair wage which will enable them to establish their home because money must be earned before it can be spent.

My aim is to unite all the people, labor, business and civic organization into one group that will back projects that will benefit our city and for all the people not just for a few. Taxpayers money must be spent wisely. The youth of today should also be our concern. One cannot calculate the cost of juvenile delinquency in terms of moral degeneration as well as in dollars and cents.

The money spent to improve work and recreation for our youth is well invested, it is better to spend money for improvements than for penal institutions. We must share our best, we must build for the future. To live we must let live, it's that simple.

A LOOK INTO THE FUTURE

See the pride and hope, the faith and love that shine like soft lights from the little girl's face? See the look of the future in her eyes?

Nothing in all the world could cause that reflection of happiness and contentment but a well-behaved child. Perhaps she has just spoken a piece. Perhaps she was singing a song. Perhaps she is playing with her small brother and sister.

But whatever she is doing, you will agree it is the result of wise and loving guidance. And you can be certain there is another member of the family not shown in the picture—God, the guide and Father of all of them.

Where parents and the Church work together for God, you will find true happiness.

HOLY BIBLE

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

One man fire department

The fire started in the back lot, no one knew just how. But swiftly the wind whipped flames through the tinder-dry grass toward the old farm house.

At home alone, 72-year-old Enoch Thomas stood helpless before the oncoming blaze, frightened and confused. Then telephone repairman Walt Nolan saw the smoke from the road. He parked his truck, ran up to the elderly man.

"You phone for help," he directed. "I'll get to work!"

After a gruelling battle, Nolan finally brought the blaze under control. When help arrived, the last flames were soon smothered out.

To this day Enoch Thomas will tell you, "He was a one-man fire department, that telephone man!"

In this true story, names have been changed to protect the privacy of people involved. This incident may have happened near your town—for the spirit of helpful service is a telephone tradition. Last year alone some 31 different Northwestern Bell men and women were cited for helpful and heroic acts—all far beyond the field of their regular jobs.

To attract and hold good people like Walt Nolan, to train them well for their day-to-day jobs and to meet emergencies, your telephone company must have reasonable rates for service. For we must pay good wages, buy and maintain good equipment to continue to make your telephone worth more than it costs.

Do you know a true story that shows the value of telephone service or the helpfulness of telephone people? Send it to Northwestern Bell Telephone Co., Omaha, Nebraska.

It is the 1953 Buick SPECIAL 4-Door Sedan—the bargain value that doesn't stay long on our showroom floor.

For this is the best-selling Buick in the land—snapped up by eager buyers who know something really special when they see it.

For your information, we present some SPECIAL facts.

It has a Fireball 8 Engine with the highest power and compression ratio ever placed in a Buick SPECIAL—plus, if you wish, the instant getaway response and utter smoothness of Twin-Turbine Dynaflow.*

It has easy-sitting-room for six adults—as much room as you'll find in cars costing hundreds of dollars more.

It has a ride unique among automobiles. The Buick Million Dollar Ride. The soft and steady and ever-level ride that comes of coil springs on all four wheels—a full-length torque-tube drive—a massive X-braced frame—a solid and substantial roadweight poised with meticulous balance on broadly spaced wheels.

But what makes the Buick SPECIAL so extra special is the low delivered price it carries.

It is a price just an easy step above the so-called "low-price three"—and a price that gives you more room and power and ride-comfort for your money than you get in any other car, except another Buick.

Wouldn't you like to see, sit in and drive one of these great-powered Buicks — look into its beauty, its luxury, its handling ease—and judge for yourself how small a price tag it wears?

Phone us this week, or drop in. We'll be happy to arrange a demonstration.

MILTON BERLE stars for BUICK — in the BUICK-BERLE SHOW on TV Tuesday evenings. Also, every Saturday, tune in the TV Football Game of the Week—a "GM" Key Event

PEACHY WEATHER FOR PEACHES (TWO) TOO!

Two years ago, after canning some peaches, Mrs. C. W. Ruhl of Redwood Falls threw the pits into her garden. The next year they were growing, but for some mighty casual thinning, Mrs. Ruhl paid them no particular attention. This last month, Mrs. Ruhl picked two peaches off one of the trees and commented, "They look just like peaches ought to look!"

CITY COUNCIL PROCEEDINGS

Thief River Falls, Minnesota

Pursuant to adjournment the City Council of the City of Thief River Falls, Minnesota convened in the Council Chambers on September 22, 1953 at eight o'clock P. M. All members were present.

The Council proceeded with consideration of bids for furnishing of coal for municipal Buildings, pursuant to advertisement therefor. Alderman Lund moved opening of bids, which motion was seconded by Alderman Hunt and carried. Proposals were submitted by Osborne-McMillan Elevator Company, Robertson Lumber Company, Red Lake Fuel Company and Oen Mercantile Company. Alderman Bergland introduced a resolution accepting the proposal of Red Lake Fuel Company and moved its adoption. Alderman Christensen seconded the motion. On a roll call all members voted in favor thereof and the resolution was declared adopted.

There was presented by Northern State Bank, additional security for city deposits and assignment thereof of U. S. Treasury Bonds, 2¼%, due Sept. 15, 1956-59, aggregating $150,000.00. Alderman Lund introduced a resolution accepting and ordering the same filed for safe-keeping with the First National Bank of Minneapolis, Minnesota, and moved its adoption. Alderman Fuller seconded the motion and the resolution was by roll call vote duly adopted.

J. H. Hartz of Board of Trustees of Northwestern Hospital Association was present and gave the Council a detailed statement of information as to the financial situation and requirements of such Association in connection with their present building program and requested that the Council make available to the association at this time $100,000 of the proceeds of the recent bond sale. Alderman Lund introduced a resolution directing payment to said association the amount of $100,000 and moved its adoption. Alderman Fuller seconded the motion and the resolution was adopted by unanimous roll call vote.

J. M. Roche of Civic & Commerce appeared before the Council with request for an appropriation of $[illegible] as aid in the decorative lighting of the business section of the City during the Christmas Holidays. Alderman Bergland introduced a resolution directing appropriation in the amount requested and moved its adoption. Alderman Christensen seconded the motion and the resolution was duly adopted.

There was presented by Carnegie Library Board information to the effect that Hazel Halgrim, Librarian, had been granted an extended leave of absence without pay, starting on September 15, 1953, that Frances Shanahan would take over the duties after said date, that Inga Thompson would be employed as Assistant, that salaries of such Librarian and Assistant be adjusted as of said date. Alderman Lund introduced a resolution directing issuance of salaries as indicated in communication and moved its adoption. Alderman Bergland seconded the motion and said resolution was by vote duly adopted.

Independent School District No. 18 advised that they had secured from State Tax Department a compromise settlement of accumulated taxes against their property known as the Central School Grounds for years 1946-51 and inasmuch as the City had been using the premises for public parking and for recreational activities for several years past, they requested that they be reimbursed to the extent of such settlement by the City. Alderman Hunt introduced a resolution appropriating to said School District the sum of $403.78 for such purpose and moved its adoption. Alderman Lund seconded such motion, whereupon said resolution was duly passed.

Applications for conducting Bingo Games were presented as follows: Fraternal Order of Eagles, weekly, beginning October 15th, 1953; Veterans of Foreign Wars, weekly beginning October 8, 1953; Daughters of Norway October 1, November 5, February 4, 1954. No objections were raised to such applications.

The Council then proceeded, pursuant to adjournment, to consider petitions for bituminous treatment of Fourth Street-State to Kinney Avenue; LaBree Avenue, Eighth to Eleventh Street, Ninth Street, LaBree to Main Avenue and Tenth Street, Horace to Main Avenue. Alderman Bergland introduced a resolution that treatment of LaBree Avenue, 8th to 11th, Ninth Street, LaBree to Main Avenue and Tenth Street Horace to Main Avenue be performed by and under the Supervision of the Street Department and moved its adoption. Alderman Christensen seconded such motion and the resolution was duly adopted. Consideration on petition for treatment of Fourth Street, State to Kinney Avenue, due to objection of a property owner in the area, was ordered deferred to a later meeting.

Petitions for bituminous treatment of the following streets were presented: Arnold Avenue from Great Northern Railway tracks to Ninth Street, Riverside Avenue from present pavement to entrance to Tourist Park and Tindolph Avenue, from Third to Taft Street. Alderman Lund moved that the same be referred to the Street Commissioner for preliminary report. Alderman Fuller seconded the motion which was adopted.

Application of Francis Cloutier for reduction in assessed value of personal property, previously having been referred to the Tax Committee, was then discussed, the same being accompanied by explanation of the Assessor. Alderman Bergland moved approval and granting of such application and recommendation thereof to the County Board. Alderman Hunt seconded the motion which was adopted.

Alderman Lund, Chairman of Water and Light Committee, suggested in connection with petition filed in July 1952, by residents of the area north of 11th Street from State Avenue to Atlantic Avenue for water and sewer service in the area, that temporary relief should be given such petitioners as far as water service is concerned, by a possible erection of housing wherein a water outlet could be installed for convenience of the residents west of Main Avenue and the matter was ordered referred to the Chief Operator of Water Purification Plant for a report and estimate of costs of such project.

The Council then proceeded to discuss a proposal of Board of County Commissioners, dated May 6th, 1953 wherein such Commissioners offered to exchange Lots 1-3, Block 36, Original Townsite, the present Court House Site for Lots 4-6 inclusive of Block 39, Original Townsite, in what is now known as Block 39, Park as a site for the proposed new Court House. Alderman Christensen moved that the said proposal be accepted. There was no second to the motion and the same was declared lost. Alderman Bergland then moved that the offer be rejected, on which there was no second and the motion was declared failed of passage.

Several residents of the southeast section of the City were present in protest against a recent application for special permit of M. F. Clouse for erection of a technical School and Gospel Sign Shop on Lot 4, Block 4, Merriam Addition and they were advised that the matter would come up for consideration on the evening of September 30th.

Alderman Bergland introduced a resolution directing execution of contract for extermination of rats throughout entire sections of City and including the City Garbage Dump for a period of 12 months for the sum of $75.00 per month and moved its adoption. Alderman Christensen seconded the motion. The roll was called on question and the following members voted Aye: Christensen, Hunt, Fuller, Bergland, Gjernes. Alderman Lund voted Naye. The resolution was declared adopted.

The meeting was then declared adjourned.

Year-round angling for panfish in all of Minnesota's lakes in 1954 became a reality today in an announcement by Frank D. Blair, director of the division of game and fish, after Conservation Commissioner Chester S. Wilson signed an order for the 1954 angling season and the 1953-54 darkhouse spearing season.

"We have added up the score pretty well on the effects of year-round angling for panfish and rough fish in certain lakes and have come to the conclusion that a "no closed" season statewide for sunfish, crappies, and rough fish would be a step in the right direction for 1954," Blair declared.

"We recommended year-round angling for panfish and rough fish for 1954," Blair said, "based on the unanimous recommendations and approval of the entire bureau of fisheries staff, including supervisor of fisheries Hjalmar Swenson, the district supervisors and Dr. John Moyle, supervisor of the fisheries research unit and his biologists."

Hjalmar Swenson said that the panfish and rough fish recommendations were based on the following:

"1. The take of these species has not been excessive on most designated lakes that have been open continuously.

"2. It will simplify regulations to have a statewide open season on panfish and rough fish rather than to designate several hundred lakes for year-round angling for panfish, and others for rough fish. The present law now authorizes this type of regulation on the recommendations of the district fisheries supervisors.

"3. There has been no serious law enforcement problem where lakes have been opened to panfish or rough fish when the season has ben closed on other species.

"4. This type of regulation has been successful for some time on the Minnesota-Wisconsin boundary waters, Minnesota-Iowa boundary waters, Minnesota-Ontario boundary waters, and thruout the state of Wisconsin."

Under the new regulations Swenson said, "Regular limits would apply to all lakes unless it is found desirable to increase limits on some to increase the take of stunted fish. With the enlarged fish population control program panfish can be removed from over-populated waters by the Department and transferred to any other lakes where they may be needed."

On the question as to whether or not Minnesota's panfish populations could stand the extra fishing pressure of year-round angling Dr. Moyle said the answer was "yes" and he said that in some places such additional fishing will be both beneficial to the population and allow harvest of fish that would not otherwise be used.

About regulations affecting northern pike, Mr. Swenson said, "According to information on the present status of the northern pike population, it is desirable to institute regulations that will reduce somewhat the numbers taken by fishing.

Swenson stated that according to recent creel census figures, the northern pike is a favorite fish in Minnesota and made up about 30 percent of the weight of all fish taken by summer angling and 93 percent of the weight of all fish taken by winter spearing. He also pointed out that the law requires that any shortening of the darkhouse spearing season requires a proportionate shortening of the following statutory angling season.

Since the law permits 277 days of angling and 77 days of darkhouse spearing, elimination of one day from the darkhouse spearing season requires the shortening of the following angling season by 3½ days.

The order sets the coming darkhouse season from Saturday, December 12, 1953, to February 15, 1954, inclusive. The following angling season for northern pike will extend from Saturday, May 15, 1954 to October 22, 1954, inclusive, and December 1, 1954 to February 15, 1955.

The decision to shorten the seasons for taking of northern pike, Swenson said, was made to aid northern pike fishing in 1955 and was based on detailed field observations of the fish propagation field men and the fisheries research unit of the bureau of fisheries.

Advice Given on Social Security

Public Urged to Keep in Contact with Agency

Every worker or self-employed man or woman should make a special effort to understand what social security means to him and his family. There are two times when such action is very important, according to Walter D. Kistler, manager of the Grand Forks office of the Social Security Administration.

Because every individual's case is likely to be different from any other, he should obtain information from his nearest social security office when he arrives at age 65. Those reaching age 75 even though still working should get in touch with the nearest social security field office. Old-age insurance benefits may be payable at 75 regardless of whether you are working.

The other important time for action is when a worker or self-employed person dies. Someone in his family should contact the social security office immediately so there may no loss of benefits to his surviving family.

"Remember these two times for action," Mr. Kistler summarized, "by the worker or self-employed person when he arrives at age 65, or age 75, and by some member of his family when he dies. This individual action will avoid any possible loss of benefits."

Farmers Union of West Marshall Co. Headed by Rokke

Oscar Rokke of Newfolden was elected West Marshall County Farmers Union chairman at the annual meting October 8 at the Florian Hall. He succeeds Oscar Tversol of Big Woods.

George Paulson of Oslo was elected vice chairman and Mrs. Herman Dargus of Warren was reelected secretary-treasurer.

State President Edwin Christianson spoke to the group on the parity law. He stressed the fact that there is a greater need for a strong fight for a law that protects farmers at least 90 per cent of parity.

He also awarded the trophy awards to the action officers that qualified. They were: Llewellyn Larson, Mrs. Sanford Tversol, George Paulson, Walter Carlson, Mrs. George Paulson, Mrs. Arnold Larson, Herbert Knutson and Oscar Tversol, all of the Big Woods local.

Thief River Falls Firm Changes Ownership

Association with Bill Larson Co. To Aid Buying

The new Poppler Store will be associated with the Bill Larson Co. of Grand Forks as a buying syndicate to reduce prices thru mass purchases.

Stan Larson and his brother, Bill Larson, will be associated in making carload and truckload purchases from leading manufacturers, gaining a major freight saving on quantity purchases. This saving on both freight and quantity discounts will enable the Poppler Store to offer lower prices than ever before.

Poppler's have always been recognized for nationally famous brands of merchandise . . . Wurlitzer, Kroehler, Mohawk, Kelvinator, Daystrom, Douglas, Storkline, Sealy, Simmons, Englander and other great names. These brands of merchandise will continue to be available, while additional lines will be added regularly.

"This new buying syndicate is a great step forward," says Stan Larson," and I know that our customers will really appreciate the fine values we will be able to offer. In fact, we're listing some of these great values in this advertisement. Read it carefully!"

STORE PLANS EXPANSION PROGRAM

Projected plans for the new Poppler Store include an expansion of present store facilities, including an enlarged basement department. During future months, the interior will be redecorated, while new exterior signs and store front modernization are in the planning stage. Everything possible is going to be done to keep Poppler's as the outstanding furniture, piano floor covering and appliance headquarters in this area.

PERSONNEL TO REMAIN UNCHANGED

Announcement was made today that Stan Larson of Thief River Falls has purchased the Poppler Piano and Furniture Co. store of this city, and that the new firm would be known as Poppler's.

Stan has been with the Poppler organization since 1930, and has managed the Poppler Piano and Furniture Store in Thief River Falls since April 7, 1940.

The new owner also announces that all personnel of the former store will be retained, and that Con Lidstorm will serve as assistant manager. Mr. Lidstrom sold the original store to Mr. Poppler in 1939.

In the 14 years that Stan Larson has been a resident of Thief River Falls, he has been active in the affairs of the community.

The business has grown with the community and he is anxious to make it bigger and better than ever before. He has extensive plans for the future growth of the firm.

The new Poppler store is affiliated with other independent furniture stores in the Upper Midwest, and will be able to take advantage of mass buying power. The new setup will mean greater selection and lower prices for all customers.

Larson also reminds customers that free delivery will be maintained by the new store, and that credit terms will be given, enabling customers to take up to 1½ years for payment of purchases.

To launch the new venture, Larson is starting a special $22,000 Cash Raising Sale, with the details outlined on these two pages.

"I'm pretty excited about our new store," states Mr. Larson, "and I want to extend a personal invitation to all our friends and customers to come in and get better acquainted. We certainly appreciate the friendships you have extended us during our 14 years in Thief River Falls, and I know that this new store would not have been possible without your support. I really appreciate your friendship."

"Working Mother" Gets Break

Mrs. Lavon Westerlund, 117 Mackubin, St. Paul, who works to support her 10-year-old son, termed the break she received from two non-profit Minnesota health plans "a real blessing."

"Everything I needed for complete recovery," she says, "was covered in full by my Blue Cross $25 Deductible contract and by Blue Shield. All I paid was the $25 deductible portion," she says.

"With Blue Cross and Blue Shield protection," Mrs. Westerlund says, "I was freed from any financial worries. All I had to do was get well. Believe me," she says, "I'll never be without Blue Cross and Blue Shield."

Operating under the non-profit laws of Minnesota, these health plans were developed and organized by the hospitals and doctors of Minnesota. Over 2,800 Minnesota Doctors of Medicine actively participate in Minnesota Blue Shield. Minnesota Blue Cross is sponsored by 169 Minnesota hospitals. Their non-profit status is one of the reasons why they can offer such complete protection at such low cost.

Complete free information on these low-cost health plans may be obtained by writing directly to Blue Cross-Blue Shield, Dept. WP-12, 2610 University Ave., St. Paul 14, Minn. A postcard will do.

Seems You Ought to Know Him!

Your judgment tells you that those who drive Cadillacs are likely to be people of importance—and are very probably in the public eye.

It is small wonder that you feel this way about people who own and drive these distinguished cars.

For more than half a century, Cadillac has been a favorite car of the leading people in every community across the land. For Cadillac is the only car in America whose name has consistently been reserved for the finest cars it is practical to produce.

People who want the finest have learned to come to Cadillac—as the tide goes with the moon!

Of course, you don't have to be a prominent person in order to find a reason for moving up to Cadillac.

There is every practical reason for owning a Cadillac—as well as every personal one.

Under normal driving conditions, the Cadillac car will run a full day on a single tankful of gasoline.

And a Cadillac, according to an authoritative study of national used car prices, will return a greater share of its owner's investment at the time of resale than any other motor car in the land.

So whether you are prominent, or whether you are practical—Cadillac is your perfect choice!

Better come in and see us. Cadillac was never so fine and beautiful as it is today—and it was never more practical to own and enjoy.

We're at your service—any time you wish to call!

New Standard Premium does what no other gasoline will do!
Believe it or not, when your engine quits in traffic at this time of the year, chances are that ice does it. Yes, ice causes cold-motor stalling even on Indian Summer mornings! Carburetor ice! And this amazing fast-freeze is likely to occur when the temperature registers between 58° and 28° above zero!
For years motorists have mistakenly blamed their cars for this cold-motor stalling. But now Standard scientists have solved it.
New Standard White Crown Premium Gasoline contains a costly DE-ICER additive. This DE-ICER additive is a built-in anti-freeze that prevents the formation of a thin ice film. Ice that can cripple the action of your carburetor!
Stop in today and get the gasoline that does what no other gas will do— PREVENTS STALLING due to carburetor ice.
A THIN FILM OF ICE— a major cause of engine stalling
Even when outside temperatures are from 58° to 28° rapid evaporation of gasoline can cause a thin film of ice to form on the carburetor throttle plate. Ice shuts off the flow of fuel during idling. Then, when you make a stop, your fuel-starved engine sputters and dies. DE-ICER additive in New Standard White Crown Premium Gasoline prevents carburetor ice.

Turkey Day at N. W. School Set Tuesday

The fourth annual Turkey Day will be held at the Northwestern School and Experiment Station, Crookston, on Tuesday, October 27. The formal program will be held in the school auditorium beginning at 2:00 p. m.

Present will be a number of specialists from the Minnesota experiment station, University Farm, St. Paul, include T. H. Fenske, assistant dean of the Institute of Agriculture; H. J. Sloan, director of the experiment station; E. L. Johnson, a new head of the department of poultry husbandry, and B. S. Pomeroy of the department of veterinary medicine. T. M. McCall and A. M. Pilkey will represent Northwest School. D. C. Foster and George Hodgson of Winnipeg will report on the Manitoba turkey work.

Interesting results were obtained the past year at the Northwest School in feeding trials with hens and toms, separate and together, in the comparison of mash versus granules and pellets. A four-year summary of the feeding trials will be presented.

Other data of interest to turkey growers deals with the results of tests with new chemicals advocated for the control of blackhead. Chemicals used in comparison with a check were Enheptin, Histostat, and N. F.-180. Forty-five birds were used in each of the chemical treatment and control lots and ninety birds were used in each of the feeding test lots.

A tour of the turkey experimental feeding and disease control yard will conclude the program for the day.

Any turkey producer who plans to attend the meeting, and would like to drive down with the county agent, is asked to contact the extension office.

Neil Morrissey Heads FU Group in East Marshall

Annual Convention Was Held Last Wednesday Night in Middle River

Other officers are Clifford Haugen of Thief Lake Local, vice-president; Roger Skoglund of Holt, secretary; and Arthur Johnson of Gatzke, treasurer.

A special feature of the convention was the presentation of Minnesota Farmers Union trophies to local officers for their consistent and diligent performance of their duties, making it possible for the organization to effectively serve its farm families.

Trophies were presented by Russel Schwandt, FU state secretary, to Ernest Berg, Clifford Haugen, Mrs. Paul Cwikla, Wm. Jesme, John Cwikla, Mrs. Ida Thygeson, Miss DeLoris Brandon, Mrs. Albin Chaplinski, Harold Brandon and Mrs. Henry Scramstad, all of the Thief Lake local; and Neil Morrissey, Mrs. Martin Abrahamson, Glendon Abrahamson, Miss Lorna Peterson, Mrs. David Nelson and Arthur Johnson.

Mr. Schwandt, the main speaker of the evening, discussed the "Choice for 1954."

"The farm price support program will either be extended as at present, improved, drastically changed or eliminated altogether at the next session of Congress." Schwandt told the convention. "Only the Farmers Union is advocating laws to provide price supports at or near full parity on all farm production."

Schwandt enumerated the efforts of northwest Congressmen to gain adoption of bills to improve the price support system. He listed bills introduced by Rep. H. Carl Andersen, Senator Edward Thye, Senator Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota and Senator Milton Young of North Dakota to bolster the farm program.

"All of these bills received an unfavorable report from Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson," he said.

The first kilts worn in Scotland were made from unsewn pieces of tartan, two yards wide and four to six yards long. Pleats were folded in by hand, after which the wearer would lie down across the cloth and belt it about his waist.

Exams Scheduled for Welfare Jobs

Applications for State Positions Due Shortly

Examinations for several classes of county welfare positions were announced today by G. Warren Peterson, merit system supervisor, St. Paul.

Examinations will be given for executive secretary positions in the rural counties. Salaries range from $3,960 per year, depending upon the size of the county. Vacancies do not currently exist but the examination is being given to establish a list of persons for appointment to future vacancies. Applications should be submitted by October 30.

"Applications for advanced and responsible clerk, clerk-typist, and clerk-stenographer positions are also being accepted," Peterson said. Starting salaries vary from $2,112 to $2,760 per year, depending upon the classification of the position and its location. Applications for these examinations should be submitted by November 12.

Social workers and child welfare workers are still needed in a number of rural counties, according to Peterson. A college degree is required as is a car for use in the work. The starting salary is $3,168 in most rural counties. Peterson urged that persons interested in such employment apply for the examination immediately.

Additional information about all merit system examinations may be obtained at any county welfare board office, local State Employment Service office, or by writing to the merit system supervisor, 117 University Ave., St. Paul 1, Minn.

Kem Temple of Shrine to Be Host to Masons Nov. 28

Masons and their families of this community soon will receive invitations to be guests of Kem Temple of the Shrine at a rare entertainment in the University Fieldhouse at Grand Forks, Saturday evening, November 28.

Potentate Gordon K. Loft has announced that Kem has arranged to bring to Grand Forks the famous Zuhrah Merrimakers, a traveling vaudeville troupe of more than 30 persons including professional performers, band and production staff.

There will be no charge whatever for the two-hour entertainment, Potentate Loft emphasized, but only persons having tickets will be admitted. A plan for distributing free tickets to all Masons from the Blue Lodge up, and their families throughout northern North Dakota and northwestern Minnesota is now being completed.

School Notes

At the Rosebank school Virginia and Carolyn Copeland, Joanne and Janice Sabo and John Hellquist have had perfect attendance the first six weeks.

In the Art class the gorgeous autumn scenes have been much enjoyed. Most of the trees are leafless but let's remember there's much beauty in a bare tree against a blue sky.

The school is very grateful to Vernon Rooker, one of our eighth *graders for making a twin book*case for the school room.

We are sorry that Curtis Bottem has been absent much of the time due to his illness. But we're happy to know that he expects to be with us from now on.

Dodge Ball has been the favorite game the past six weeks.

Our novelty social will be on Oct. 30th—Gunhild Syrtvedt, teacher.

Mrs. Tom Stolaas was pleasantly reminded of her birthday Wednesday when the Birthday Club met at her home bringing a gift from the group. After a social afternoon, lunch was served which featured a lovely cake baked by Mrs. Stolaas' sister, Mrs. Kvikstad of Warren, who has spent a few days here.

Plans Made for '54 Winter Shows

Paul Engelstad to Head Livestock Department

The fall dinner meeting of the Winter Shows Board of Managers, Incorporated, was held in Crookston on October 14. Plans were made for the program of activities for the 1954 Red River Valley Winter Shows, Crookston, scheduled for the week of February 22 through 26.

The traditional day schedule for the week will be followed as in former years with only a few minor changes. The schedule of 4-H club activities was changed to have the district 4-H club radio speaking contest on Monday afternoon, February 22, instead of on Wednesday as in former years. The 4-H club formal program will cover the first three days of the Shows week.

Continuance of the barber shop quartet contest, as a music feature of the Tuesday evening program, was approved by the board. Plans made by the Red River Valley Livestock association for the improvement of the livestock association buildings were approved by the board of managers.

Evening programs will be presented on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday evenings with outstanding speakers on domestic and world affairs. Livestock sales dates will be February 25 for swine and sheep and February 26 for cattle. Officers appointed for the 1954 Show include Paul Engelstad of Thief River Falls, general superintendent of livestock shows and concessions, and J. E. Wilder of Crookston, superintendent of admissions to the shows.

Soldier in Korea Cites Benefits of USO Shows Setup

A Minneapolis mother of a soldier in Korea shared this letter with United Defense Fund-USO state headquarters this week. It gives something of the place of the USO and how important it is that it be supported in the current campaign:

"Last night I had a wonderful time. I went to a USO show up at C. P. Division. The whole show was very colorful and I loved every minute of it. It was the third one I have seen since I have been here so it was quite a treat. The latest scoop is that we will be here until spring.

"You must think I am getting awfully tired of Korea and anxious to get home. Naturally I am anxious to get home, but I think you must know that while the war was active I was getting a big thrill out of being over here, but now that the fighting has ceased, at least temporarily, we have very little to do except sit — I know it is important for us to be here, but I wish they would give us something to keep us busy."

USO Camp Shows are financed by the United Defense Fund which is seeking support thru the Pennington County Community Chest.

Water Lawns and Evergreens Now, Experts Advise

If you want your lawn to do well next spring, water it now.

That advice was given today by Richard Stadtherr, extension horticulturist at the University of Minnesota. He suggests watering lawns thoroughly once a week to assure a good growth before winter arrives. Lawns should not be mowed too late, since the longer grass will give good winter protection.

A thorough soaking of evergreens and shrubbery is a 'must', also, before winter sets in, the extension horticulturist says. Because of lack of moisture many evergreens are dropping needles and deciduous shrubs and trees are showing leaf scorch. This lack of moisture weakens the plants and a hard winter could injure them seriously. For that reason, watering evergreens and shrubbery thoroughly just before the ground freezes would be beneficial.

Dave Rubinoff to Give Concert in Crookston Oct. 30

David Rubinoff, known to millions as "Rubinoff and His Violin," will make two personal concert appearances in the Crookston high school Friday, Oct. 30. He will give a matinee for all school children in the area at 2:30 p. m., and an evening performance at 8:15. Rubinoff's appearance in Crookston, while on a nationwide tour, is being sponsored by the Crookston Rotary club for the benefit of the Bill Pat Youth Center.

Hunters Allowed One Deer in 1953

Director of game and fish Frank D. Blair today warned hunters that one deer only may be taken in any one year.

"If a hunter takes a deer with bow and arrow during the October season he may not hunt or take deer during the gun season in November," Mr. Blair pointed out.

Archers who are unsuccessful during the special bow and arrow season may, however, hunt during the firearm season, with bow and arrow, or with firearm, providing they take out a license to hunt deer with firearms.

Traffic Death Toll Down in October

18 Lives Are Lost in First Half of Month

A living demonstration of results which can be achieved in a concerted traffic safety campaign is revealed today by State Highway Commissioner M. J. Hoffman, who reports that 18 lives were lost in the first half of October, as compared with 33 in the first half of "black September" and 54 in the second half of last month.

"Despite continuing ideal weather conditions," he stated, "which have resulted in a substantial increase in trunk highway travel, drivers on our streets and highways have demonstrated that fatal accidents are not necessary and that motoring can be much safer than it was during September, when 87 lives were lost in traffic accidents."

With state-wide public attention focused on the mounting traffic toll last month by Governor C. Elmer Anderson, it appears that Minnesota motorists are proving to themselves that they can be better drivers than they have been during recent months. Reports coming to the highway department indicate that there has been a greater observance of warning and regulatory signs, that reckless speeds are not quite as common as they were and that there has been a general all-around improvement in driver attitudes.

Halloween Festiv[illegible] for Local Children to Be Staged Saturday

Spooks, goblins and witches will be very much in evidence Saturday, October 31, at the annual community Halloween festival sponsored by the Thief River Falls Lions club.

Ernest Johnson, general chairman, announced that two-hour movie shows in the Lincoln high school auditorium will be substituted for the afternoon and evening parties held in former years in the arena or municipal Auditorium.

However, he said, the traditional costume parade at 7 o'clock will be a prominent feature again this year, and that prizes will be awarded for the best costumes. Ben Frolland, chairman of the parade committee, stated that the procession will start from the arena, going east on Second st. to Horace av., north to Third st., west to Main av., south to Second st., west to Knight av. and south to Lincoln high school, where the judging of costumes will take place. The school band, fire department and other units are expected to join in the parade, Frolland said.

Children from pre-school age thru the fourth grade will be entertained at a two-hour show of comic films in the Lincoln auditorium at 2 p. m. In the evening at 7:30, or immediately following the parade, a second movie show will be given for pupils of the fifth thru eighth grades. Jim Parkins and Dr. W. P. Kaisler are respectively chairmen of the two parties. Bill LaFave heads a committee which will distribute treats, including ice cream bars and candy bars.

The municipal Auditorium will be adorned with Halloween decorations for a teen-age dance which will wind up the day's activities. Hats and noisemakers also will be distributed. As in past years, the Pennington County Automobile Dealers association is arranging for an orchestra to supply dance music. Arthur A. Johnson is serving as dance chairman.

Local Banks Buy Tree Planter for County Farmers

Union State and Northern State Banks Cooperate in Buying New Equipment

Pennington county farmers now have a tree planter. The Union State Bank and the Northern State Bank have jointly purchased the new planter, which is available for use by any farmer in this county. Arrangements to use the equipment can be made by contacting either Don Lawrence at the Soil Conservation Service office or William Penning, county agent.

County farmers have the opportunity to buy trees at a very low cost, said Penning. Ten dollars per thousand for evergreen trees, and $8 per thousand for hardwood trees.

Those interested in ordering trees are asked to see the county agent in the near future. The deadline for orders is February 1, 1954.

Community Chest Drive Hits $5,093

Pennington Co. Campaign Nearing Half-way Mark

A total of $5,093 had been turned in yesterday to the Pennington county Community Chest campaign, which has been in progress the past three weeks, it was announced today by Mrs. M. P. Levorson, secretary.

She stated this amount is less than half the county's goal of $12,154, but expressed hope that when all reports have been turned in, the objective will be reached.

To date, final reports have been turned in for only two blocks in the downtown district, while the rest are either incomplete or have not yet been reported to headquarters.

Scattered an incomplete returns from the rural areas of the county account for $293 of the total reported to date, Mrs. Levorson said.

T. R. Falls Station of State Patrol Radio Network Now in Use

Quicker and more efficient service by highway patrolmen in this section of the state became effective last Wednesday morning when the newly installed radio communication equipment was put into operation in Thief River Falls, one of six control points now being established to serve the entire state.

Utilizing a 300-foot tower recently set up south of the Great Northern tracks near Arnold av., the local station has its operating headquarters in well-equipped quarters in the front portion of the remodeled former water treatment plant on East Second st.

Lawrence Hunsinger, serving until next week as acting supervisor, stated that messages are broadcast on the very high frequency of 42.82 megacycles. When an accident report is received, the operator on duty sends a message to a highway patrolman to go to the scene, and from there the patrolman can make a request by radio for a wrecker or ambulance if needed.

Hunsinger, who will be succeeded shortly as supervisor by Floyd Makowski, stated that the local station is intended to serve the area from the Canadian border as far south as Glenwood and east from the North Dakota line as far as Northome in Koochiching county. He added that it also will serve an area in eastern North Dakota as soon as officers there obtain the necessary receiving equipment.

Thus far, under ideal conditions, Thief River Falls operators have been able to talk to control points as far distant as St. Paul and Rochester. Other control points in the statewide system are located at Brainerd, Virginia and Marshall. Booster stations to increase the effective range of the Thief River Falls station are scheduled to be set up at Roosevelt and Hawley.

The system will serve area game wardens in addition to the highway patrol. Another function of the local office will be to service the radio equipment on patrol cars.

The local control point is in operation each day from 8 a. m. until 2 a. m. except Saturday night when it functions until 3 a. m. The three operators on duty here are Ray Bergquist, Ray Placek and Dayton Backlund.

Two Men Hurt in Traffic Mishaps

James Wilson Reported in Critical Condition

James Wilson, age 85, of this city and formerly of Grygla, this morning was in critical condition in Northwestern Hospital, suffering from a hip fracture sustained late Thursday afternoon. His condition is aggravated by infirmities due to his extreme age.

Mr. Wilson, who walks very slowly, was crossing the street at the intersection of Main av. and Third st. when struck by an automobile driven by Robert Bell, whose car was barely moving at the time.

Also hospitalized here is Robert Wold of Red Lake Falls, who sustained multiple fractures of his right thigh and knee in an accident on Highway 32 one half mile north of St. Hilaire last Thursday evening at 6 o'clock.

The highway patrol reported that Wold was driving a truck and proceeding south when the truck hit the left rear end of a Pennington county road patrol unit driven by Martin Mosbeck of St. Hilaire. Mosbeck escaped injury.

New Bridge Open

The newly completed bridge spanning Red Lake River on Highway 32 a short distance northeast of Red Lake Falls was opened to traffic this morning, after being widened in a project carried out this year by the Helseth Engineering Co. of Minneapolis.

60 Bushel Corn

HARRY LOGANS

Son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Logans of Rocksbury, grew five acres of hybrid corn as a 4-H club project this year that went a little better than 60 bushels to the acre as checked by Albert Koop. In the picture above he is displaying a few ears of the hybrid along with some sample of his ten-acre field of Minnesota 13 that also yielded well.

Harry's club project includes three litters of pigs, a total of 21 registered Durocs, on which, along with his corn, he hopes to be able to bring in a profitable report.

A Review

Northwest Sinfonietta in Pleasing Concert Sunday

By Judith E. Halverson

The Northwest Sinfonietta which appeared Sunday evening proved to be a thrilling opening for the 1953-54 concert season.

This group under the direction of Henry Denecke was composed of musicians of the Minneapolis Symphony. Due to the care with which the members of the ensemble were chosen and the fine reading which they gave each of the compositions the listener was not aware that this group was only a third the size of the regular symphony.

The strings played with a clear, clean and yet rich tone giving that flowing quality to the music which only strings can achieve. They played to all of their crescendos without sounding forced, and yet were not overpowered by the woodwinds and brass. The three brasses performed as three separate instruments and yet, when combined gave the effect of a choir of French horns.

The programming itself was well done. Many of the works were favorites that we welcomed hearing again, but from these we enjoyed moving on for an introduction to something new.

The major work of the first portion of the program, Schubert's "Unfinished Symphony," is perhaps the best loved and most familiar of symphonies. To this composition the musicians gave an artistic and musical reading devoid of the sticky sentimentality which one so often hears smothering an otherwise beautiful piece of work.

"Poem for Flute and Orchestra" by Charles Griffes with Mrs. Denecke as soloist closed the first part of the program. This number was written for Mrs. Denecke's teacher, George Barrere, with whom she has appeared in concert. Her preciseness and beauty of tone, particularly on the lower notes, made this number one of the high points of the program.

The last section of the concert ranging from Ravel to Richard Rodgers gave us a taste of many types of writing and served as a pleasant invitation to enjoy more of each of these styles.

Especially pleasing was the generosity with which the Sinfonietta responded with encores. It gave the audience the feeling the group enjoyed playing for them and also gave them a chance to hear several additional pieces of music, most of them on the lighter side.

At the close of the concert everyone was ready to hear more which is a good advertisement for any program. We look forward to hearing such a group as this again.

Grace Knutson Becomes Bride of Kenneth D. Olson

Grace Arlene Knutson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Knutson of rural Thief River Falls, and Kenneth Duane Olson, pledged their marriage vows Sunday evening at Silver Creek Lutheran church. Rev. Raymond Brandt performed the double ring ceremony before an altar decorated with colored leaves, bouquets of fall flowers and lighted candelabra. Three hundred relatives and friends were in attendance.

Mrs. Bernard Myers played nuptial music preceding the ceremony and provided accompaniment for Mrs. Carl Torgerson as she sang "Because" and "O Promise Me". As the couple waited at the altar the matron of honor, Mrs. Earl Peterson, sang "Precious Lord," and at the close of the ceremony, Gloria Evenson, bridesmaid, sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of white satin, designed with net yoke edged with lace ruffles, long lily-point sleeves, and skirt extending into a train. She wore a fingertip veil secured by a beaded crown, and carried orchids and white carnations over a white Bible.

The bride was attended by Mrs. Earl Peterson, sister of the groom, as matron of honor; Bernice Knutson and Gloria Evanson, friends of the bride from Minneapolis, bridesmaids; Deanne Jarshaw of Newfolden, cousin of the bride, and Charlene Myers, flower girls. The adult attendents wore gowns of orchid, yellow, and green respectively, and carried bouquets with matching sprays in their hair. The flower girls were dressed in yellow and orchid.

Glenn Knutson, brother of the bride, was best man, and the groom's other attendants were Earl Peterson of Hibbing and Orvin Sunsdahl of Goodridge.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Knutson wore a blue mottled two-piece dress, and the groom's mother wore a navy dress, each with a corsage of tea roses and carnations.

The wedding guests were entertained at a reception given by the parents of the bride in the church parlors. The four-tiered wedding cake was baked by Bernice Knutson, aunt of the bride, and cut by Mrs. Paul Olstad of Bemidji, another aunt. Mrs. Harry Paulson and Mrs. Ted Olson poured. During the reception Mrs. Raymond Brandt and Mrs. Carl Torgerson sang "In The Garden" and Mrs. Torgerson sang "My Task" and "O Love of God." Mrs. Hans Cleven and Mrs. Waldemar Olson presided at the gift table and Mrs. Lyle Hegrenes registered the guests.

As the couple left on their wedding trip through the southern states, the bride was wearing a blue suit with matching jewelry. Prior to her marriage, the bride was employed by Land O'Lakes of this City. The groom has been employed in Flint, Michigan, the past year but is now with the construction crew building the new hospital wing.

Q: I trained for 48 months under the World War II GI Bill, and then I went back on active duty. Am I eligible for additional training under the Korean GI Bill, now that I've been released from service?

A: No. Under the law, veterans with 48 months of training under the World War II GI Bill may not be eligible for additional training under the new Korean GI Bill. Those with less than 48 months of World War II training, however, may be entitled to training under the new law.

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

Institute of Child Welfare, University of Minnesota

Do Your Children Fight?

Roger, aged four, grabbed a truck away from Jim, aged not quite three. Jim snatched it back; Roger grabbed it again; Jim started to cry. "Oh my," exclaimed Mrs. Hensick, "Time to break them up."

Out the door she went. "Roger, give that back to Jim, this minute. You know it is his truck, and he's your little brother. Stop making him cry."

Roger obeyed, but without much grace. He was in a bad mood all the rest of the morning. Could there be some connection between his mother's arbitrary settling of the dispute and Roger's lingering feeling that his world was out of order?

Children's quarreling and bickering can certainly become an annoying thing to parents. Yet their annoyance really operates, many times, to prevent sensible thinking about the underlying "whys" of the quarrels. A thoughtful look at the situations in which the conflicts occur might do much to help parents keep from being annoyed, and adjust the situations in which the quarrels happen.

Young children in the same family have innumerable sources of conflict at best. In learning to play, it is inevitable that one child will imitate the activities of another; often this produces a struggle for the toy needed. Competition between brothers and sisters is also likely to be present. They may be competing for attention from a parent, for approval, or simply to achieve supremecy, and it is a short step from friendly competition to open conflict.

A basic principal which is helpful is, for the parent to avoid interfering in a quarrel whenever possible; if there must be interference, then let it be to produce a change of activity rather than to act as judge and jury in settling the argument. A quarrel which the children settle is soon forgotten; one in which a parent forces a decision, and often an unfair one, may rankle much longer in the feelings of the child.

Her talk was divided into three divisions: a Christian in the home, Christian citizenship and the place of prayer. She said our individual position in our community and our own personal living have their effect on the community which is the back bone of the nation. Everyone should have a "beaten path" of prayer where God's Word can be read to guide us in how we shall live.

4-H Enrollment Time

This is the time of the year when 4-H members are signing up for next year's projects, and new members are enrolling for the first time. This is one of the most exciting times of the 4-H year. Do you realize, the 4-H member who enrolls in more than one project, and puts forth an honest effort toward completing these projects is the member who gets the most out of 4-H Club work.

This is a new year and you 4-H members have new projects. With so many things new, we should also have some new members. Take the responsibility upon yourselves to contact your friends who aren't in 4-H and invite them to visit and join your club. Tell these prospective members that all Pennington county girls and boys who are interested in learning more about farming and homemaking will have an excellent opportunity to do so in their local 4-H club.

Learn by Doing

All 4-H members "learn by doing," whether in the fields of homemaking, agriculture, health, safety or conservation.

Any boy or girl between the ages of 10 and 21 interested in taking at least one agricultural or homemaking project may join a 4-H club.

Home economics projects, of special interest to the girls, develop skills in bread baking and food preparation, clothing, food preservation, home assistance and home furnishings.

Boys and girls alike who are interested in the livestock production projects get an opportunity to raise and care for beef and dairy cattle, sheep, hogs, poultry and rabbits. The crop production projects include work with field crops, market and home gardens and fruits.

In addition to these projects, 4-H members may carry general projects such as junior leadership, home beautification, tractor maintenance and soil conservation.

Among 4-H activities which add to the 4-H members enjoyment of rural living are conservation, health, safety and fire prevention. Of these, the health activity has been the most popular, with Pennington county 4-H'ers. Safety and fire prevention, also popular, give members a chance to remove conditions which cause accidents and fires. Members who take the conservation activity learn to identify wild life and help conserve natural resources.

We now have fourteen active 4-H Clubs in Pennington County, and hope to have an additional club around Goodridge this winter. If you are interested in joining a club contact your local leader, members, or county extension agent for further information.

Political Roundup

By Arthur Naftalin

The problem of Minnesota highways—how to maintain the old ones and finance new ones—will command a tremendous amount of public attention in the next year or more as the state prepares an attack on one of its thorniest problems.

Last week the highway study commission established by the 1953 legislature heard the views of county commissioners, township officials, and highway engineers, and it became painfully apparent that there is a long road of revenue-hunting and political compromising ahead before any solution can be found.

The commission will meet again next month to hear the views of highway users, and there will doubtless be many other sessions before the study group is ready to report. It is not unlikely that its report will be considered by a special legislative session, perhaps as early as March of next year.

Problem is Nationwide

Minnesota is not alone in dealing with the highway problem. Every state has been frantically searching a solution. Some states have mapped out five and ten-year building programs to be financed by multi-million dollar bond issues. Others have increased state gasoline taxes to as much as 7 cents per gallon (ours is 5 cents).

"The appalling accident-rate increase and the growing congestion on main traveled routes, combined with the deterioration of rural roads, are compelling states to consider comprehensive programs that at least make a start in meeting the problem.

The scope of the problem was described recently by Robert Moses, New York City Park Commissioner, in his prize-winning essay in the General Motors Better Highways essay contest. "We have 53,000,000 cars of all sorts in use . . . today, of which over one-third are old and mostly only fit for early retirement. . Of these 53,000,000 vehicles, 43,000,000 are passenger vehicles and 10,000,000 trucks and buses. The roads on which these vehicles run are by and large inadequate in mileage, location, width, capacity, and durability. They are unsafe, of inferior, dated design and poorly lighted and policed.

Problem Will Worsen

And the problem is likely to get much worse before it gets better, especially if the states fail to take swift and dramatic action. Moses points out that by 1963 there will be 68,000,000 cars on the highways, given the present rate of production.

"Statistics also indicate," he wrote, "that the makers of cars average a gross income of some ten billion dollars a year . . . By way of startling contrast, the present average outlay for new construction on roads of all kinds is only about two billion seven hundred million dollars a year. The discrepancy becomes greater and the gap yawns wider every year."

No sleight of hand tricks are going to solve this problem, Moses warns. The answer will be found, he insists, in "a concerted, unremitting attack on established orthodox lines from many quarters requiring the cooperation of innumerable public officials and industrial experts and laymen . . . Persistent, largely undramatic, daily work directed toward agreed, realizable limited objectives is what we need."

Alternatives Not Cheery

The Minnesota study group is finding that there is at least one point about which everyone can agree, and that is that large amounts of additional money must be found. The question that brings the disagreement, as usual, is what sources should be tapped.

The alternatives give little cause for cheer, and in the end, a combination of some—perhaps all—will perhaps be used, if any kind of thorough-going and meaningful program is devised. These alternatives include:

(1) Raising license fees. Minnesota's registration fees are already among the highest in the country, and produces about $24,000,000 a year. This money all goes to the state trunk highway fund. The hard-pressed county and town officials want this money shared between state and local jurisdictions, and another fight to change the constitution in order to permit such sharing may be waged again in 1954.

(2) Increasing gasoline tax. An additional one or two cents per gallon, boosting the state gasoline tax from five to six or seven cents, is proposed by some. This tax now raised $39,000,000 a year, with one-third being shared with the counties. Nationally there is talk of getting the federal government to relinquish its two-cent per gallon tax, allowing this amount to be picked up by the states. But this would create still other problems, and is not a realistic possibility.

(3) Long-term bond issues. A sensible highway program requires long-term planning, with costs of new construction spread over many years. But our state constitution sharply limits the amount of bonding for trunk highways, so this would require a constitutional amendment, too.

(4) Toll roads. The people of Minnesota have shown little enthusiasm for this, but more and more states have been turning to this alternative.

(5) Wheelage tax. Cities and villages could obtain some moderate relief, under our state constitution, by imposing this form of tax.

(6) Use of Gas Tax Refund. One proposal certain to stir much opposition is to return refunds for gasoline not used on highways for use on local roads instead of to the farmers. This runs into some $9,000,000 a year.

The use of all these proposals would add up to a sizable and perhaps adequate program, but no decisions are likely without a long and tough political struggle.

Prowlers Defeat Bemidji 6-0 to End Rivals' 23-game Win Streak; Crookston Here Friday Evening

An inspired squad of Prowlers made football history on Friday night when, in a game played on the Lincoln field, they defeated Red Wilson's Bemidji team, 6 to 0, to break a 23-game Lumberjack winning streak and register the first gridiron triumph that the locals have scored over Bemidji since 1943.

This week coach Ralph Skjod's club will conclude their 1953 schedule by playing the Crookston Central Pirates on the Lincoln field, with the kickoff slated for 8:00 p. m. Friday.

Lyle Guttu picked up 5 yards at right tackle; a fumble was recovered for no gain; Vraa whipped a pass to Darold Dalton for a first down on the Bemidji 35. After Thief River Falls was penalized 5 yards for offside, Vraa slid through right guard for a 10-yard gain, and Vraa, on a sweep around left end, made a first down on the 23. Guttu, Vraa, Ray Berg, and Helgeland, on running plays, drove for a first down on the Jacks' 12-yard line.

Vraa hit center for 4 yards; Guttu made 5 yards at left end; Vraa, on a try at left end lost a yard; on fourth down, Bemidji was called for offside, giving the Prowlers a first down on the 1-yard line. Vraa fumbled for no gain, but on the next play he pushed across the east goal-line for the touchdown. On the try for the conversion point, a centering pass went over Vraa's head, and Bemidji recovered the ball, and the Prowlers had a 6 to 0 lead.

The Prowlers, who rolled up 17 first downs to 8 for Bemidji, continued to hold the upper hand throughout the first half, with coach Skjod's squad turning in a splendid exhibition of all-round football ability. Pete Froehle, who played middle line-backer on defense, was particularly brilliant in diagnosing Bemidji's famed double and triple-reverse plays. The Prowler secondary, too, was alert in preventing the Lumberjacks' Stan Miller and Don Brown from breaking away for yardage around the ends.

Bemidji made their one serious threat at scoring late in the second period when, after holding the Prowlers for downs on the Jacks' 31-yard stripe, coach Wilson's team with Miller breaking away for runs of 12 and 30 yards, moved to the locals' 14-yard line. From the 14, Brown lost four yards on a try at left end, a pair of passes were incomplete, and a Bemidji penalty moved the ball back to the 32. A pass, Jack Whiting to Elmen Johnson, was incomplete when the Bemidji end bobbled the ball on the Prowlers' 5-yard line.

The Prowlers threatened to increase their lead in the second half when they had two scoring opportunities. Guttu recovered a Bemidji fumble on the Jacks' 31-yard line, and the locals moved to the Bemidji 15-yard stripe before they lost the ball on downs.

In the fourth period, after holding Bemidji for downs on the Thief River 29-yard line, the Prowlers began a drive that rolled up six consecutive first downs and moved the ball to the Jacks' 8-yard line. After Helgeland had gained three yards at left tackle, the march was halted when Bemidji's Don Hoffman recovered a fumble.

With 1:20 of the game remaining to be played, Bemidji took to the air in an effort to score. Three passes were incompleted, and then Vraa intercepted Bob Parker's toss on the Bemidji 33-yard line. The Prowlers, with Vraa carrying, killed time on a plunge into the line, and before another play could be run the game-time had expired and the Prowlers had won a well earned triumph.

Plummer Scores 20th Straight Win in 8-man Football

Coach Howie Casmey's Plummer Cardinals registered their 20th straight Tri-County conference eight-man football victory on Friday afternoon when, in a game played at Plummer, the Cardinals defeated Don Perkins' Oklee team, 25 to 6.

The Cardinals, who are co-captained by Neil Craft and James Kopp, have one game remaining on their 1953 schedule, playing at Clearbrook on Friday. Plummer won the conference title last year, and this year's team is just one game away from making a successful defense of that title.

With graduation removing several of last year's top-flight players from the squad, coach Casmey was faced with a rebuilding problem this season. Casmey credits the excellent spirit of the squad, and the school, for much of the success of this year's team.

New Warden Arrives in City

Carl Sundstrom of Duluth arrived in Thief River Falls Monday to take over the duties of district game warden here, succeeding J. C. Liemandt, who has been transferred. Sundstrom's family will join him in this city shortly.

Youths Required to Register on Reaching Age 18

Another reminder was issued today by Colonel Lloyd E. Lilygren, state director of selective service, to the effect that all young men becoming eighteen years of age must register with their nearest local draft board within five days after their eighteenth birthday. In N. W. Minnesota counties, board offices are located at the county seat.

Headline of the Week

Ted Peterson's state high school section in the Sports Peach of the Sunday Minneapolis Trib carried the following eight-column headline: "Thief River Falls Ruins Bemidji." That, from our point of view, is the headline of the week, and the Prowlers, who earned that headline by defeating the Lumberjacks, 6 to 0, here on Friday night, should paste those historic words in their scrap-books.

It's been ten years since a Prowler football team warranted such banner headlines but from the manner in which the locals ripped through the vaunted Bemidji squad, it appears that the blue-and-gold have finally overcome their attacks of Bemidji-itis, and that the Prowlers won't wait another ten years before scoring another win over the Jacks.

That was a bunch of titans that coach Ralph Skjod put on the field against the undefeated Lumberjacks on Friday night, and the most titantic of the group was, perhaps, Peter Froehle. The be-spectacled Pete, who plays guard on offense, was placed at middle line-backer on defense, and raised ruin and havoc with Bemidji's famed double-wing offense.

On several occasions, Pete knifed through the Bemidji line, apparently on the Lumberjack "hike" number, and reached the backfield just an instant after the ball, and was able to smear the ball-carrier for a big loss. From the side-lines it appeared that Pete was off-side, but linesman Gerry Raymond and referee Earl Hoffman stated that Froehle was on-side at the snap.

Closely pressing Froehle for Prowler starring honors on Friday night were Lyle Guttu and Sid Vraa. Guttu, co-captain with Darold Dalton, played a terrific all-round game, being effective at carrying the ball from the fullback position, and being a standout on defense against Bemidji's well-conceived areial attack.

As the years go by, Lyle should experience a warm glow whenever he recalls the game that he played against Bemidji on the night of October 23rd. It was fitting that Sid Vraa should make the interception of Bob Parker's pass in the final half minute of play, snuffing out whatever hopes coach Red Wilson's team had of pulling out a tie or a win. Sid, who has another year of eligibility left, has been a Prowler mainstay all year, and it's perhaps not too far-fetched to say that as Sid goes, so goes the Prowlers.

While the Prowlers earned all the cheers that they have been receiving for their accomplishment of Friday night, coaches Ralph Skjod, Joe Mrkonich, Dick Edlund, and Swede Lund, are entitled to a share of the applause. That was a well-drilled Prowler team that defeated Bemidji. Incidentally, the game statistics reveal that the Prowlers rolled up 193 yards by rushing and 33 yards by passing in piling up 17 first downs, while the Jacks had 129 yards by rushing and 51 yards by passing and 8 first downs.

It Happens Every Year

We hear that a couple of hunters had a fine shoot at Thief lake on Sunday morning—at Olaf Solheim's decoys. These hunters, and they are reputed to be among the city's best "wing shots" made a cautious stalk through the bulrushes on the south side of Thief lake, and when they came in range of Olaf's rubber decoys, they opened up a barrage of shots. For a few moments the wateh boiled white, decoys rolled over, and a loud noise emanated from Olaf's blind. The two hunters took off accross the lake, disappearing in the haze.

Prowlers win Cross-Country title

Coach Quent Jones' Prowler cross-country squad made a shambles of the district meet held at Crookston last week, placing one, two, three, and four. Jim Krohn, who ran the course in 9:03.8, won first place. Joey Poole was second, Jerry Mercil was third, and Evan Jones was fourth. The Prowlers' Dick Odegaard earned 8th place, Dean Christensen was 9th, Del-Ray Sanders was 10th, Harold Ptacek was 11th, and Delano Blazer, 12th.

Washington Team Is Grade School Football Champ

Estate Planning Has Many Complications

With the increasing complexity of society, disposing of a man's estate has become similarly complex. In the days when living was not so complicated, men wrote their wills and with that one act dictated to whom their property should go upon their deaths.

This no longer is true, the Minnesota State Bar association said today. A man now makes his will by signing of several documents.

A man provides for eventual disposition of some of his property when he takes out an insurance policy and designates a beneficiary. If he puts his home in joint tenancy—which in many cases is an unsatisfactory form of ownership—he dictates how some of his property shall be passed to his heirs.

Even when he sits and does nothing about making a will, he is, in effect, choosing how his property shall pass. For then he elects to let his property pass according to the formula set by state law. If he allows this to happen, his property may or may not be distributed in accordance with his wishes.

Estate planning is the science of coordinating and planning the best use of all of the methods available for disposition of a man's property. It includes planning for the building of an estate during an individual's lifetime. It also includes planning the disposition of his lifetime accumulation of property. Each requires the consideration of many factors. Your attorney is qualified and authorized by law to fully coordinate all parts of your estate.

Certainly the writing of a good, comprehensive will which complies with the law is a part of estate planning. For example, the will must be witnessed by at least two qualified witnesses. It must be signed strictly in accordance with technical formalities fixed by the law. In Minnesota, holographic—or handwritten—wills are not valid. Minnesota statutes also provide that no person other than a licensed attorney at law may draw or supervise the execution of another persons will except in an emergency wherein the imminence of death leaves insufficient time to have the same drawn and its execution supervised by a licensed attorney at law."

Another consideration of estate planning is tax planning. Congress passes many laws and allows many laws to exist which are beneficial to taxpayers. But it is up to the taxpayer to take advantage of these laws by the proper planning of his estate, if he wishes to save taxes.

Estate planning must take into account all of the property a man owns, his family situation, and his insurance program. Only an attorney knows all of these things can he make a prediction as to what will happen at the man's death.

The Minnesota State Bar Association has prepared a pamphlet on the subject of estate planning. It is available free of charge by writing to 800 National Building, Minneapolis 2, Minnesota.

Newfolden Loses Conference Title to Argyle Eleven

Argyle stood off a fourth quarter Newfolden surge at Hallock Friday night for a 19-13 victory and the championship of the Northern Lights eight-man football conference.

Tom Yutrzenka scored three touchdowns, one on a 50-yard pass interception and run, and two on passes from Norm Dufault, to lead Argyle to a 19-0 lead at the end of three periods.

License Checks Routine Highway Patrol Activity

Drivers license checks and systems of spot-checking Minnesota drivers valid drivers licenses and equipment are nothing new to the Minnesota highway patrol, according to Ralph Potvin, St. Paul, assistant chief of the patrol.

Each patrol officer, while on duty, is expected to spend at least one hour each day checking on drivers licenses and equipment, he reported. This is done with as little interference to the public as possible as the routine check is conducted without stopping traffic other than the vehicle concerned.

"That this routine check is showing results is shown in the monthly activity reports made by the Minnesota highway patrol," said Potvin. "For the first eight months of 1953, 123,092 persons were required to show that they were driving with valid licenses. The highest number per month was made during July when the Minnesota highway patrol checked the licenses of 20,691 drivers in every county in the state. When traffic conditions warranted, drivers were stopped by patrol officers and asked to show their licenses. However, whenever other violations were noted, the licenses were checked as well."

During the same eight months period, only 2,869 arrests were made for violations of the drivers law, according to Potvin. Of these 907 were made of persons who were driving without a drivers license. In addition, 401 drivers were removed from the highways for showing their apparent irresponsibility or dangerous attitude by driving after their licenses had been suspended or revoked for previous convictions.

Caution Urged as Pheasant Season Opens in State

With the pheasant season opening this week-end, hunters should remember that an average of two hunters have been killed and 28 injured in each season for the last five years. The numbers for 1953 will depend upon how careful each hunter is with his gun, where he shoots and how his companions act.

Through the third week of October four hunters have been killed, three while hunting grouse and one duck hunter. Eleven duck hunters have been injured and ten grouse hunters. The average for the last five years is three duck hunters and three grouse hunters killed, although in the 1952 seasons five hunters were killed in each of the duck and grouse seasons.

Causes for deaths, the same as last year and every year there has been hunting—the victim raised up in line of fire; crawling through a fence with a loaded gun; gun discharged when the hunter stumbled.

IDEAL WEATHER BOOSTS TRUNK HIGHWAY TRAVEL

Ideal fall driving conditions helped bring out a near-record number of motorists, according to a report issued today by the Highway Planning Survey of the Minnesota highway department. Data obtained by automatic traffic recorders at 27 rural trunk highway locations reveal that last month's traffic volume was 6.9 per cent above that of September of last year, and brought the ten-month gain to 5.7 per cent over the first ten months of 1952.

Cancer Society to Make Followup Study of Smoking

Continue Investigation Into Relationship of Smoking to Lung Cancer

Volunteer researchers of the Minnesota division of the American Cancer Society will begin on November 1 to make their second follow-up reports on 14,011 men in the state who are participating in the national smoking study to determine whether there is a relationship between the use of tobacco and lung cancer.

Beginning in January 1952, volunteer researchers in 394 selected counties in nine states obtained histories of the smoking habits of 204,547 men between the ages of 50 and 69. States participating in the study are New York, Illinois, Minnesota, Michigan, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin, Iowa and California. In Pennington County 83 men were interviewed, and in Marshall 321.

This major research project was undertaken for two reasons, according to Dr. David P. Anderson, Austin, president of the Cancer Society's Minnesota division. "First, a number of studies in the past have indicated that smoking may be an important factor in the cause of cancer of *the lung. Secondly, and most im*portant, death rates from lung cancer have been increasing at an alarming rate and are continuing to increase. It is of the utmost importance that we discover the cause as soon as possible."

This year's follow-up report, like last year's, will be made by the researchers who conducted the original poll of facts and will show whether the person under study has died since the last follow-up was made.

"When the cause of death has been determined from death certificates and other medical records," Dr. Anderson said, "statisticians at the national office of the Society in New York City will use the data to determine whether death rates from cancer are any greater among smokers than among non-smokers."

The follow-up report will also show whether the man under study has moved and his new address so that his case history will not be lost.

Dr. Anderson said that he had been informed by the national office that the study originally planned to continue over five years may be completed sooner than expected because of "the excellent performance of the volunteer researchers. Much will depend on the results of this year's follow-up."

Since the early 1900's, Canada has been the world's principal producer of the precious platinum group of metals. Prior to that time Colombia and then Russia were the main sources of world supply. Recent developments in South Africa are making that country an increasingly important source.

ALDERMAN, SECOND WARD

I came to Thief River Falls 64 years ago and I have lived in the Second Ward 53 years.

After some years here I went to Minneapolis where I attended college several terms. I then was employed several years as a conductor and later as an inspector for the Minneapolis Street Railway Company. I returned to Thief River Falls in 1900 and was employed in my brother's store until he sold the business.

In 1902 I started business on my own with $35 in my pocket. When the sawmill discontinued operation I appeared several times before the city council to secure the mill site, including Horseshoe Island. With the river on the north and west and the Soo Line on the east, and served by a spur of the Great Northern, this was an ideal industrial and factory center.

I thought this land should have been acquired and used as an inducement to encourage industry to locate here. It could have been bought for a few hundred dollars at that time as most of it was tax delinquent. In later years industries have been given no inducement to locate here.

What are you wage earners going to do when this artificial war prosperity ends and you will have no work? Better wake up before it is too late. Let's get industries located in Thief River Falls and you will have work 12 months a year.

As a pioneer I am interested in the future of the city and its prosperity. I believe that the taxpayer's money should be spent for public improvements, streets, parks and necessary public building.

Having retired from business I will spend all of my time in the interests of the citys' welfare if I am elected alderman. YOUR SUPPORT WILL BE GREATLY APPRECIATED AT THE CITY ELECTION TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 3.

TIME TO CALL A HALT

Our community is emerging from another spasm of youth delinquency. This latest convulsion follows the same general pattern as those that preceded it. They have been of sufficient regularity in recent years to indicate a basic weakness in the organization of our community.

Youth problems are common to all communities. The regularity and the similarity of those we have experienced, however, justify a repetition of the prediction of a year ago that unless we start dealing realistically with the causes of these convulsions we probably will have another crop of youthful offenders to bring unhappiness into our homes again some time next year.

It is not reasonable to believe that this situation can be attributed to any single cause. We will not go along with those who say our youth problem is due to the inadequacy of our police system. No doubt that system has shortcomings, but over a period of years it has done effective work in getting at the facts. Our youth problem has not been perpetuated because the police have not been able to apprehend the guilty. There is excellent cooperation between city and county officials and they have a good record of "getting their man." That is their primary function.

Nor will we go along with those who say our youth delinquency is due to inadequate facilities for youth recreation. Few communities offer as many recreational facilities or as many supervised youth activities as have been made available here at Thief River Falls. That is not the reason.

From our observation the one weakness that stands out prominently as a cause for this continuity of convulsions is our failure to deal effectively with the youthful offenders after they have been apprehended.

There always has been and there always will be a youth problem, and there always will be controversy over the manner of dealing with youth delinquents. At the present time we are dealing with them leniently, placing emphasis on the importance of converting the erring youth into a good citizen. At other times we have, and maybe will again, be more concerned about the influence of the erring youth on other youngsters, thinking of him as the bad apple that may spoil the barrel of apples. There will be times when we will approach the problem with a due regard for both of these highly important considerations.

In our community, in recent years, we have not been duly concerned with the welfare of the good apples in dealing with those that had gone bad.

In recent years our youth problems have centered mainly around groups of youngsters, loosely associated, but nevertheless with sufficient association to give them some of the aspects of gang organization.

The record of each of these succeeding groups has followed pretty much the same pattern. They progressed in the field of mischief-making gradually becoming more venturesome and eventually being involved in petty crimes. Then followed the arrests and the reprimands and occasionally a commitment. Here is the point, as we see it, where we have bogged down in our efforts to correct a bad condition. It is at this point that we have failed to act in a way that would build future respect for law and order.

And because of this failure, as each group has been dispersed, the spirit of revolt has lived on. Each group has planted the seed from which a new organization has sprouted. The festering sore we are seeking to control today is the same malignant growth we thought had been killed last year and two and three and four and five years ago.

We are not disturbed by an occasional outbreak of youth problems. Perhaps we should not say they are inevitable but certainly they are not unnatural. It is the regularity of these outbreaks in Thief River Falls in recent years that disturbs us—the similarity of each new outbreak to the one that preceded it. Here is a noxious weed that has extended its evil influence too long and needs more than the ordinary control treatment. It needs to be eradicated.

And in this eradication process the police have a definite responsibility, but their's is not all of the responsibility. Most of our greatly expanded youth program is a part of our community education system. Our schools have a responsibility that is not limited to the school premises or to the hours of instruction. Our juvenile court and our various youth agencies must assume a very large share of the responsibility for our failures, many of which can be traced directly to their errors and shortcomings. And all of the responsibility does not rest on the shoulders of our public officials. We have personal responsibilities as individual citizens, as parents, as neighbors and as members of church, civic, fraternal and social organizations.

There is little comfort to be derived from the fact that rumors are far worse than facts. Exaggerated rumors are always a by-product of such unhappy events. It unfortunately is true that one of the certain 'results' of these periodic community convulsions is the great and irreparable harm that is done to innocent people. These occasions always provide a field day for the scandal mongers. It is true that the condition is not as bad as the gossips would have it.

But it is bad enough nevertheless to justify real community concern. The condition is bad not especially because of what has happened now but because what has happened now is a part of what has happened with too much regularity in the past. It is the perennial character of the weed that should concern us.

The damage that is done is irreparable. There is nothing that can be done now about what has been done except to make a real effort to see to it that what has happened does not happen again. Unless we bestir ourselves we may look with assurance for another episode next year; one more chapter of the same continued story. It's time to call a halt.

Report on Viking News of the Week

By Mrs. Orville Peters, Phone 4F30

Friday we had the pleasure of attending parents day at BSTC at Bemidji. In our arrival we registered and were presented with a card which identified us as a parent of a student. We had occasion to meet other parents from many other places.

Each student then took their parents on a tour through the school and campus. This was very interesting. BSTC means more to us now.

We were introduced to the faculty who were very friendly and congenial. The parents spent the afternoon visiting classes which proved very interesting. One of the highlights of the day was the luncheon hour in Sanford Lounge. Refreshments were served from a candle lighted table. Pouring was done by two of the students. Here again we had a lovely visit with other parents and members of the faculty.

We would like to really extend a hearty thank you to the college for this enjoyable day.

News from Fairview

Teacher Mrs. Otto Omlid

The first six weeks have ended here in Fairview. Perfect attendance was made by Delores, Keren, Joyce and Richard.

The 8th grade, Verna and Delores, are keeping a weather summary in their Science for October.

The 7th grade, Karen, completed a nature unit in Literature, which she made a paper made pheasant.

The 4th grade, Gloria, has been reading of pioneers. She has made a mural on pioneer life.

We also have been busy redecorating our furniture to match our newly painted school house inside and outside.

We went on an excursion one Friday to see "signs of fall".

Be sure to come to our Social October 30th.

Matilda will be there.

A Sign Your Life Is in DANGER

You're driving on a dark-surfaced highway. The sky becomes overcast. It begins to rain. Traffic bunches up. You strain to see. "Slippery" warnings keep you tense. Then—suddenly you pass onto light-colored concrete. What a relief! Traffic moves out. No "slippery" signs. You know you're on a safer pavement.

Yes, the difference between a sickening swerve and a safe, quick stop often is the pavement. Concrete grips tires—helps you avoid accidents. Wet or dry, its gritty texture provides uniformly high skid resistance.

Its V8 puts new ROAD MASTERY at your hand

You must have heard about it.
But have you tried the greatest Buick yet built?
Have you sat behind the wheel of a 1953 ROADMASTER and felt the wondrous new road command that is yours?
If you haven't—if you have yet to know the rich exuberance that flows through you when a toe touch releases just a fraction of the velvet power-Niagara of the world's newest V8 Engine—then you are cordially invited to be our guest at this new experience.
We promise you these:
A new and wonderful mastery of hills, of distance, of traffic tangles—from the almost effortless power of this master Buick's advanced new V8 Engine—the highest horsepower and compression ratio in Buick history.
A new and instantly responsive getaway—with new quiet and completely infinite smoothness—from the drive magic of Twin-Turbine Dynaflow.
A new and exquisite handling ease—from the superb ride-engineering of this automobile, and the as-needed hydraulic assistance of Power Steering, standard equipment here at no extra cost.
But you need to experience firsthand the performance and the pleasure and the abiding satisfaction you will find here.
So we repeat a most cordial invitation to you—to drive a 1953 ROADMASTER—to prove to yourself that new motoring thrills come to flower in the greatest Buick in fifty great years.

CANDIDATE

MRS. AGNES ISRAELSON

I have for several years taken an active part in various civic affairs, and if elected mayor I shall try fervently to make Thief River Falls a better place in which to live. I am a sound believer in better working conditions and a fair wage, better law enforcement, and some thing definite for our young people.

Your vote will be appreciated

Fellow Voters,

When I filed for Mayor, my intentions are to carry through some of the principles I believe in: Number one being better working conditions and a fair wage. I have been out of this city on different occasions in different states and I know that Thief River Falls is one of the cities where earnings are less than any city I have been in. Living conditions here are just as high as where the wage scale is higher. We're also getting to the point where several families are leaving our city every month to look for permanent employment. That also applies to our young people. If we had some industrial set up in Thief River Falls, our young folks and adults could remain here. If we're going to build churches, hospital and courthouse, which are all essential to our community, we must see to it that people remain here and can find employment and a fair wage which will enable them to establish their home because money must be earned before it can be spent.

My aim is to unite all the people, labor, business and civic organization into one group that will back projects that will benefit our city and for all the people not just for a few. Taxpayers money must be spent wisely. The youth of today should also be our concern. One cannot calculate the cost of juvenile delinquency in terms of moral degeneration as well as in dollars and cents.

The money spent to improve work and recreation for our youth is well invested. It is better to spend money for improvements than for penal institutions. We must share our best, we must build for the future. To live we must let live. It's that simple.

This FENCE makes SENSE

THE HEAVY MESH FENCE between oiler Rudolph Shutter and those big wheels is there for just one purpose—safety. The wheels, called sheaves or idlers, guide cables nearly two inches thick which hoist loads of iron ore up from the bottom of the mine. Safety has long been stressed in our state's iron mines—today mining in Minnesota is one of America's safest heavy industries. And safety will become increasingly important as iron mining becomes more complex, as new and more complicated machines are used in the concentration of once-worthless low-grade ores and taconite. Processing low-grade ores will demand more men, more machines, more safety effort. This can assure a mining industry in our state for generations to come—but only if these lower-grade ores can compete in price with high-grade ores from other areas.

THE FAITH OF A CHILD

Are you one of the millions who think wistfully of the faith of a child and wish they could believe so implicitly?

And are you also one of those who have assumed that it's impossible to go back to religion, once one has drifted away?

A child wants to believe! That's the first step. The first step for YOU too . . .

It is that final step that looks so hard. But how easily and naturally it comes . . . after we have taken the first two!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Minnesota 'U' Spent $54 Million in '52-53

Expenditures by the University of Minnesota for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1953, totaled $54,189,630.33, while the school's income for the year amounted to $54,194,025.71 including a balance of $3,758.07 left over from the previous year, according to a summary of financial operations released today by William T. Middlebrook, business vice president.

Largest source of University income was the State of Minnesota which provided $24,126,259.52 or approximately 44.5 per cent of the year's total, the summary disclosed. During the previous fiscal year, the University obtained $21,942,009.67 or 45 per cent of its $48,717,780.28 income for that year, from the State.

The State's contribution to the University's 1952-53 income consisted of: a Legislative maintenance appropriation of $14,236,654; a Legislative appropriation of $1,432,192 for special projects administered and carried on by the University for the general benefit of the people of the State; receipts amounting to $324,100.05 from the 23/100 mill tax, the standing direct property tax for the general support of the University.

Plus an additional $105,871.95 from the so-called "swamp land fund," representing the University's share of income from a fund the principal of which was derived from the sale of lands set aside by the State's share of the cost of caring for indigent patients at the University Hospitals, $959,313.47; and $7,174,000.00 drawn from Legislative appropriations for construction of buildings.

Other sources of University income for the fiscal year was reported by Middlebrook as follows: fees and receipts, $9,742,269.48 including $3,449,503.28 in student tuition fees; University services and revolving funds, $8,345,031.19; income from the permanent University fund (principal $33,452,638.21 on June 30, 1953), $738,444.59; from trust funds, $7,378,689.37; intercollegiate athletics, $879,163.83; and from the federal government for instruction, agricultural research agricultural extension work and physical plant expansion, $2,874,537.71.

Largest University expenditure for the year 1952-53 was $21,255,727.64 paid out for instruction and reasearch. Included in this outlay was the expense of college instruction and research, the Duluth branch, the agricultural schools and experiment stations, University Hospitals, summer session and agricultural and general extension activities.

Expansion of the University's physical plant resulted in an expenditure of $8,040,212.48 during the fiscal year, according to Middlebrook.

Invite Youth To Join 4-H Clubs

Four Minnesota young people are issuing a special invitation to rural boys and girls in every county in the state to join a 4-H club this fall.

The four young people are the new officers of the State 4-H Club Federation who are assuming their duties this month as leaders of an organization of 50,000 4-H members.

They are, left to right: David Rentschler, 20, Lakefield, president; Ann Eichler, 17, Foley, vice president; Helen Fahning, 19, Cleveland, treasurer; and Roger Olson, 19, Hutchinson, secretary.

Along with other members and club leaders, these young people are taking an active part in the annual 4-H membership drive now under way in this county and throughout the state.

Former POW Joins St. Cloud Guard Co.

Sgt. V. Henning Praised by Adjutant General

Sergeant Vernon Henning of St. Cloud is not one to leave the problem of national defense up to someone else — despite the fact that in his 27 years he has served in two wars and spent 37 months in a North Korean prison camp.

Sergeant Henning, who returned to his St. Cloud home in September, last week donned the uniform again as a member of Headquarters Company, 136th Infantry Regiment of the Minnesota National Guard. Henning first joined the Army when he was inducted in February 1945.

In 1949 he enlisted in the regular army and was sent to the Far East. When the Korean War broke out he was among the first United States troops sent to that country. In August of 1950 he was captured by the North Koreans. He spent the next three years in Communist prison camps and was repatriated following the armistice.

"Sergeant Henning's enlistment will give added stimulus to our current National Gaurd recruiting campaign," Major General J. E. Nelson, state adjutant general said. "It is inspiring to see a man like Sergeant Henning —who might justifiably feel he has done his share — again put on the uniform. As long as we have such men in the United States I don't think we have to fear for our security."

Meanwhile, the strength of the Minnesota National Guard topped the 5000 mark as the fall recruiting campaign approached the half-way mark. More than 600 new men have enlisted in the Guard since mid-September. Guard strength is expected to exceed 6000 officers and men when the drive ends on November 14, General Nelson said.

State Doctors to Go to Session in St. Paul Nov. 4th

Some 600 members of the organization are expected to attend according to Dr. E. J. Fogelberg of St. Paul, reservation chairman.

Panel discussions, exhibits and demonstrations, medical movies, a luncheon and buffet supper are on the one-day program.

Among the out-of-state participants in the program will be Dr. Francis J. Gerty of the University of Illinois, who will be luncheon speaker and Dr. Edward Sterling Nichol, Miamo, Florida, who will be included in a panel discussion of anti-coagulants.

Big Verdict vs. Soo Line Upheld

Enderlin, N. D., Fireman Is Given $116,500 Award

United States district Judge Robert C. Bell in St. Paul Saturday denied a new trial to the Soo Line railroad in a case in which Kenneth C. Wallner, 31, Enderlin, N. D., railroad fireman, won $116,500 by a jury verdict.

Wallner suffered loss of his left leg in a collision between two trains at Lucca, N. D., Aug. 16, 1950. Eugene A. Rerat, Minneapolis attorney, claimed Wallner was so disabled that he no longer can work as a railroad fireman, but this was denied by Fordyce W. Counch, railroad counsel.

The jury returned the verdict April 13, but a motion for a new trial was made July 27. It was taken under advisement by Judge Bell in federal court and his decision was announced Saturday.

OH BROTHER!

Forty-five years after separation at birth two brothers, now with different names, were reunited at Litchfield, Lyle Maher of that community and Adrian Smith of Ardmore, Nebraska.—Foursomes are common on every golf course, but not too many have a regular foursome made up of brothers like the four husky Ross brothers who frequent the Ortonville course.—Five nephews of F. H. Eberhardt, Staples, can chalk up a 75 year record of military service.

Marshmen of the wild barrier islands of South Carolina's coast believe when they hear a big bull alligator bellowing in August or September, long after the mating season, he is predicting a hurricane roaring up from the Caribbean.

QUESTIONS answered for VETERANS

Q: I'm a teacher and a World War II veteran. I've been spending my summers going to school under the GI Bill. This coming summer I wonder if I could take a course to get credits I need in order to renew my teaching certificate.

A: No, you could not. Summertime GI training by teachers may not be taken just to renew a certificate or keep it in force. But it may be taken if it will lead to a higher or more advanced certificate than the one you now have.

Q: I understand that under the Korean GI Bill a veteran can't take a course leading to an objective he's already reached. Does that mean I wouln't be allowed to enroll in a bar review course? I've never taken one, and that's the only course I want.

A: You would be permitted to take a bar review course under the Korean GI Bill, to reach the objective of lawyer. Such a course generally is accepted as necessary to fulfill the requirements of that objective.

Q: I've gone back on active military duty, and my National Service Life Insurance policy is under waiver. Will I collect dividends during the period the waiver is in effect?

Q: My National Service Life Insurance term policy has lapsed more than three months ago, but it has not yet expired. I want to reinstate it and convert to a permanent plan, at the same time. Is this possible? I'm not interested in back-dating the permanent insurance; I want it to be effective as of the date I convert.

A: Yes, you may reinstate and convert at the same time. You must apply to the VA, and pay (1) one monthly premium at the term rate for the first month of lapse and (2) the first premium at the permanent plan rate. You'll also need a physical examination.

Q: I have an ordinary life policy under National Service Life Insurance, I want to change to a 20-payment endowment policy. I am not a disabled veteran. How can I go about making the change?

A: You should apply to the VA Dist. Office that handles your account. In order to make the change, you will be required to pay the difference between the reserve value of the new policy and the reserve on the old policy.

Q: My daughter, who is past 18, is attending school. She has been receiving compensation payments from VA, based on the death of my husband, a World War I veteran. She plans to drop out of school for several months, during which time, I understand, payments will stop. Will the payments start again once she resumes school?

A: They will, provided she sends VA evidence that she has resumed school. If VA gets the evidence within one year, the renewed payments will be effective as of the date she started class. Otherwise, the effective date will be the date VA receives the evidence.

The term "Spanish Main" originally referred to the Spanish colonies on the northeast coast of South America. In later usage it was generally applied to the Caribbean Sea and nearby waters made hazardous by pirates and buccaneers.

Flavor that switched a million beer drinkers

In just the past two years Hamm's Beer has won over a million brand new friends. What attracted all these folks? They tell us it was Hamm's special kind of crisp, clean-cut taste, with smoothness "aged-in." It's an unusually refreshing flavor which we have captured here in the land of sky blue waters. Won't you be curious? Just once, try Hamm's Beer.

P. S. Thank you! Your call for Hamm's has made it the favorite of them all in the Upper Midwest.

Packard CLIPPER FOR $2684* delivered here

From the time it was introduced, the new CLIPPER made news

It made news because of quality—real Packard quality that thousands of buyers instantly recognized as meaning more fine-car features for their dollars. Ask the man who owns one!

It made news because of modern contour styling that gives you a better view of the road—ahead, behind, and to each side.

It made news because of the sparkling, smooth-flowing stream of power from its famous Packard engine. Packard has a world reputation as a builder of fine engines. You've heard of Packard engines ever since you took your first car to heart.

No power like this power

It made news because of power shifting. Packard-designed and Packard-built ULTRAMATIC is generally conceded to be the smoothest, sweetest, safest, surest power shifter available today. And it is used on Packard-built cars exclusively. (Optional at extra cost.)

The new CLIPPER made news for many other reasons, too—not the least among them: its spontaneous public acceptance.

Don't let the big type about "best deal in town" fool you. A best buy is another matter, and the best directions we can give you for finding such a buy is to look up your Packard dealer.

From where I sit ... by Joe Marsh

It's the Principal of the Thing!

Every autumn our High School has a contest to see who can get the most ads for The Recorder—the school magazine. The winner becomes honorary Principal for a day.

Skip Roberts won last week, and his first (and only) official act as "Principal" of the school was to announce in a loud, clear voice: "I hereby declare today a school holiday!"

Knowing Miss Gilbert, the real principal, it was no surprise to me that she laughed as hard as anybody else . . . and said to go right ahead.

From where I sit, it's no wonder our youngsters think Miss Gilbert's such a wonderful person (even though they know they'll have to make up that day). Her tolerance, her friendly way with people of all ages reflect in everything she does. For instance, at my house Miss Gilbert prefers tea but always respects my preference for a glass of beer. As a real person . . . in any community, Miss Gilbert belongs at "the head of the class."

OUR LAND

Quackgrass Control

So urges R. G. Robinson, University of Minnesota agronomist. He says TCA at 22 pounds per acre in September or early October on fall-plowed ground gives as good quack grass control as repeated tillage and it will work in both wet and dry falls. Tillage does not successfully control quack grass during wet seasons. In 1954 flax, oats, corn, or potatoes can be planted on fall-treated ground. However, if very little rain falls after TCA application in 1953, better sow flax in 1954. Enough TCA might remain on the soil to injure corn or oats.

This method of quack control has not yet been tried on sand or peat so the above suggestions apply primarily to medium and heavy-textured mineral soils.

Soil Conservation Pays Off

Evert Pousl of Kingston, first Meeker County farmer to apply soil conservation measures to his farm, said recently that he finds them very valuable. Pousl is a supervisor of the Meeker County Soil Conservation District. He began strip cropping in 1942. "I figure soil conservation measures have increased my yields about 25 per cent on the steepest slopes and soil on those slopes have been improved considerably," he says. He is particularly pleased with the way his hilly land withstood heavy rains of the past two summers. He reports he had only a little washing during the summer's heaviest rain.

Attention to Fresh Cows

This advice comes from Ralph Wayne, extension dairyman at the University of Minnesota. He says such special attention is important if you want more efficient production. Fresh cows should be barn-fed not only grain but liberal amounts of roughage. Good legume hay or hay crop silage are best since they provide an abundance of both total nutrients and protein at low cost. Corn silage is excellent in total nutrients but low in protein. So cows fed heavy amounts of corn silage and little or no legume roughages, should also receive additional protein in the grain mixture to provide a well-balanced, efficient ration.

Natives of the Marquesas Islands in the Pacific harpoon wild cattle. Dogs aid them in the hunting, which is practiced only for food, not for sport.

POLITICAL ADVERTISING—Prepared and paid for by Frank Dudley, Thief River Falls, Minn.

To the Voters of the First Ward

I believe our Alderman, Mr. Ed Christianson, should be taken out as I am informed that he worked for that Ordinance to zone the Northeast part of the City. That Ordinance, as started, was intended to take in all of Dewey Avenue. If it had passed no one could have built a house to live in, as they made it a commercial zone. That means that you would have only garages, warehouses and other commercial business places in that part of the City.

Think who would want to go into business between the railroad and the river?

I think that Ordinance should be repealed that includes Davis Avenue as it is detrimental to the City.

I built a house on Davis Avenue prior to the Ordinance. This building I built has paid the City $6,000.00 in taxes, has given employment to four carpenters for three years all winter, has given three and four room all modern apartments, nicely furnished and renting for $35.00 per month to old age pensioners, and has improved that lot 100%. The Alderman in favor of that Ordinance tried to stop me from completing this building, but as I had started it before they passed that Ordinance, they could not do so.

Yours,

Frank J. Dudley

GROWING WITH YOUR CHILD

Institute of Child Welfare, University of Minnesota

Quarrels Have Some Value, Too

—"Phyllis and Janie are inseparable; they love to play together—but it seems that they are always bickering;" "Tommy and Jimmy can't wait until they can get together to play, but half the time it looks like a prize fight." Comments such as these, if the children mentioned are four and five year olds, do not tell the whole story of preschool friendships.

Learning the social "give and take" skills is not done overnight. Youngsters learn to get along through practice and experience, and study of kindergarten children has shown that youngsters who are active, busy, full of constructive energy, and eager to be with older children, are likely to be the ones who do get involved in conflicts with other children.

A kindergarten situation, providing supervision to prevent real injustices, but also providing children with a good deal of freedom to solve their own problems, is often the "practice field" in which children move forward in their social "know-how."

Conflicts between children tend to be short. If a mother can learn to stay out of the quarrel; the participants will probably settle down to peaceful play again very quickly. Experience in being involved in a quarrel offers a new realization to the child of the value of taking turns, for example.

He learns, through experience, the meaning of "This is mine;" he learns the rewards of sharing playthings; he begins to learn how to give in gracefully, how to see the other person's point of view. These are valuable social lessons, and some experience, even though it may involve a temporary set of hurt feelings, adds to the child's repertoire of skills for living.

Young children generally choose as playmates youngsters who are like them in developmental level, in the physical skills they have attained. This suggests that in many quarrels, non-interference by an adult is a safe policy. If the pair of quarreling youngsters is very unevenly matched in terms of size and strength, a close supervisory eye may be needed—but supervision, not interference, is still the word to keep in mind.

"WINTERIZE" DRIVING HABITS, MOTORISTS URGED

With the air full of exhortations to "have your car winterized," the Minnesota Safety Council says it's also time to "winterize your driving habits." Driving at reduced speeds, to compensate for the added hazards which longer hours of darkness bring, is one of the chief steps in this safety habit. Being mentally prepared for drastic changes in driving conditions is just as important, says the Council, as filling your car's cooling system with antifreeze.

Platinum, found originally in a region of South America was valued at less than silver by the Spanish colonists. They could not profitably separate it from gold nor could they melt or destroy it by fire. Today the price of platinum is about one hundred times that of silver.

Dr. D. M. Travnicek Stresses Dental Care at Knox PTA

Mrs. Margaret Race, School Nurse, Tells of Dental Card System

A talk on child dental care was given by Dr. D. M. Travnicek at the Knox PTA meeting on Monday evening, October 19th. He stated that the best treatment for decay is prevention and that the lack of dental care early in life is responsible for the tremendous increase in decayed teeth. He gave four suggestions to improve this situation:

1. Elimination of sugar from our diets and the establishment of more rigid diets including more fruits and non-carbohydrate foods.
3. Brush the teeth well after each meal.
4. Have the childrens teeth examined early in life and fillings put in both the baby and permanent teeth.

Mrs. Margaret Race, school nurse, explained the pink dental card system used in our school system. There is a pink card for every school child and these are signed by the dentist following his examination of the child's teeth.

This dental examination should be taken care of every year and the pink card returned to the school where the information on the cards is compiled. This is a measuring stick of the success or failure of this dental program which is set up by the Departement of Health of the University of Minnesota. Only 75% of the children returned pink cards last year.

Miss Olga Bloomanreas, Knox principal, explained the work being done by the Federation of Women's Clubs in restoring the first floor of Independence Hall in Philadelphia. If possible every child should bring one penny every week from the first week in September through the last week in May for this fund, she said.

Mrs. H. O. Chommie made a plea for Girl Scout leaders for the 2nd and 3rd grades and the 7th and 8th grades, as they are lacking leaders for these age groups. Anyone able to serve as a leader is asked to contact Mrs. Chommie or Mrs. C. E. Snyder.

Falls Theatre to Make First Showing in Area

Upper Midwest movie goers will be the first in the nation to view the new Warner Bros. Technicolor musical, "Calamity Jane," starring Doris Day as the Black Hills' famous heroine, and Howard Keel as the colorful Wild Bill Hickok.

The premiere showings will be held during a two-week period in the principal towns and cities throughout Minnesota and the Dakotas, with the picture scheduled to open Wednesday, November 4, at the Falls theatre in Thief River Falls.

The rousing musical deals with the life and times of the Wild West's most fabulous, fascinating and fast-on-the-draw woman who could saddle a bronc or fan a six-iron with the toughest hombres in Deadwood.

In "Calamity Jane," Producer William Jacobs and Director David Butler have interwoven songs and music with the spirited story, much in the manner of such famous Broadway hits as "Oklahoma" and "South Pacific."

Winter Vegetable Storage

Storage is a good way to preserve many of the garden vegetables that are not canned or frozen. If you provide proper storage conditions, you can assure yourself a supply of vegetables during the winter months.

After vegetables and fruits have been harvested and placed in storage, they are still alive. To keep them living as long as possible, we regulate the temperature and humidity of the storage room. This will slow down the growth processes and maintain the edible quality of the stored products.

Many of our garden products like apples, carrots, beets, rutabagas, potatoes, celery and cabbage require moist, cool conditions for storage. These fruits and vegetables are successfully stored in a room built in the basement where the temperature can be kept between 32 and 40 degrees Fahrenheit. A ventilator shaft connected to a window will provide ample ventilation and proper room temperature.

Onions may be stored in mesh bags and hung from the ceilings. They require cool temperatures but the air should be dry.

Pumpkins and squash should be stored in a warm, dry place such as a furnace room. For best storage, cure them for a few weeks at 75 to 85 degrees Fahrenheit to harden the shells.

Carrots keep very well if the temperature remains between 32 and 40 degrees. F. Cut the carrot tops off so as to remove about about a quarter of an inch of the crown of the root with the green top. Clean and dry before placing in 10-gallon earthenware crocks. Cover with a burlap bag or dish towel.

For best success, store only high-quality products, free of defects and disease. All fruits and vegetables should be mature.

SHOULD APPLY NOW FOR TREE PLANTING STOCK

Requests for tree planting stock should be made as soon as possible, the state division of forestry urges. County agents, farm foresters, field men in the division of forestry and the division of forestry office, State Office Building, St. Paul should be contacted for information and forms to complete. The requests will be filled in order of receipt and trees will be shipped next spring at the proper time.

A chemist employed by Eastman Kodak Company in 1886 was one of the early full-time research scientists in American industry.

HARVEY UGLEM IS NOW RECUPERATING AT HOME

Harvey Uglem, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Uglem of Goodridge, last week was discharged from Northwestern Hospital and is now recuperating at home from the effects of a head injury sustained recently in an automobile accident at Highlanding. Altho his condition is much improved, he is still confined to his bed.

RIPE STRAWBERRIES ARE PICKED FRIDAY, OCT. 23

Mrs. Otto Johnson of St. Hilaire last week-end brought into the Times office specimens of ripe strawberries she had picked in the family garden Friday, October 23, believed to be a record for lateness in the season.

The first telephone switchboard was placed in service in New Haven, Conn., in 1878, making it possible for any telephone to be connected to any other telephone in town.

A central office serving 5,000 telephones must be prepared to make any of 12,497,500 different connections. With 10,000 telephones, this number increases to 49,995,000.

Time may be money, but it's work that gives it exchange value.

The grader shed built in 1939 on the Peder Mellem farm (now owned by Ben Elseth) by the Marshall Co. Highway Dept. was moved this week to Viking.

Starting in 1923 on the then newly built county road D he had 6½ miles of road to grade using for the first 6 years a horse-drawn grader.

For the next 10 years he operated a grader powered by a McCormick Deering tractor. Four of these were spent in Newfolden as the county had but two graders. They worked day and night. With the new type grader his miles have been increased so now his route covers 13 miles of which 45 were graded daily. In 1939 Mellem started year around maintenance operating the snow plow also.

In all these years he has had only three minor accidents; all of cars running into the grader.

He has been laid up because of illness only two months due to an operation.

Alfred Rafteseth who has been his assistant on the snow plow will take over the job.

REELECTION AS MAYOR
CITY ELECTION TUESDAY, NOV. 3
Your Support Will Be Appreciated

Dear Fellow Citizens:

Should I miss seeing you personally before you go to vote on November 3, I want to take this opportunity to thank you for the fine support I have had as Mayor and member of your city council. I sincerely trust that I can continue to have this excellent cooperation and support in keeping Thief River Falls a beautiful city in which to live, progressive, economically sound, with the affairs of the city conducted in a fair, efficient and business-like manner.

The city affairs are big business, and as much concern and consideration in voting for its officials should be given, as would be given to selecting executives for your own business. The city is, in its entirity, your business.

During my years in your service with the fine cooperation and work of the city council, together with the helpful advise and counsel of many of our civic-minded citizens and civic organizations, we have been able to accomplish many things for the betterment of Thief River Falls. To name a few: The new dam was completed, building a new bridg across the river on First Street, thirty-two blocks of repaving in the business and residential areas, seventy blocks of black-top surfacing, building the most modern and efficient water treatment plant in the state, a new bath house and enlarging our park and playground areas, installed two new modern engines for the power plant, made extensive improvements to our airport, platted the new cemetary and built a reception vault, installed several miles of sewer and water mains, and many other improvements.

The cost of these projects runs into hundreds of thousands of dollars, all of which have been economically financed or paid for. We have never failed to meet bond payments with interest, promptly, and usually before they were due. We have continued to stay among the five municipalities in the state, in our population classification, with the lowest mill rate for city purposes.

The city mill rate of 145.09 for all purposes is distributed as follows: city purposes 18.0, county 64.16, school 56.89, state 6.84 and 4.58. For comparison purposes, this is how we compare with cities in our population class.

Thief River Falls .... 145.09 mills
Bemidji .... 189.34 mills
Alexandria .... 156.91 mills
Brainerd .... 163.4 mills
Detroit Lakes .... 166.72 mills
East Grand Forks .... 198.02 mills
Fergus Falls .... 187.02 mills
Willmar .... 189.55 mills

All activities and affairs of the city, whether they are for recreational purposes or a mjor utility improvement, are all serious and important business and should be handled as such.

We have several projects on the trestle board for next years work, such as street lighting, water and sewer mains extension, stormsewers, blacktopping of streets, baseball park, and several others, as well as the extension of improvements into the areas admitted into the city limits last wear.

At the beginning of my administration we had a backlog of several very important projects, this backlog was due to the war and scarcity of material. Some of these projects had been planned and partially started by previous administrations. We have proceeded in carrying out an overall long range program in catching up with the needs of a fast growing community.

In doing this we have tried to proceed as fast as we felt we could, reasonably and economically. But we know that some projects have necessarily been delayed or advanced in the overall schedule. The most important of these, I believe, is the extension of water, sanitary sewer and storm sewer mains.

Working together as a community group with all of our citizens interested in the city problems, and in this connection I would urge the use of a citizens advisory committee to study problems as they arise and help with long range planning, I am confident we will proceed economically and constructively.

I hope that this brief summery of part of the city affairs is informative to you and that my work in it has met with your approval. With your valued support and vote on November 3, we will continue to be progressive, keeping Thief River Fals in pace to meet the demands of its citizens and the vast agricultural andtrading area it serves.

Make it your business Tuesday to see that all voters in your family exercise their privilege to vote.

Very sincerely,
Harry E. Simons

1st City Traffic Death in 5 Years Recorded Oct. 31

James Wilson Succumbs to Injuries Suffered In Accident October 22

The first death attributable to a traffic mishap in Thief River Falls in the past five years was recorded early Saturday morning when James Wilson, 84, succumbed to injuries suffered when he was struck by a slow-moving car October 22 at the intersection of Main av. and Third st. He sustained a fractured hip in the accident.

A coroner's jury, convened Tuesday evening by Dr. Theodor Bratrud and County Attorney L. W. Bullen, after hearing testimony, returned a verdict that Mr. Wilson's death was due to bronchial pneumonia and a coronary attack. The verdict also absolved Robert Bell, driver of the car that hit Wilson, of any charge of negligence.

Funeral services were conducted this afternoon from the Anderson-McElwee chapel, with Rev. Alfred N. Larson officiating, and burial was in the Lutheran cemetery at Grygla.

Previous to coming to Thief River Falls about nine years ago, Mr. Wilson lived in Grygla, where he had served as postmaster for a period of 13 years.

Jr. Red Cross Opens Membership Drive

The annual membership drive of the American Junior Red Cross in Pennington county public and parochial schools began November 1st according to Mrs. Robert Nick, chairman of the Junior Red Cross.

Conducted on a nation-wide basis, the membership drive opened as Junior Red Cross members sign up fellow students in classroom units, at the regular fee of 50 cents for each classroom in elementary schools and $1 for a group of 100 or less in secondary schools. No individual fees are required and no one is excluded because he is unable to contribute toward group enrollment. All funds over enrollment fees go into the Junior Red Cross service fund, used to finance local, national and international Junior Red Cross programs which are not connected with disbursements of the adult Red Cross membership.

Last year the Pennington County Chapter contributed over $70 to the National Children's fund. The money from this fund is used to give extras to children in areas where disasters such as flood, fire and tornado destroy homes and schools anywhere in the United States. Over 200 gift boxes were packed with educational and health supplies for children in over-seas areas. Thank-you letters from grateful children in the Philippines and Turkey have been received by the schools of the county for Junior Red Cross gift boxes sent to these children following earthquake disasters in these countries. Members of the local school groups made and distributed holiday favors to the Oakland Park sanatorium, homes for the aged and Northwestern hospital.

"We want to see 100 per cent enrollment in all of Pennington's schools," Mrs. Nick said. "We believe that our children, realizing the vast accomplishments of the young Red Cross members in the past, will want to join the youth organization that has achieved such a fine record."

The Junior Red Cross work is carried on in the Thief River Falls schools under the leadership of Mrs. Ray P. Jude and in the rural schools of the county by Mrs. Edith Sandom, both of this city.

Carl Gjernes' Nephew Dies in Crash of Jet Airplane at Wilton

Second Lieut. Orville T. Halstengaard, 23, of Gary, Minnesota, was instantly killed last Friday when the jet plane he was flying on a routine mission out of Duluth crashed in a cornfield adjoining Highway 2 at Wilton, six miles west of Bemidji.

He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Halstengaard of Gary, formerly of Crookston, and a nephew of Mrs. Carl Gjernes of Thief River Falls. The Gjernes family attended funeral rites for the young airman at Gary this afternoon.

The pilot was attached to the 11th Fighter Interceptor Squadron, 515th Air Defense Group. He was married and living in Duluth while in service.

The first anyone knew that the U. S. Air Force jet plane was in the vicinity was when it streaked across the Bemidji airport, a U. S. Navy pilot training base, only a moment before it crashed.

Airport officials said it appeared the pilot was planning to land at the airport, but there were no indications he was in trouble.

No witnesses to the crash could be located, but several who had been in the vicinity said they heard a strong whistling sound immediately preceeding the loud explosion that occurred when the plane crashed.

The plane plunged into a field 50 yards north of Highway 2 and only about 100 yards east of the Wilton liquor store. The crash temporarily deprived the village of electricty and phone service, stopping clocks at 1:23 p. m.

The force of the crash, coupled with the explosion, created a 10-foot hole in which the largest part of the plane remained, although bits of the plane and the pilot's body were scattered across the highway and fields for a distance of 1,500 to 2,000 yards.

Rotors of the plane were found almost 2,000 yards from the spot where the craft hit the ground.

Lt. Halstengaard's death marks the third plane crash bringing death to members of the Gjernes family relationship. Their son, Orlin, died during World War II in a crash into the Atlantic Ocean near Miami, Florida, while Major Richard Bong, who was married to a niece of Mrs. Gjernes, also died in a plane crash after having shot down 40 Japanese planes in the late war.

Attend Rites for Accident Victim

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Knutson motored to Gary Monday to attend funeral services for the former's brother, Selmer Knutson, who was killed in an auto accident. The deceased was 40 years of age and is survived by his wife, eight children, three brothers, and four sisters. Lt. Orville Halstengaard, who was killed last week in the plane crash near Wilton, Minnesota, was a cousin of Mr. Knutson. Mr. and Mrs. Knutson were unable to attend the services for him at Gary today.

Changes Made in Airline Schedule

Plane for Minneapolis Now Leaves Here at 2:35

Under the revised schedule the northbound plane now leaves Minneapolis at 11:10 a. m., and arrives in this city at 1:19 p. m., 40 minutes later than before.

The southbound plane leaves Thief River Falls at 2:35 p. m., 35 minutes later than previously, and arrives in Minneapolis at 4:37. Under the new arrangement southbound air mail will be dispatched from the local postoffice at 2 p. m.

Mattews reported that the number of passengers boarding planes here dropped to 23 in October, while 31 landed at the airport. A total of 116 pounds of mail and 16 pounds of express was taken on at the airport, and 16 pounds of mail and 203 pounds of express was landed here.

Two Youths Face Traffic Charges

Two juvenile traffic violators were brought into juvenile court Tuesday. One 16-year-old driver was charged with weaving his car along the streets, failing to signal for left turn, and driving too fast around the corners. His driver's license was suspended for 30 days. A 17-year-old boy was brought in for driving 45 miles an hour down the parkway in a 30-mile zone. His license also was suspended for 30 days. Both were arrested by the state highway patrol.

Albino

Gopher?

Harry Myrom has been trapping gophers on his farm west of the city and has caught a lot of them. Last week his trap closed on an animal that had little resemblance to a Minnesota gopher, an entirely white, pink eyed albino. It had a tail like a rat but if it was caught in a gopher trap it must have been a gopher, so said Harry.

1954 DeSoto to Be Shown Thursday

Custom Motors to Show Greatly Improved Models

More glamour, more comfort, more performance are in store in the new 1954 DeSoto Automatic, which goes on display at Custom Motors in Thief River Falls Thursday, November 5th.

In combination with such previous DeSoto advancements as full-time power steering and power brakes, the 1954 DeSoto with PowerFlite is an "Automatic" automobile reaching new peaks in style, comfort and performance.

In the styling category, clean smooth-flowing body lines blend to produce a longer, wider car with a low, road-hugging look. A forward-motion styling theme dominates the exterior appearance of the new DeSoto from new "floating" grille and smoothly-contoured new bumper to distinctive new tail-light clusters.

Interior styling of the 1954 DeSoto is completely new. Interior colors are keyed to exterior finishes and new instrument panels and garnish mouldings are blended with over-all color schemes.

STUART McCLEOD

The Red River Valley Dairymen's association, at its annual meeting in Crookston last Wednesday, celebrated the golden anniversary of the founding of the organization in that city in 1903.

Stuart McLeod of Thief River Falls, who has served the association as president for a total of 25 years, was retained in office for another year, and in its closing session the board of directors voted to accept an invitation to hold its 1954 convention in Thief River Falls.

Other officers reelected include R. A. Stomnes of Crookston, vice president; H. A. Petry, Ada, secretary; G. M. Thompson, Ada, treasurer; Ole Oleson, Frazee, director, and C. M. Pesek, St. Paul, director-at-large.

At the anniversary banquet in the evening, 60 farmers from 15 counties received honor dairymen certificates for outstanding improvements in their operations. Tribute was paid to them by T. M. McCall, superintendent of Northwest School, and Lodie Zahradka of Oconomwoc Wisconsin.

Included in the group honored were Messrs. and Mmes. Christ Anton, Oscar Fosholm and Ole Skaar, all of rural Thief River Falls; Elmer Carlson, St. Hilaire; Harold Einerson, Goodridge; Albert Moe, Grygla; Harold Parkin, Angus; John Patnaude, Red Lake Falls; Elvin Peterson, Plummer; Harry O. Shern, Newfolden; George Spong, Oklee; Clarence Tangquist, Viking; and George and Hilda Hill, Middle River.

Principal speaker of the evening program was Archer Nelsen, administrator of the Rural Electrification Administration and former lieutenant governor of Minnesota, who traced the development of modern dairying through the spread of rural electric power.

"Like all farmers," Nelsen said, "the dairyman faces the problem of how to cut production costs so he can survive in a highly competitive market."

Nelson pointed to census figures that show farms equipped with milking machines in Minnesota jumped from 20 per cent of the total in 1945 to 36 per cent in 1950. Nearly two-thirds of the state's farms had electric water pumps in 1950, he added.

L. H. Conlon, director of the American Dairy Association in Minnesota, reviewed the history of the association.

Introduced at the meeting was a group of 30 southern Manitoba farmers who visited the convention in a body.

District winners in the annual butter contest included, from this locality, James Krogh, Argyle, Dist. A; Oscar J. Nelson, Roseau, B; Robert Qual, Grygla, C; and Marvin E. Bystol and Lawrence Anderson, both of Warren, tie in Dist. D. Leonard C. Lewis of Vergas topped the gold award winners with a perfect score of 100.

From the Lincoln Times, Lincolnton, N. C.: There are many parts of the country which suffered drought this year which still are tinder dry. As hunters take to the open fields and woodlands, they should take special precautions against starting fires which could destroy not only crops and timber but also the game which they have come to hunt.

The true sportsman, of course, observes all the laws—including the law of common sense. He is careful not only about fire hazards but also about the hunter on the other side of the field or woods, who may not be too careful where and when he shoots. Let good sense go along with good hunting.

From The Independent, Fuquay Springs, N. C.: The choice of Earl Warren of California as Chief Justice of the United States has met with almost universal approval. Democrats as well as Republicans have come to admire and respect the quiet, friendly, fair, and competent man who has been twice considered as a Republican presidential candidate. Adlai E. Stevenson, titular head of the Democratic party, said he thought the appointment an excellent one.

Warren will be the 14th Chief Justice in the history of the Supreme Court. He is the first to be appointed to the court by a Republican President since Herbert Hoover named Benjamin F. Cardoza of New York in 1932.

The Supreme Court occupies a special place in the respect and affection of Americans. It has traditionally been the safeguard of our liberties and Earl Warren will uphold that tradition. It is good to know that the vacancy left by the death of Chief Justice Vinson, a dedicated and gifted jurist, will be filled by such an able man.

Republicans Pick New Chairman of State Committee

Members of the Minnesota Republican state central committee elected two new state party officers at a meeting in Minneapolis last Saturday and approved steps which the party leaders believe will strengthen the organization and assure an aggressive campaign for next year's elections.

The committee by a unanimous vote chose Gordon Yock, Clara City business man and Chippewa county Republican chairman, as chairman of the Minnesota Republican state central committee, succeeding P. Kenneth Peterson, who has been chairman during the past three years. Peterson has resigned and will leave this week as a member of a commission appointed by the President to make a study of Near East Refugee problems.

Yock has been Chippewa county Republican chairman for the past four years and has been a leader in Republican activities throughout the 7th district. He is 46 and was born in Clara City. His father was a pioneer merchant, and Gordon followed in his footsteps. He established the Variety Supply Company, which now serves over 300 stores in six states.

Elected also as a state party officer was Mrs. C. R. Beattie, Red Wing, who was picked unanimously to fill the post of secretary of the central committee, succeeding Mrs. R. C. Andrews, who resigned recently when appointed state law librarian. Mrs. Beattie has been Goodhue county Republican chairwoman for the past two years and before that was Red Wing city Republican chairwoman for two years.

The central committee approved dates for caucuses and conventions: Precinct caucuses, March 29th; county conventions, April 24th; district conventions, May 5th; state convention, September 18th.

With the County Agent

By William Penning
Pennington Co. Agent

November is the month for a nation-wide campaign to "clean house" in rats. Cities, towns and farms all over the nation are starting a drive to wipe out rats. Do you realize, that when one community starts a rat clean up campaign the surrounding area is found to clean up also? If you don't make it unhealthly around your farm for rats, you will find your neighbors' rats paying a permanent visit.

Let's just take a look at the damage one rat can cause. One rat costs $2 a year for the feed it eats. He is very likely to contaminate at least another $20 worth. Each rat in a grain storage building for one year sheds about a million hairs (Would you like to find a rat hair in your cereal tomorrow morning) and voids about 10,000 droppings and a gallon of urine. As many as 10,000 lice have been found on a single rat. They carry fleas and mites. One pair of rats may raise 50 more rats in a year. For every rat you see, there are 10 or 12 more you don't see.

With the government programs in effect today, farmers are building more on farm storage. With more grain stored on the farm you farmers are more responsible for keeping the food supply of the nation clean. There are many ways to do it. The expense will be paid back many times by less waste of stored grain alone. The time involved will be richly rewarded by making your farm a cleaner more healthful place in which to live.

Rats cannot be exterminated in one month, or year; but in time they can be reduced to a minimum. By using a new chemical, Warfarin, it becomes much more possible to kill all rats if a continuous campaign is used. I have many bulletins in the office that will give you good ideas on rat extermination and rat proofing of farm buildings.

Come in and pick up some of these ideas for better grain storage.

What a fix we'd all be in without those standards of measurement for the goods you buy and sell. Imagine the confusion, waste and doubt in business transactions if we didn't have accepted standards of weights and measures—known values.

We believe it is just as necessary for us to tell you what you get for your advertising dollars, in terms of known circulation value, as it is for you to do business with your customers on the basis of recognized standards. That's why this newspaper is a member of the Audit Bureau of Circulations.

WHAT IS THE A.B.C.? The Bureau is a cooperative and nonprofit association of 3450 publishers, advertising agencies and advertisers in the United States and Canada. Organized in 1914, A.B.C. brought order out of advertising chaos by establishing a definition for paid circulation, rules and standards for measuring, auditing and reporting the circulations of newspapers and periodicals.

WHAT A.B.C. DOES FOR YOU. At regular intervals one of the Bureau's large staff of experienced circulation auditors comes to our office and makes a thorough audit of our circulation records. He has access to all of our books and records to obtain the FACTS that tell you what you get for your money when you advertise in this newspaper.
